Drouth Alert Is Sounded For State's Farmers

LSU Entomologist Says Situation May Be Critical

BATON ROUGE, June 20 (AP) — Louisiana farmers, plagued by floods earlier in the planting season, may soon be facing a critical drouth, an entomologist warned today.

"Some sections of the state are suffering considerably right now," reported Kirby Cockerham, entomologist at the Louisiana State University agricultural extension service. "It's about at the critical stage now, and there's a need for more rain."

Cockerham said that sugar cane and corn are suffering from heat and dryness in the lush Delta parishes along the Mississippi River above Baton Rouge.

"I wouldn't say the crops are threatened," he explained, "but if rain doesn't fall within 10 days the situation will be serious. Crop growth is being retarded and held up for lack of moisture.

"The older corn in particular is in a bad way, but a good rain would save it."

According to the U. S. Weather Bureau at Harding Field, Louisiana has not had a substantial downpour since torrential storms wrought havoc on the state in early May.

"The state's about four inches behind its normal five inch rainfall for June," the weatherman said. "There were some scattered showers throughout the state on June 11-12, but only a half inch fell. The storms were mostly localized things, hitting in some places and missing others not 10 miles away."

Cockerham said the hardest hit section in the current drouth were the fertile Delta lands in East and West Feliciana Parishes.

He reported one good effect from the abnormal June heat, however.

"The boll weevil menace that usually hit our cotton about this time is falling off," the entomologist said. "Daily reports from the fields show that weevil infestation has dropped considerably in the last two weeks.

The weatherman saw little relief in sight for the sun-scorched fields.

"A few showers spotted over wide area Sunday night and Monday," he predicted, "but not much relief from that, hardly enough to make any difference."

Pilot With 100 Combat Missions Dies In Trainer

JACKSON, Miss., June 20 (AP)—An Air Force flyer, who flew 100 combat missions in Korea without a scratch, and his pupil, both Mississippians, were killed in an Arizona training crash.

First Lt. Kenneth Carleton, 26, Forest, the instructor, and Second Lt. Edward Mobley, 26, Jackson, his student, died yesterday in the accident seven miles west of the Gila Bend Air Force Base.

Notification of the deaths was received today by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Carleton of Forest and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mobley of Jackson.

Mobley, a graduate of Mississippi College, received his jet pilot wings at Laredo, Te., last December. He had received more training and had planned to arrive here next week for a two week visit before going to Korea.

Airmen Charged With Robbery At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, June 20—UP—Three airmen from Keesler Air Force Base at Biloxi, Miss., faced charges here Saturday of the armed robbery of a local pharmacy.

Police identified the three as John Kenneth Goretske, 17, Clyde Spoonamore, 19, and George Joseph Tamato Jr., 21.

The pharmacy was robbed of $54.73 by two youths who, after sipping soft drinks, pulled out a gun and rifled the cash register.

The young airmen were returned here after air police at Keesler said they had discovered information about the crime.

Taft Sees No T-H Law Fight

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today that organized labor is "getting used to" the Taft-Hartley Act and he believes amendments can be approved by Congress next year without a major fight.

The Ohio senator said in an interview he thinks Secretary of Labor Durkin will be able to agree with congressional leaders on possibly 15 amendments to the act which can be offered as the administration's proposals.

Although a bill may be drafted and placed before congressional committees, Taft said House leaders indicated they don't expect to act on it in this session.

As the result of a White House conference Friday among President Eisenhower, Durkin and legislators, Taft said he thinks amendments "leaning in the direction of labor" will be produced.

He said most of them will not be controversial, adding that the "toughest question" involves the issue of keeping federal law superior to state labor acts, with the exception of police powers, picketing regulations and some other matters.

"I was glad to see that Secretary Durkin preferred the Taft-Hartley Act to letting the matter rest with the states," Taft said. "The truth is both sides have got used to operations of the act and I think they would rather go along with it than to have a new law.

"I suppose we could leave the act alone, just as it stands, and not have anybody kick too much. But I think we will bring out the amendments and look toward support of them by the labor people."

Czech Dropped From Communist Party Committee

VIENNA, Austria, June 20—UP—Czech Communist minister of education Ernest Skyora has been dropped as a member of the central committee of the Slovak Communist party, the newspaper "Zemedelske Noviny" said Saturday.

The weekly Czech newspaper arrived here and carried a list of 79 central committee members—instead of the 80 provided for by the party constitution.

The 79 members were re-elected at the 10th Slovak party congress at Bratislava last month, the newspaper said.

Spring Broils Out; Summer Starts Today

Summer, which is defined as the hottest period of the year, will arrive officially at 11 a. m. today. But spring got in a final lick with the heat yesterday that may raise some doubt about Mr. Webster's definition.

The heat yesterday between 3 and 4 p.m. sent the stylus on the temperature meter in front of city hall off of the graph. The graph registers temperatures up to 110 degrees. High point on the day's reading was approximately two degrees distance above the top line of the graph, or 112 degrees.

The high reading at Selman Field was 101 degrees.

Crowds Maintain Vigil Near Bier Of Rosenbergs

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—The bodies of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg lay in a Brooklyn funeral home tonight while sympathizers planned hero burials for the executed atom spies.

A growing crowd stood vigil outside the chapel after the bodies were brought in a black station wagon from Sing Sing Prison.

A six-man police squad was dispatched to the scene, and Assistant Inspector David Condon said 200 others were in reserve against possible disturbances.

A wave of demonstrations, many of which were marked by violence, was reported throughout the world before and after the executions yesterday.

The bodies were brought here in cloth prison bags after being claimed by Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg, 71-year-old mother of the man who was convicted of conspiring to give atom secrets to Russia.

They were laid in open oak caskets in a 500 capacity chapel.

A committee handling arrangements said it was the largest funeral chapel in the Manhattan-Brooklyn area.

Orthodox Jewish services were planned at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

The bodies were laid out in white muslin shrouds. The husband was also clothed in a prayer shawl and cap.

Four Drowned In Mississippi

MONTICELLO, Miss., June 20 (AP)—Two Lawrence County farmers and two boys drowned in the Pearl River about 12 miles south of here when their fishing boat overturned, Sheriff N. S. Lambert said today.

Lambert identified the victims as Everett Brister, 40, of the Divide Church community; Willard Barnett, 35, also of Divide, and Barnett's two sons, Charles, 12, and Billy, 5.

The sheriff said two other boys in the boat were rescued.

The bodies were recovered early today with the aid of the Natchez fire department and the state highway patrol, Lambert said.

Funeral services for Brister, who is survived by his wife and three children, will be held tomorrow near here.

Barnett is survived by his wife and five other children. Funeral arrangements for him and his two sons were incomplete.

The Monroe Morning World asks that donations to the Marie Johnston Iron Lung Fund stop immediately because more than enough funds have been raised to purchase the iron lung. Generous and kind people from throughout northeast Louisiana continued to flood the paper's offices Saturday after being informed Friday afternoon that the quota had been raised.

It is hoped that Marie can be brought to Delhi in a little more than a week from the New Orleans Charity hospital. The lung will be ordered as soon as the material arrives from her physician in New Orleans specifying the type of lung which she will need.

As of Saturday noon the original quota had been surpassed to an overall total of more than $2,500. An exact accounting of all money

Witness Missing In Senate Probe

NEW ORLEANS, June 20 (AP)—A key witness in next week's Senate committee's investigation of conditions on the New Orleans waterfront was reported missing today by Downey Rice, chief counsel for the committee.

Rice identified the witness as Issac Jones, St. Bernard Parish Negro.

Rice and Murray Jackson, chief of a four-man advance team of investigators, said that efforts have been made for the pas week or 10 days to locate Jones.

"He's obviously avoiding service," Rice said.

Rice said Jones was chairman of the relief committee of Local 1419, General Longshoremen's Association (CIO). The local is composed of Negro members of the longshoremen's union in New Orleans.

"He is involved in some financial transactions in which we are interested," Rice said.

Chief investigator Jackson said the relief committee of which Jones was chairman was "supposed to furnish financial benefits to the sick and indigent members of the union."

The senate committee, headed by Sen. Tobey (R-NH), will investigate rackets on the city's waterfront.

Scope Of Putsch Is Admitted By Eastern Leaders

BERLIN, June 20 (AP) — Communist raiding parties rocketed through rebellious East Germany tonight in the greatest police action the Germans have seen since Hitler smashed the bomb attempt on his life in 1944.

Russian and East German Communist secret police were seeking workers who blew a virtual civil war into the open last Wednesday with strikes, arson and bare-handed rioting against Red rule.

Three thousand men were reported jailed in East Berlin and untold thousands in the surrounding Soviet zone from the Oder to the Elbe.

An American student arrested in East Berlin during Wednesday's rioting was finally released and returned safely to the U. S. Sector tonight. He was Rudolph Kass, 22, Cedarhurst, N. Y., who is enrolled at the Free University in West Berlin.

American authorities took up the case with the Russians after Kass was reported seized with two fellow students while they were taking pictures.

The Communists admitted publicly tonight for the first time that there had been a putsch (rebellion) in East Germany. They had referred to it previously as a series of disturbances.

An official party report said the group of iron ore mines at Gera was one of the targets of the putsch. Another target was the Gib Buna synthetic rubber plant at Halle, the party said.

The Red news Agency ADN reported that "an agent of the so-called Fighting Group Against Inhumanity," an anti-Communist West Berlin organization, had been arrested in Dessau on the Elbe "with considerable Western cash." ADN said he faced Soviet execution.

Loyalty Probe Fails To Find Any New Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—The million dollar loyalty probe of the 1,800 Americans working for the United Nations is more than half completed. So far it has not turned up new subversives or disloyal personnel, U. N. circles said today.

U. S. civil service and the FBI are checking the records. Nothing official is to be announced until the check is completed, perhaps in mid-August.

The U. N. has turned over to the U. S. delegation the fingerprints and personal histories of every American working for the Secretariat except eight persons—one a newly-naturalized citizen and the others U. N. personnel on duty with the United States armed forces. U. N. officials believe the Americans can find those in the armed forces quicker than the U. N. can at this time.

The loyalty probe began last winter when charges were made in Washington that the U. N. harbored a nest of spies and subversives. As a result of investigations by Washington committees and federal bodies in New York, about 30 Americans have been fired from the U. N. or have resigned.

The check on every American working here began as soon as the Eisenhower administration took office. The million dollars needed to finance the job was provided by the U. S. government.

The reports checked by the Civil Service Commission mostly concern stenographers, porters, messengers, clerks and secretarial help. The higher categories of workers are being investigated by the FBI.

Far East Command Warned In Advance On POWs' Release

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 20 — UP — Officials of the Eisenhower administration warned Far East military commanders in advance that Syngman Rhee might release North Korean prisoners of war and received assurances precautions had been taken, informed sources revealed Saturday.

Informants at the United Nations said a "specific" advance warning was sent to be on the lookout for the move Rhee took Thursday. These sources did not say when the warning was made.

The reply that steps had been taken to meet such an eventuality apparently was based on a "personal commitment" Rhee made to the UN commander, Gen. Mark W. Clark, informants said. This commitment was a promise not to release anti-Communist prisoners.

But the Rhee regime did an about face and ordered release of the North Koreans. More than 25,000 broke from the POW camps and scattered through South Korea.

In addition to receiving the commitment broken by Rhee, Clark also took the precaution of moving in some non-Korean reinforcements to key spots. But they were not enough to stop the escapees once the South Korean troops dropped their guard responsibilities.

Informants said that in fairness to Far East military leaders, it should be pointed out that many officials in Washington had been optimistically saying that Rhee's tough talk was just a bluff.

New Red Drive Is Expected

SEOUL, Sunday, June 21 (AP) — Chinese Red troops, bolstered by two fresh divisions of about 16,000 men, felt out South Korean positions Saturday in Pukhan River sector of East-Central Korea as if preparing a new drive south.

The Reds abruptly broke off last Thursday attacks which had gouged out a two-mile bulge in the Allied main line. This sudden quiet coincided so closely with reports of imminent armistice agreement at Panmunjom that the two were taken to be related.

Since then South Korea's release of more than 26,000 anti-Red Korean prisoners in violation of the truce terms raised a new crisis in the bid for a cease-fire.

Saturday U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Chinese had moved in at least two divisions to reinforce and replace others chewed up by artillery, infantry and air power in East-Central Korea. Chinese patrols repeatedly probed South Korean positions for a weak spot in the new line.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said 19 Allied planes were lost last week, the biggest single total of the war. Of these, 12 were Sabre jets but the Air Force said none of the 19 was lost during sky combats in which 19 Red MIGs were downed.

Fourteen were victims of Red anti-aircraft guns. Five were lost to "other causes," usually a reference to mechanical difficulties.

Asks Treatment, Gets Ten Years

OPELOUSAS, La., June 20—UP—A blonde, 29-year-old Sioux City, Ia., woman, who sought hospitalization for dope addiction, was sentenced Friday to 10 years at hard labor in the state penitentiary for violating the narcotics law.

Dolores Thomas said in court that she is a dope addict and should be sent to a hospital for treatment.

Three doctors who examined her said, however, that she needed treatment but was not a confirmed addict. Following the medical report, District Attorney J. Y. Fontenot said he could make "no recommendations" about the disposition of the case.

Judge Lessley Gardiner told the woman, "I have no alternative under the provisions of the law but to sentence you."

$500 REWARD OFFERED

JACKSON, Miss., June 20 (AP)—Local newspaper carried advertisement tonight offering $500 reward for the return of 15 $100 bill lost here.

Taft Denounces U. S.'s Aircraft Program Abroad

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) says it is "ridiculous" to claim that the U. S. is saving money by financing the manufacture of fighter planes in Britain and France under the foreign aid program.

The Senate Republican leader, in testimony made public today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, contended that such overseas purchases are only another form of economic aid which he said will be used "for socialistic purposes in England and for something else in France."

The committee reported that in the current fiscal year ending June 30, contracts were let for 272 million dollars worth of equipment in Britain, and 263 million in France, largely planes.

Comdr. Paul Danforth of the Office of Chief of Naval Operations told the committee that there was "a substantial saving" in the cost of the items bought abroad over the cost of producing them in this country.

Taft said this would be a saving only if the equipment were paid for in local currencies.

"Actually," he said, "we don't save anything. We buy them (planes). We give them the dollars. It is a present from us for something that they themselves can make with their own dollars without affecting in any way their exchange position."

Weed Destroyer Damages Cotton

MELVILLE, La., June 20—UP—Dave L. Pearce, state commissioner of agriculture, told a meeting of farmers here that 2-4-d, a weed-killing chemical, has inflicted a "terrible tragedy" on cotton crops in the area of the Morganza floodway.

In describing the damage as the most serious that has occurred in this country, Pearce said that situation each day "looks a little worse."

W. B. Dodd of New Orleans, attorney for the engineers, said he could not understand how the 2-4-D spread as far as it did. He said wind velocity was not more than 12 miles per hour at the time of the spraying.

Col. Charles Tench, U. S. district engineer of New Orleans, has ordered an investigation on the extent and cause of damage to determine the responsibility and liability.

U. N. Ponders Details Of Bid For Crackdown

Fate Of Truce Negotiations Still In Doubt

SEOUL, Sunday, June 21 (AP)—Communist-hating Korean prisoners staged another break for freedom last night and fanned anew the explosive crisis involving the United Nations, the Communists and the South Korean government.

Between 200 and 300 prisoners fled their stockade at Sang-Mudai and melted into the countryside. They joined about 26,000 others who have escaped since South Korean guards, acting on direct orders of fiery President Syngman Rhee, turned the first hordes loose Wednesday midnight.

The new break came on the heels of an announcement by the U. N. Command that patrols of American soldiers beating the bushes for escapees have recaptured only 58 since dawn Thursday. Another 971 were nabbed in the first few hours of the breakout.

That leaves the UNC with the virtually impossible task of rounding up some 25,000 men rapidly being absorbed into the South Korean populace.

Red truce negotiators Saturday demanded that these men be recaptured immediately.

But the South Korean government apparently is going all-out to insure that the escapees find permanent sanctuary.

A youth organization, believed to be controlled by Rhee, announced it would brand as a "traitor" any Korean who helped capture any of the 25,000 men still at large.

An American officer in Pusan said most telephone calls over the U. S. Army lines between Seoul and Pusan were being tapped by South Korean government agents. He declared "we didn't know before we had friendly enemies."

Another American said the ROK government has drafted nearly all Korean interpreters and other essential Koreans working in an important section of the U. S. Army intelligence organization.

MUNSAN, Sunday, June 21 (AP)—The U. N. Command today pondered Communist demands for a crackdown on South Korean President Syngman Rhee's government, and also a Red hint that a Korean armistice agreement was possible without the southern republic's signature.

Without closing the door on an armistice, Communist leaders in a tense plenary session of truce negotiators yesterday at Panmunjom bitterly assailed Rhee's arbitrary action freeing 26,000 anti-Red war prisoners this week.

U. S. Defense Experts Ask Funds to Counter Red Gains

Guided Missiles Cause Concern

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—U. S. defense leaders convinced that Soviet Russia is making spectacular progress on guided missiles, will spend more than a billion dollars in this field during the next year.

This became known today with the release of testimony by defense experts asking approval of the multibillion dollar military program for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Guided missiles are the most promising of many new weapons expected to be used in future warfare and all three services are developing them.

Col. J. L. Zoeckler, Air Force witness discussed Russian efforts on guided missiles at a closed-door session of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee and parts of his testimony were cleared for publication today.

He recalled that Communist Russia captured many top German scientists including guided missile experts, saying:

"Since the Soviets fell heir to considerable German talent in this field, and have demonstrated an ability to solve other critical problems, we would be foolhardy not to give them credit for having an equal surprise capability."

He also told senators that guided missiles have "two simple purposes:

"First to carry bombs to enemy targets, and second, to knock down enemy aircraft."

"The Air Force has two principal types," he continued, "pilotless aircraft types, which are essentially high performance aircraft, and guided aircraft rockets which give great promise of improving our existing aircraft armament."

All witnesses agreed that these new air weapons are complex and costly.

Col. Zoeckler said the Air Force needed 405 million dollars in new funds for these automatic new automatic weapons.

Rear Adm. T. S. Combs of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics testified that the Navy would spend 115 million dollars developing and producing its special guided missiles.

Marie Will Be Able To Come Home

Marie will come home to her family and friends.

The Monroe Morning World asks that donations to the Marie Johnston Iron Lung Fund stop immediately because more than enough funds have been raised to purchase the iron lung. Generous and kind people from throughout northeast Louisiana continued to flood the paper's offices Saturday after being informed Friday afternoon that the quota had been raised.

It is hoped that Marie can be brought to Delhi in a little more than a week from the New Orleans Charity hospital. The lung will be ordered as soon as the material arrives from her physician in New Orleans specifying the type of lung which she will need.

As of Saturday noon the original quota had been surpassed to an overall total of more than $2,500. An exact accounting of all money

Witness Missing In Senate Probe

NEW ORLEANS, June 20 (AP)—A key witness in next week's Senate committee's investigation of conditions on the New Orleans waterfront was reported missing today by Downey Rice, chief counsel for the committee.

Rice identified the witness as Issac Jones, St. Bernard Parish Negro.

Rice and Murray Jackson, chief of a four-man advance team of investigators, said that efforts have been made for the pas week or 10 days to locate Jones.

"He's obviously avoiding service," Rice said.

Rice said Jones was chairman of the relief committee of Local 1419, General Longshoremen's Association (CIO). The local is composed of Negro members of the longshoremen's union in New Orleans.

"He is involved in some financial transactions in which we are interested," Rice said.

Chief investigator Jackson said the relief committee of which Jones was chairman was "supposed to furnish financial benefits to the sick and indigent members of the union."

The senate committee, headed by Sen. Tobey (R-NH), will investigate rackets on the city's waterfront.

Scope Of Putsch Is Admitted By Eastern Leaders

BERLIN, June 20 (AP) — Communist raiding parties rocketed through rebellious East Germany tonight in the greatest police action the Germans have seen since Hitler smashed the bomb attempt on his life in 1944.

Russian and East German Communist secret police were seeking workers who blew a virtual civil war into the open last Wednesday with strikes, arson and barehanded rioting against Red rule.

Three thousand men were reported jailed in East Berlin and untold thousands in the surrounding Soviet zone from the Oder to the Elbe.

An American student arrested in East Berlin during Wednesday's rioting was finally released and returned safely to the U. S. Sector tonight. He was Rudolph Kass, 22, Cedarhurst, N. Y., who is enrolled at the Free University in West Berlin.

The Communists admitted publicly tonight for the first time that there had been a putsch (rebellion) in East Germany. They had referred to it previously as a series of disturbances.

An official party report said the group of iron ore mines at Gera was one of the targets of the putsch. Another target was the Gib Buna synthetic rubber plant at Halle, the party said.

The Red news Agency ADN reported that "an agent of the so-called Fighting Group Against Inhumanity," an anti-Communist West Berlin organization, had been arrested in Dessau on the Elbe "with considerable Western cash." ADN said he faced Soviet execution.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—The million dollar loyalty probe of the 1,800 Americans working for the United Nations is more than half completed. So far it has not turned up new subversives or disloyal personnel, U. N. circles said today.

U. S. civil service and the FBI are checking the records. Nothing official is to be announced until the check is completed, perhaps in mid-August.

The U. N. has turned over to the U. S. delegation the fingerprints and personal histories of every American working for the Secretariat except eight persons—one a newly-naturalized citizen and the others U. N. personnel on duty with the United States armed forces. U. N. officials believe the Americans can find those in the armed forces quicker than the U. N. can at this time.

The loyalty probe began last winter when charges were made in Washington that the U. N. harbored a nest of spies and subversives. As a result of investigations by Washington committees and federal bodies in New York, about 30 Americans have been fired from the U. N. or have resigned.

The check on every American working here began as soon as the Eisenhower administration took office. The million dollars needed to finance the job was provided by the U. S. government.

The reports checked by the Civil Service Commission mostly concern stenographers, porters, messengers, clerks and secretarial help. The higher categories of workers are being investigated by the FBI.

More Prisoners Escape, Fanning Crisis In Korea

Far East Command Warned In Advance On POWs' Release

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 20 — UP — Officials of the Eisenhower administration warned Far East military commanders in advance that Syngman Rhee might release North Korean prisoners of war and received assurances precautions had been taken, informed sources revealed Saturday.

Informants at the United Nations said a "specific" advance warning was sent to be on the lookout for the move Rhee took Thursday. These sources did not say when the warning was made.

The reply that steps had been taken to meet such an eventuality apparently was based on a "personal commitment" Rhee made to the UN commander, Gen. Mark W. Clark, informants said. This commitment was a promise not to release anti-Communist prisoners.

But the Rhee regime did an about face and ordered release of the North Koreans. More than 25,000 broke from the POW camps and scattered through South Korea.

In addition to receiving the commitment broken by Rhee, Clark also took the precaution of moving in some non-Korean reinforcements to key spots. But they were not enough to stop the escapees once the South Korean troops dropped their guard responsibilities.

Informants said that in fairness to Far East military leaders, it should be pointed out that many officials in Washington had been optimistically saying that Rhee's tough talk was just a bluff.

New Red Drive Is Expected

SEOUL, Sunday, June 21 (AP) — Chinese Red troops, bolstered by two fresh divisions of about 16,000 men, felt out South Korean positions Saturday in Pukhan River sector of East-Central Korea as if preparing a new drive south.

The Reds abruptly broke off last Thursday attacks which had gouged out a two-mile bulge in the Allied main line. This sudden quiet coincided so closely with reports of imminent armistice agreement at Panmunjom that the two were taken to be related.

Since then South Korea's release of more than 26,000 anti-Red Korean prisoners in violation of the truce terms raised a new crisis in the bid for a cease-fire.

Saturday U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Chinese had moved in at least two divisions to reinforce and replace others chewed up by artillery, infantry and air power in East-Central Korea. Chinese patrols repeatedly probed South Korean positions for a weak spot in the new line.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said 19 Allied planes were lost last week, the biggest single total of the war. Of these, 12 were Sabre jets but the Air Force said none of the 19 was lost during sky combats in which 19 Red MIGs were downed.

Fourteen were victims of Red anti-aircraft guns. Five were lost to "other causes," usually a reference to mechanical difficulties.

Asks Treatment, Gets Ten Years

OPELOUSAS, La., June 20—UP—A blonde, 29-year-old Sioux City, Ia., woman, who sought hospitalization for dope addiction, was sentenced Friday to 10 years at hard labor in the state penitentiary for violating the narcotics law.

Dolores Thomas said in court that she is a dope addict and should be sent to a hospital for treatment.

Three doctors who examined her said, however, that she needed treatment but was not a confirmed addict. Following the medical report, District Attorney J. Y. Fontenot said he could make "no recommendations" about the disposition of the case.

Judge Lessley Gardiner told the woman, "I have no alternative under the provisions of the law but to sentence you."

$500 REWARD OFFERED

JACKSON, Miss., June 20 (AP)—Local newspaper carried advertisement tonight offering $500 reward for the return of 15 $100 bill lost here.

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) says it is "ridiculous" to claim that the U. S. is saving money by financing the manufacture of fighter planes in Britain and France under the foreign aid program.

The Senate Republican leader, in testimony made public today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, contended that such overseas purchases are only another form of economic aid which he said will be used "for socialistic purposes in England and for something else in France."

The committee reported that in the current fiscal year ending June 30, contracts were let for 272 million dollars worth of equipment in Britain, and 263 million in France, largely planes.

Comdr. Paul Danforth of the Office of Chief of Naval Operations told the committee that there was "a substantial saving" in the cost of the items bought abroad over the cost of producing them in this country.

Taft said this would be a saving only if the equipment were paid for in local currencies.

"Actually," he said, "we don't save anything. We buy them (planes). We give them the dollars. It is a present from us for something that they themselves can make with their own dollars without affecting in any way their exchange position."

Weed Destroyer Damages Cotton

MELVILLE, La., June 20—UP—Dave L. Pearce, state commissioner of agriculture, told a meeting of farmers here that 2-4-d, a weed-killing chemical, has inflicted a "terrible tragedy" on cotton crops in the area of the Morganza floodway.

In describing the damage as the most serious that has occurred in this country, Pearce said that situation each day "looks a little worse."

W. B. Dodd of New Orleans, attorney for the engineers, said he could not understand how the 2-4-D spread as far as it did. He said wind velocity was not more than 12 miles per hour at the time of the spraying.

Col. Charles Tench, U. S. district engineer of New Orleans, has ordered an investigation on the extent and cause of damage to determine the responsibility and liability.

U. N. Ponders Details Of Bid For Crackdown

Fate Of Truce Negotiations Still In Doubt

SEOUL, Sunday, June 21 (AP)—Communist-hating Korean prisoners staged another break for freedom last night and fanned anew the explosive crisis involving the United Nations, the Communists and the South Korean government.

Between 200 and 300 prisoners fled their stockade at Sang-Mudai and melted into the countryside. They joined about 26,000 others who have escaped since South Korean guards, acting on direct orders of fiery President Syngman Rhee, turned the first hordes loose Wednesday midnight.

The new break came on the heels of an announcement by the U. N. Command that patrols of American soldiers beating the bushes for escapees have recaptured only 58 since dawn Thursday. Another 971 were nabbed in the first few hours of the breakout.

That leaves the UNC with the virtually impossible task of rounding up some 25,000 men rapidly being absorbed into the South Korean populace.

But the South Korean government apparently is going all-out to insure that the escapees find permanent sanctuary.

A youth organization, believed to be controlled by Rhee, announced it would brand as a "traitor" any Korean who helped capture any of the 25,000 men still at large.

An American officer in Pusan said most telephone calls over the U. S. Army lines between Seoul and Pusan were being tapped by South Korean government agents. He declared "we didn't know before we had friendly enemies."

Another American said the ROK government has drafted nearly all Korean interpreters and other essential Koreans working in an important section of the U. S. Army intelligence organization.

MUNSAN, Sunday, June 21 (AP)—The U. N. Command today pondered Communist demands for a crackdown on South Korean President Syngman Rhee's government, and also a Red hint that a Korean armistice agreement was possible without the southern republic's signature.

Without closing the door on an armistice, Communist leaders in a tense plenary session of truce negotiators yesterday at Panmunjom bitterly assailed Rhee's arbitrary action freeing 26,000 anti-Red war prisoners this week.

The straight news dispatches have been accompanied by other comment including a report from Washington to the effect diplomatic circles there believe the United States will be blamed if an armistice is not concluded.

U. S. Defense Experts Ask Funds to Counter Red Gains

Guided Missiles Cause Concern

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—U. S. defense leaders convinced that Soviet Russia is making spectacular progress on guided missiles, will spend more than a billion dollars in this field during the next year.

This became known today with the release of testimony by defense experts asking approval of the multibillion dollar military program for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Guided missiles are the most promising of many new weapons expected to be used in future warfare and all three services are developing them.

Col. J. L. Zoeckler, Air Force witness discussed Russian efforts on guided missiles at a closed-door session of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee and parts of his testimony were cleared for publication today.

He recalled that Communist Russia captured many top German scientists including guided missile experts, saying:

"Since the Soviets fell heir to considerable German talent in this field, and have demonstrated an ability to solve other critical problems, we would be foolhardy not to give them credit for having an equal surprise capability."

He also told senators that guided missiles have "two simple purposes:

"First to carry bombs to enemy targets, and second, to knock down enemy aircraft."

"The Air Force has two principal types," he continued, "pilotless aircraft types, which are essentially high performance aircraft, and guided aircraft rockets which give great promise of improving our existing aircraft armament."

All witnesses agreed that these new air weapons are complex and costly.

Col. Zoeckler said the Air Force needed 405 million dollars in new funds for these automatic new automatic weapons.

Let's Not Lose Sight Of The 7 Basic Foods

During the war when the survival of our country depended not only on the physical stamina of the armed forces, but on that of the civilian population as well, we heard a great deal about the Basic seven Foods. Since we are not engaged in a full fledged fighting war we hear less about these important foods.

For purely selfish reasons you should know about them. These are the seven essential classes of food which we need daily for proper nourishment.

First are the green, leafy, and yellow vegetables. These can be raw, cooked, canned or frozen. You should have one or two servings daily. Naturally two are better than one.

The second group consists of citrus fruits, tomatoes, and raw cabbage. You should have one or more servings a day, or drink citrus fruit juice.

Group three: Potatoes and other vegetables and fruits. This includes those vegetables and fruits not mentioned in the preceeding two groups.

Group four: Milk and milk products; Whole, skimmed, condensed, dried or evaporated milk, or buttermilk, cheese, ice cream. These foods are important because of their calcium content. On the basis of calcium content you can substitute for one cup of milk, one ounce of cheddar cheese, four ounces of cream type, or 12 ounces of cottage cheese. However, unless there is some individual reason not to do so every adult should have at least a pint of milk daily.

The fifth group: that all important protein group; meat, poultry, eggs, fish, nuts, and dried peas and beans. If possible you should have one serving daily of meat, poultry or fish, and also three or more eggs a week (five or more is better), and dried beans or peas or nuts two or three times weekly.

Group six: Bread, flour and cereals. These should be enriched, restored or whole grain. We require two or more servings a day, a serving meaning two slices of bread or the equivalent.

Group seven: Fats, butter or fortified margarine.

These Basic Seven Food groups will provide you with essential protein, carbohydrate, fat, minerals and vitamins. Be certain that your daily menus give you and your family an adequate amount of food from each group.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Vitamin Defense" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. 37, to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Basic Materials Producers Push Prices Upward

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Producers of some major basis materials boosted prices this week as the industrial boom rolled along at near-record speed.

Steel and oil increases got top billing. Added to recent weeks in basic industrial chemicals, they mean that operative costs will rise in many plants that make consumer products.

In turn, you may pay more for many things you buy.

Already some gasoline prices are up a cent a gallon. And there is talk about higher tags on major electrical appliances, which use considerable amounts of steel.

However, manufacturers may be expected to move cautiously on price policy.

One reason is: supply in many lines has just about balanced demand, and any price rise can be expected to reduce demand somewhat. The problem of the producer, now faced by higher material and wage costs and stiff competitive conditions, is to determine how much he can boost prices and still have enough of a market to sustain production at a profitable level.

Output totals still are running at near record rates. But many analysts have forecast a slight falling-off later this year, even with prices stable.

Thus, decreased demand could hasten a testing of the ability of business and industry to maintain their present pace.

Auto output climbed to 170,686 passenger cars and trucks; steel increased to 2,226,000 tons; crude oil advanced to a daily average of 6,387,000 barrels; electric power was the highest since the week of Dec. 20, totaling 8,244,852,000 kilowatt hours.

Soft coal production at 9,360,000 tons was the highest since January, and freight carloadings went up to 747,425 cars, the biggest total for any week since Nov. 22.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: I divorced my husband three years ago at which time he was ordered to pay support money for our child. I had to fight and beg for every payment. Then he fell behind, claiming he was sick, while I know he was just drunk. I had him sent to jail. As soon as I did this the young man whom I was dating dropped me like a hotcake. A few young men with whom I went to school and often chatted with in the corner grocery store now turn their backs on me; the owner is cool toward me, too. The children at school torment my child and call her the "jail bird's bird." My mother is angry because she counted on me marrying the man who dropped me so she could move away and stop caring for my child while I work.

I visited my former husband in jail and he refused to talk to me or look at me. I think I am the lonliest person in the world. For our child's sake I would gladly try our marriage again as my husband was always gentle and kind even when drunk, if only I could depend on him to stay sober enough to care for the child while I go to work! She loves and prays for him. Please help me.—Very Lonely

You can't get blood from a turnip and you'll never collect a dime from your former husband while he is wilting away in jail. Further, you have inflicted irreparable damage on your child. It is essential to a child that he (or she) be proud of his parents. Write your husband, or have a third party talk to him for you, and tell him that you are sorry and that you are having him released. Suggest that you try your marriage over again, but also insist that he accept help in overcoming his drinking so that you can go into a second marraige with some hope of success. Your family physician or Alcoholic Anonymous will help your husband.

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am 17 and engaged to a boy; we will be marrying soon. My mother is jealous and hurt because my future mother - in - law and I get along so well and are so friendly. She wants me to stay away from her. I have tried hard to show mother I love her and that I am not showing too much attention to my fiance's mother but she continues to argue with me and has caused my fiance and I to quarrel about the situation. Please give me your opinion—P. ⅞ E.

Your mother should be happy that your fiance's family are accepting you so genuinely. Just continue to be nice to both mothers. Let your mother know that you depend on, and love her the most and the situation will smooth out with time. If possible, encourage the mothers to become better friends.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I read about a baby being hidden in a shopping bag and left in the park. I had a baby out of wedlock and gave it up for adoption. I feel that every girl should know that there are many places for her to go if she is in trouble. The people are wonderful. They don't ask a lot of questions and help you to keep your baby or give it up for adoption. If you can't pay, they still help you. — L. J. C.

Better still, your information may help some girls to stay out of trouble! Thank you for a fine letter that required courage to write and send. Yes, the social agencies are doing a splendid job for these girls.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a DP now studying here in college. I am in love with an American girl who loves me too.

I would like to marry her, but my friends tell me that American girls do not regard marriage seriously and that they change husbands as often as they change gloves. Your opinion, please? — Tony

What are you trying to do, start another war? It is a simple case here, sir, of our girls insisting that their husbands remain true to them (forsaking all others, you know) and preferring separation and divorce rather than the accepted "mistress system" of the Europeans. Your American girl will stay married to you if you can make up your mind that one "wife" will suffice!

Smart Teen-Age Girl: Thank you. Such letters help so much.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.)

TVA Dismisses 250 Employees

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 20 (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority said today it has mailed out 30-day dismissal notices to 250 employes following House action in eliminating resource development funds from the new TVA budget.

The notices went to 175 employes in Knoxville and Norris, 40 at Chattanooga, 17 at Wilson Dam, Ala., and 18 scattered at various TVA stations.

Ultimately, 322 employes will be affected by the elimination of resource development funds, TVA said. Some will be transferred into other TVA divisions to fill vacancies.

HEAT RECORD

NEW ORLEANS, June 20—UP—New Orleans got hotter yesterday than it has in the past 23 years. The mercury climbed to a top of 100.4 and to add to this unpleasantness the relative humidity was 40 per cent.

Taxi Explodes On Propane Gas

MEMPHIS, June 20 (AP)—A taxi, fueled by propane gas instead of gasoline exploded on a downtown street Friday, injuring two men.

The Rev. H. L. Beasley, 30, of Batesville, Miss., a passenger in the cab, was listed in fair condition at a hospital with burns about the face, hands and arms.

The driver, Nick Agnos, 55, apparently escaped serious injury. Propane cabs carry the fuel in a pressure tank, usually mounted inside the trunk compartment at the rear.

Propane is a liquified petroleum derived from crude oil. Under pressure it is a gas; freed it becomes a liquid. The gas burns nearly carbon-free in engines and is considered cheaper than gasoline.

Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Weevil Threatens Georgia Cotton

ATHENS, Ga., June 20 (AP) — Georgia cotton growers were warned today that the boll weevil is rampant in many fields and only a rigorous poisoning program will prevent devastating losses.

E. C. Westbrook, cotton specialist of the extension service, reported that counts this week in fields near here showed from 70 to 90 per cent of the squares stung or punctured by weevils.

Separate Prison For Women Is Urged Before Group Of Legislators

BATON ROUGE, June 20 (AP)—A Louisiana legislative group was told Friday some judges were slow about sending women to the penitentiary at Angola because of lack of adequate quarters.

Reed Cozart, assistant director of institutions, said, "Some judges indicate they would send more women to Angola if we had the facilities to care for them."

He urged legislative consideration of separate prison quarters for women, away from Angola if possible.

"Of course," he smiled, "we don't want it to become so fancy that it will attract a lot of new women prisoners."

Cozart, former federal prison expert installed by Gov. Robert Kennon to head penitentiary reform, said:

"One of our great hopes for Angola" is that a separate reformatory will be provided for first offenders.

Cozart said he was not concerned about which site might be favored but added that a good location was the present Angola branch camp at St. Gabriel, about 18 miles south of Baton Rouge on the Mississippi River.

The camp operates with Negro prisoners to produce farm crops.

Cozart said St. Gabriel was ideal as a first offenders' site because it was near to Louisiana State University.

"Wherever the camp would be located," Cozart explained, "we would want it close to a state college because we are thinking in terms of vocational training courses the colleges could install."

Cozart and Warden Maurice Sigler were invited to discuss their work and problems with seven members of a special legislative study group headed by Rep. Mrs. Bland Cox Bruns of New Orleans.

Cozart, in asking the lawmakers to consider separate facilities for women and first offenders, also urged some revision in state laws regarding "good time" granted convicts for orderly behavior.

He said first offenders now receive twice as much good time taken off their prison sentences as other prisoners. "This has been a cause of constant griping," the prison authority said, "Those complaining feel they are confronted with discrimination. It needs legislative study."

Reminding that the state did not have a school for Negro girl juveniles, Cozart said there was some consideration of making a co-educational institution at the existing state industrial school for Negro boys here.

He urged greater attention be paid the need for recreational facilities for all schools for juveniles.

Rep. George Tessier suggested the legislative group study a revision in state laws governing the commitment of the mentally ill to state institutions.

According to Tessier, the existing statute appears defective because judicial review is required before such action can be taken. He suggested coroners be given authority to take immediate action in mental cases during an interim period while a court ruling was pending.

Others in the legislative study group were Sen. M. Eloi Girard of Lafayette, and Reps. J. C. Seaman of Tensas, Reeves Morgan of East Feliciana and Warren Folkes of West Feliciana.

Bar Official Raps Begging By States

BILOXI, Miss., June 20 (AP)—The president of the Mississippi Bar Association said Friday the states should stop screaming "states' rights" and then turning around and asking for federal grants of money.

Charles B. Snow at Jackson told the bar association convention that grants-in-aid to states by the federal government has become an intolerable situation and is destroying self-government.

"Do not cry states' rights out of one side of your mouth and ask for federal grants with inevitable federal control from the other," Snow said.

He said the government has increased its cut from the tax dollar from 25 cents to 75 cents in the past 20 years, which he said was too much.

"Leave the states something to tax and the subdivisions something to tax," Snow said, "and they can take care of themselves."

Snow said the Eisenhower administration was trying to reverse the trend and was "striving under tremendous difficulties.

My mother is angry because she counted on me marrying the man who dropped me so she could move away and stop caring for my child while I work.

I visited my former husband in jail and he refused to talk to me or look at me. I think I am the lonliest person in the world. For our child's sake I would gladly try our marriage again as my husband was always gentle and kind even when drunk, if only I could depend on him to stay sober enough to care for the child while I go to work! She loves and prays for him. Please help me.—Very Lonely

You can't get blood from a turnip and you'll never collect a dime from your former husband while he is wilting away in jail. Further, you have inflicted irreparable damage on your child. It is essential to a child that he (or she) be proud of his parents. Write your husband, or have a third party talk to him for you, and tell him that you are sorry and that you are having him released. Suggest that you try your marriage over again, but also insist that he accept help in overcoming his drinking so that you can go into a second marraige with some hope of success. Your family physician or Alcoholic Anonymous will help your husband.

Dear Mrs. Landers: I am 17 and engaged to a boy; we will be marrying soon. My mother is jealous and hurt because my future mother - in - law and I get along so well and are so friendly. She wants me to stay away from her. I have tried hard to show mother I love her and that I am not showing too much attention to my fiance's mother but she continues to argue with me and has caused my fiance and I to quarrel about the situation. Please give me your opinion—P. ⅞ E.

Your mother should be happy that your fiance's family are accepting you so genuinely. Just continue to be nice to both mothers. Let your mother know that you depend on, and love her the most and the situation will smooth out with time. If possible, encourage the mothers to become better friends.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I read about a baby being hidden in a shopping bag and left in the park. I had a baby out of wedlock and gave it up for adoption. I feel that every girl should know that there are many places for her to go if she is in trouble. The people are wonderful. They don't ask a lot of questions and help you to keep your baby or give it up for adoption. If you can't pay, they still help you. — L. J. C.

Better still, your information may help some girls to stay out of trouble! Thank you for a fine letter that required courage to write and send. Yes, the social agencies are doing a splendid job for these girls.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a DP now studying here in college. I am in love with an American girl who loves me too.

I would like to marry her, but my friends tell me that American girls do not regard marriage seriously and that they change husbands as often as they change gloves. Your opinion, please? —Tony

What are you trying to do, start another war? It is a simple case here, sir, of our girls insisting that their husbands remain true to them (forsaking all others, you know) and preferring separation and divorce rather than the accepted "mistress system" of the Europeans. Your American girl will stay married to you if you can make up your mind that one "wife" will suffice!

Smart Teen-Age Girl: Thank you. Such letters help so much.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.)

TVA Dismisses 250 Employees

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 20 (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority said today it has mailed out 30-day dismissal notices to 250 employes following House action in eliminating resource development funds from the new TVA budget.

The notices went to 175 employes in Knoxville and Norris, 40 at Chattanooga, 17 at Wilson Dam, Ala., and 18 scattered at various TVA stations.

Ultimately, 322 employes will be affected by the elimination of resource development funds, TVA said. Some will be transferred into other TVA divisions to fill vacancies.

HEAT RECORD

NEW ORLEANS, June 20—UP—New Orleans got hotter yesterday than it has in the past 23 years. The mercury climbed to a top of 100.4 and to add to this unpleasantness the relative humidity was 49 per cent.

Taxi Explodes On Propane Gas

MEMPHIS, June 20 (AP)—A taxi, fueled by propane gas instead of gasoline exploded on a downtown street Friday, injuring two men.

The Rev. H. L. Beasley, 39, of Batesville, Miss., a passenger in the cab, was listed in fair condition at a hospital with burns about the face, hands and arms.

The driver, Nick Agnos, 55, apparently escaped serious injury. Propane cabs carry the fuel in a pressure tank, usually mounted inside the trunk compartment at the rear.

Propane is a liquified petroleum derived from crude oil. Under pressure it is a gas; freed it becomes a liquid. The gas burns nearly carbon-free in engines and is considered cheaper than gasoline.

Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Weevil Threatens Georgia Cotton

ATHENS, Ga., June 20 (AP) — Georgia cotton growers were warned today that the boll weevil is rampant in many fields and only a rigorous poisoning program will prevent devastating losses.

E. C. Westbrook, cotton specialist of the extension service, reported that counts this week in fields near here showed from 70 to 90 per cent of the squares stung or punctured by weevils.

Separate Prison For Women Is Urged Before Group Of Legislators

BATON ROUGE, June 20 (AP)—A Louisiana legislative group was told Friday some judges were slow about sending women to the penitentiary at Angola because of lack of adequate quarters.

Reed Cozart, assistant director of institutions, said, "Some judges indicate they would send more women to Angola if we had the facilities to care for them."

He urged legislative consideration of separate prison quarters for women, away from Angola if possible.

"Of course," he smiled, "we don't want it to become so fancy that it will attract a lot of new women prisoners."

Cozart, former federal prison expert installed by Gov. Robert Kennon to head penitentiary reform, said:

"One of our great hopes for Angola" is that a separate reformatory will be provided for first offenders.

Cozart said he was not concerned about which site might be favored but added that a good location was the present Angola branch camp at St. Gabriel, about 18 miles south of Baton Rouge on the Mississippi River.

The camp operates with Negro prisoners to produce farm crops.

Cozart said St. Gabriel was ideal as a first offenders' site because it was near to Louisiana State University.

"Wherever the camp would be located," Cozart explained, "we would want it close to a state college because we are thinking in terms of vocational training courses the colleges could install."

Cozart and Warden Maurice Sigler were invited to discuss their work and problems with seven members of a special legislative study group headed by Rep. Mrs. Bland Cox Bruns of New Orleans.

Cozart, in asking the lawmakers to consider separate facilities for women and first offenders, also urged some revision in state laws regarding "good time" granted convicts for orderly behavior.

He said first offenders now receive twice as much good time taken off their prison sentences as other prisoners. "This has been a cause of constant griping," the prison authority said, "Those complaining feel they are confronted with discrimination. It needs legislative study."

Reminding that the state did not have a school for Negro girl juveniles, Cozart said there was some consideration of making a co-educational institution at the existing state industrial school for Negro boys here.

He urged greater attention be paid the need for recreational facilities for all schools for juveniles.

Rep. George Tessier suggested the legislative group study a revision in state laws governing the commitment of the mentally ill to state institutions.

According to Tessier, the existing statute appears defective because judicial review is required before such action can be taken. He suggested coroners be given authority to take immediate action in mental cases during an interim period while a court ruling was pending.

Others in the legislative study group were Sen. M. Eloi Girard of Lafayette, and Reps. J. C. Seaman of Tensas, Reeves Morgan of East Feliciana and Warren Folkes of West Feliciana.

Bar Official Raps Begging By States

BILOXI, Miss., June 20 (AP)—The president of the Mississippi Bar Association said Friday the states should stop screaming "states' rights" and then turning around and asking for federal grants of money.

Charles B. Snow at Jackson told the bar association convention that grants-in-aid to states by the federal government has become an intolerable situation and is destroying self-government.

"Do not cry states' rights out of one side of your mouth and ask for federal grants with inevitable federal control from the other," Snow said.

He said the government has increased its cut from the tax dollar from 25 cents to 75 cents in the past 20 years, which he said was too much.

"Leave the states something to tax and the subdivisions something to tax," Snow said, "and they can take care of themselves."

Snow said the Eisenhower administration was trying to reverse the trend and was "striving under tremendous difficulties.

Cotton Acreage Rules Hearings Are Set By Panel Of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, June 20—UP—Chairman Clifford R. Hope Saturday scheduled hearings for June 30 and July 1 by his agriculture committee on the sectional scrap over cotton acreage allotments.

The Kansas Republican said the committee will consider bills introduced by a group of western congressmen to revamp the cotton acreage program for the 1954 crop.

In general the proposals would give states west of the Mississippi a bigger share of total cotton allotments at the expense of growers in other areas.

The government intends to use acreage allotments next year in an attempt to hold down production and avoid costly surpluses. Millions of dollars are at stake in the row between east and west growers.

Rep. Allan Oakley Hunter (R-Calif.) a leader in the western bloc, contends it is only fair to revise the acreage next year because cotton production has shifted rapidly west during the past decade. If allotments under present law are permitted to stand, he said, it would force western growers to make cuts of from 20 to 54 per cent.

He said Arizona would be hardest hit with a 54 per cent production cut since agriculture crop. If the state is deprived of more than half of its cotton crop, he said, its entire economy would be crippled and thousands of farmers and businessmen would face bankruptcy.

The opposition's stand was voiced by Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy (D-Miss). He protested that the proposed bills protect "latecomers" in the cotton field who are largely responsible for surpluses.

The westerners' legislation would base allotments for next year's crop on planting during the three years from 1950 through 1952. They now are based on the 1948-52 five-year period.

Their proposals also would prohibit the agriculture department from cutting any state's allotment. more than 25 per cent below 1952 plantings.

Pair Held In Series Of Holdups

NEW ORLEANS, June 20—UP—A "big time operator from Frisco", a confessed robber, and a female impersonator, who calls himself Laura, faced charges here Saturday in connection with a series of holdups in Jefferson parish and along the Gulf Coast.

Police said George Elliott, 26, of Birmingham, Ala., admitted that he and Herschall Addington, 24, of San Francisco, held up a motel and two service stations in Jefferson parish. He also admitted the robbery of two motels near Gulfport.

Addington, who deputy sheriff John Stewart identified as one of a gang of "big time operators from Frisco", was booked on three counts of armed robbery, being a fugitive from justice from Harrison county, Miss., a fugitive from New Orleans, and for violation of the Dyer (stolen car) act.

Police arrested the trio when Addington entered a stolen car which was being watched. They said they found a sawed-off shotgun, pistol, ammunition and burglary tools in suspects' room at a house in the Vieux Carre.

The female impersonator, Norman Canales, 22, who also goes under the name of Laura Waters, told police he came to New Orleans from California with the two men earlier this week.

Places the trio are accused of robbing are the Rossi motel, the Collins service station—all in Jefferson parish — and the Holiday Shores motor hotel and Light's motor court, both in Gulfport.

Police said the loot from the robberies totaled $1,000, plus a radio.

Boll Weevil Danger Area Is Proclaimed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 20—UP—Gov. Francis Cherry has signed a proclamation putting an area within 50 miles of Texarkana in a boll weevil danger area, it was announced Saturday.

The state plant board had requested the proclamation and $25,000 from the governor's emergency fu[illegible] to keep the boll weevil out of Arkansas. The pest has been reported in Texas near the Arkansas line.

About 8,000 high schools in the United Sttes now provide courses in driving automobiles.

Political Pot Boils In Italy

ROME, June 20 (AP)—Italy's polititcal crisis is shaping up as a far more serious threat to national stability than was appreciated immediately after the June 7-8 general election.

The pessimism of center politicians contrasts strikingly with the optimism with which U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce publicly greeted the result.

A pro-Western coalition of the Christian Democrats, Social Democrats, Liberals and Republicans squeaked through the election with a 16-seat majority in the Chamber of Deputies and 13-seat majority in the Senate.

Many Italian politicians doubt these are workable majorities in Italy, even though they might seem secure in France or Britain. The new Parliament meets Thursday.

One of the most respected persons in Italian political life predicted privately this week:

Two or three Italian governments will fall within the year.

A new general election then will be required unless the nation is to relapse into the chronic political invalidism of France.

Italian ratification of the six-nation European Defense Community Treaty in the foreseeable future is highly unlikely, due to the parliamentary battle left and right opposition would precipitate, this source believes. Implementation of the treaty is a prime objective of the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy.

The economic effects of political instability in Italy could be disastrous. Overpopulated, short of raw materials and devastated by war, Italy nevertheless enjoys the highest living standard in her history.

Why? Due to the industry of her citizens, $2,400,000,000 in U. S. aid, and continuity of governmental policy which has permitted maximum utilization of Italy's meagre resources.

To quote one prominent Italian: "We do not have France's wealth. We are too poor to be able to afford the luxury of chaos."

Premier De Gasperi may not head the first post-election government. His party will have another Christian Democrat selected as Premier rather than endanger his prestige by heading a short-lived government. The most talked of prospect is Attilio Piccioni, a member of the party's right wing.

According to this line of reasoning, De Gasperi would return to the premiership after the first government fell.

SON DEMANDS PENSION

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 20—UP—The 80-year-old son of a former Jersey City mayor told authorities Saturday he should receive a pension because his father had turned down two $100,000 bribes. Converse Cleveland of Asbury Park N. J., said his father, Orestes, never accepted any graft when he was mayor in the civil war era. In requesting a pension, he said his father "served the people without a cent of graft" and "at a sacrifice."

WASHINGTON, June 20—UP—President Eisenhower will make a brief, informal talk at the American Red Cross convention here Wednesday night, the White House announced Saturday.

Gift For Father Is Different, Nips Him

CLEVELAND, June 20 (AP)—The two boys wanted to "give father something different."

So Raymond, 14, and James Root, 12, went to a pet shop and plunked down $7 for a small alligator.

They decided not to wait until tomorrow to present the Father's Day gift.

Suddenly it lunged out and nipped him on the nose.

After he had gone to City Hospital for minor repairs, he returned to the house, beheaded the gift, grabbed his fish pole and departed over the horizon, mumbling to himself.

Events Which Happen So Fast

These days are perhaps some of the most important in the life of each person, not only in the United States, but in the free world, and also behind the "iron curtain." The Communists, whose machine of well oiled world confiscation was in high gear, has come to a crashing halt in the past few days.

In Korea, President Rhee has perhaps ruined the Communist-planned truce. He released on last Wednesday thousands of North Koreans who had refused flatly to return to their Communist lands, and these men are all over the Republic of Korea by now. They are free men. By this master stroke, Rhee has pulled the United States out of a terrible "truce" which would have, in effect, turned Asia over to the Reds. It would have destroyed for all time the prestige of the American people in that sector of the world.

Rhee has helped his ally, Chiang, in that fight and has apparently not been cleared of un-American influences, truce been signed, it is apparent that Communist China would have been forced into the "U. N." by the British and the Indians. Then, the American state department, which has apparently not been cleared of un-American unfluences, has decided to go along with the British in turning Formosa over to the Reds. This will be done by establishing a "U. N. Trusteeship" over the entire island and thus allowing Communists to swarm over Chiang's last bastion. This would have meant his ruination.

For his act in releasing the Communist prisoners, and thus ruining the "peace" plan, the free world owes this brave Korean a debt which can never be repaid. Now, Chiang has at least a fighting chance, the American nation is up in arms having at last awakened from a "Rip Van Winkle" type slumber of some twenty years, to the dangers of the internal pressures of Communism.

There are several reasons for this amazing awakening. There has been widespread dissatisfaction with the truce terms. The knowledge realized by every American that something was far amiss in Korea and that another Yalta was about to be perpetrated has helped awaken this nation to the internal dangers of the desires of the Reds and their associates. Then, the U. S. Supreme Court threw out the Bridges case, declaring that this miserable ingrate should not be deported.

On top of that, Justice Douglas opinioned that the Rosenbergs should not die. He reasoned this by a mere technical standpoint, without taking into consideration the size of the heinous crime to which the Rosenbergs were part and parcel. He did this without taking into consideration the magnanimity of the treacherous attitude adopted by the Rosenbergs when asked to testify in behalf of the nation which gave them every chance to live, even though those two have, by their activities, probably sentenced to death very many million American people.

The American people are slowly realizing that perhaps the Communists desperately need this truce. It is certain that events lead in that direction. In the Communist world, all is far from well. In China, Mao is suffering severe setbacks in his various programs. Famine, the war, unrest and Nationalist activities on the mainland have all but destroyed his position. Technically also, he needs this truce. He needs it in the worst way possible. In Czechoslovakia, there have been severe riots and disorders with deaths to both the Communists and the anti-Communist rioters. There have been indications that all is not well behind the "iron curtain." Thus the "peace" offensive.

Malenkov and Beria, plus Molotov know that they must have time and more time to consolidate their position. They were well on the way toward getting this partial plans, and the Czech riots ruined their propaganda position. On top of that, the world was amazed to see the East Germans riot and cause the Soviets to clamp on martial law, even necessitating the use of a tank division to quell the rioters. The Germans see all of this, and the West Berliners are watching carefully the next move. In fact, the entire Federal Republic is watching the move as it may ruin the Reds' chances for this "peace" program in Germany. This the Russians had not counted on and it has severely embarrassed them. The Russians had even made peace with the German Protestant Church in an effort to look peaceful. Now, the real facts are showing up, slowly but surely.

One of the free nations has suffered somewhat of a setback in this affair. That is, of course, the British. They had counted on the "peace" to build up their Oriental trade. The peace will, unless things change, not actually come about. Instead, the British are being made to realize that you cannot deal with thieves and treacherous bandits. The Chinese Communists had thrown in some of their best men in an effort to dislodge the Americans and Koreans in a hoped march to the 38th parallel. This was to be ground gained in time for the armistice. In fact, it is very doubtful whether the armistice could have been signed unless the Chinese had gained their ends. The bad faith shown by them was enough to make not only the Americans but mainly Syngman Rhee do something to stop the "truce." The Americans didn't and Rhee did, thus pulling this nation out of a near tragedy, ruining British hopes in the Orient.

On the domestic front, those who have, in the past, not believed that Senator McCarthy was a patriot, a real fighter against Communism, have had to revise their ideas. The Senator has been marked by the Reds for death. So great was, and is, his influence, that even though he would have been a martyr, the Communists had decided to do away with him. This report came to the nation from a former FBI agent who worked in the underground section inside the party and had overheard the Communist assigned to kill McCarthy boast of his plans. That Communist spy has refused to testify on the familiar grounds that the evidence might "tend to incriminate him." It most certainly would.

America slowly awakens to the fact that the Communists are in a deadly "game," one to forever win the world for themselves. The people also realize that these Communists are working on a slim gamble, masterminded by the adroit V. M. Molotov, expert Soviet diplomat who is in charge of the foreign affairs of his criminal national conspiracy. The Americans are realizing that there are forces at work which are at every minute conspiring to overthrow this nation in which you live.

The people are fighting mad.

Then, at the hour of destiny, the hour on which hung the fate of not only the brave little Korean republic, but this U. S. and the entire free world, the leader of that people, their president, Rhee, struck a blow for freedom. The Communists, only a few days ago on the road to complete victory, are now shown for what they are, and they may be stalled.

There must never again be a letdown in the vigilance by the American people of their affairs. To be lulled to sleep by the voices of un-Americanism means the loss of your freedoms. You must keep awake, trust in God, and help in every way you can the fighters on the fronts against Communism, whether they be Chinese Nationalists, ROKs, gressmen and administration leaders.

The fight has just begun.

This Generous Community

There are many of you this Sunday morning on Father's Day, celebrating the event honoring "Dad" with probably a big Sunday dinner and letting "poor maligned 'Dad' enjoy" his Sunday by taking the family to a picture show or for a ride.

However, as you are celebrating his day, there is something dark which overshadows this otherwise normal Sunday morning. There is, of course, the international situation, which seems always to be dark.

However, there is in the midst of all the grand folks of this area a young girl who has but a few years at the most to enjoy this life which everyone takes for granted. She is suffering from a tumor on her spinal column, a terrible malady which cannot be remedied due to the position of the growth. Her name is Marie Johnston. She lives in Epps, Louisiana, when she is not in New Orleans at the hospital undergoing operations and treatments.

A year or so ago, she was a normal girl, a high school girl playing basketball, when she noticed unusual headaches. These headaches began to grow more severe. She was put under medical care. She was taken to New Orleans and her trouble diagnosed. Now, she will leave the world in which she lives and previously enjoyed. Not a cheerful prospect. However, until she leaves, she needs an iron lung.

An appeal was made through this newspaper by one of the staff writers last week. At this writing, there has been received some two thousand dollars toward this lung.

This is the total amount of the cost of the lung. This is all that is needed. It has all come within five days after the very first appeal. It is still coming. There are those demanding that their money be accepted.

This is an amazing and God-given amount. If this area has never been noted for anything in the past, it will forever be noted for its generosity and assistance to people who need money in desperate times.

Many of you are fortunate. Many have sent large checks, many have sent smaller ones. The size of the amount matters not. It is the spirit of giving to those who are in need which is the important factor. People have been coming by this newspaper all week asking what they can do to help, and how much is needed. People from all walks of life, those wearing expensive suits and those who wear overalls. It makes no difference. You are all Americans. You are living up to the spirit of Americanism 100 percent.

You didn't let little Chrystal Jean die in agony by herself last year, and it is apparent that you are not going to let such happen to Marie. For your deeds of generosity and help to a little girl who needs it, God bless each and every one of you. This is a grand community in which to live.

Never a day goes by without proof of that statement.

A Spirit Of Gratitude

Typical of the spirit of the American people is the reception given to Col. Royal N. Baker by his home town of McKinney, Tex., on his return from the Korean war. Colonel Baker shot down an even dozen Russian-built MIGs, to qualify as America's No. 1 ace, but to the people of McKinney he was just a home town boy back from the war. That he was an accredited hero added little to the ardor of the welcome.

Thousands turned out to greet his, Sam Rayburn, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, made a speech. A new automobile was presented to Colonel Baker. Emotionally upset, he was unable to make a speech in reply. "I don't have the words," he declared.

Such receptions are fine as far as they go, and will undoubtedly be repeated many times throughout the nation when the war ends. But the spirit of gratitude for the men who have been on the firing line should not end with the shouting. Every effort should be made to ease their transition to the ways of peace through community cooperation and understanding.

Many will need a friendly hand, perhaps a job. They're entitled to the best their community can give them, help which extends beyond the staging of a reception and gifts of automobiles.

National Carnage

Blood of more than 2,000,000 Americans was splattered on the nation's highways last year, accounting for the worst automobile accident toll in the country's history. Deaths alone totaled 37,600, a 500 increase over 1951, while the injury count soared to 2,090,000, more than 127,00 over the previous year.

An analysis of this needless carnage shows that the most fatal mistake in driving in 1952 was excessive speed. Significantly, too, it is shown that drivers under 25 years old were involved in almost 25 per cent of the year's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 15 per cent of the total of all drivers.

In other facts distilled in the study it is revealed that nearly half the fatalities occurred in week-end crashes, with Saturdays being the most tragic day of all, and that 80 per cent of the death vehicles were traveling straight ahead when irrevocable collisions occurred.

This is ghastly data, but it will not become any less fearsome until everyone who ventures behind a steering wheel shows greater respect for the horsepower thus unleashed and his or her own horse-sense.

New York Is Also Like This

The Blue Angel (now 10 years old) played a big part in developing new singing stars ... It has seen many (who began thir careers there) "outgrow" it ... To a point where the club cannot afford to pay their tall salaries ... As a result, competitors get "names" who were "nobodies" when the Blue Angel took them on ... Some of them are Pearl Bailey, Evelyn Knight, Imogene Coca, Martha Wright and Mary McCarty.

Last January a newcomer named Felicia Sanders opened there for a two-week booking ... She clicked and was held over for ten more ... In the meantime, her first recording, "The Song" (from "Moulin Rouge"), became the nation's pet platter via Percy Faith's crew and Felicia's vocal-lure.

Her agent were offered as high as $,000 a week at major places — if she would desert the blue Angel ... She turned them down to resume there (at a lot less coin) on July 6th.

"Get it while you're Hot, girl," she was cautioned, "you stay Cold a long time!"

"Maybe so," she maybe-so'd, "but I want the Blue Angel people to make some money on me. They did all the gambling on me."

Polly Adler was America's chief Madam in the Prohibition Era ... Her book, "A House Is Not a Home," will make th best-seller lists Sunday ... When she was interviewed the other day, she nervously fingered a giant'sized diamond ring.

"How many karats?" asked the reporter.

At least seven cab drivers in the Times Square area gave the police considerable assistance in a hit and run homicide at 49th and 7th yestermorn ... They traced the hit and run killer and saw him park the car in a lot at 52nd and 6th ... The hackies who provided the police with full descriptions, etc., certainly rate commendations and consideration from Capt. W. E. McGinn of the Hack Bureau.

Tony LaMadriad, the Latin Quarter waiter who was killed trying to defend a bartender pal, never knew he was going to die on the Day He Was Born.

One of the hottest sellers among the recordings was made by a totally unknown singer on an obscure firm's label with only guitar accompaniment ... The singer, 16 years old, wrote it and made the master-record himself ... Cost him $8 ... He hoped to interest some music publisher in it ... Not one gave it a nod ... It has made a young fortune for the 16 year old composer-singer whose name is Don Howard ... The song: "Oh, Happy Day!"

A bedraggled pair got off a bus from Alabama at the corner of 2nd Avenue and 45th Street ... She had a child in her arms — one in a go-cart — and three others dragging along ... They walked over to a cop and inquired about a certain address ... He saw how weary they were and hailed a taxi ... He told the hackie to take them there and handed the driver $2.

A passerby who observed and listened handed the cop $5 ... "For what?" asked the officer... "For doing what you just did," said the stranger walking away ... The cop handed the fiver to the couple ... His Shield Number is 6717 ... His name is Patrolman Gene McCrohan of the 15th Precinct.

The news about Arthur Godfrey's doctor (the doctor who operated on Arthur) passing away—reminds us of this one ... Happened after an Irish Sweepstakes ... An ailing father (whose demise was expected any day, following a stroke) won $100,000 in that sweeps ... His family feared letting him know ... They persuaded his medico to break it to him ... The doctor spent an hour chatting about little things and then sprung it ... "You won $100,000 on the sweepstakes!"

The ill man's eyes lit up and he smiled. "Wonderful," he said. "If it weren't for your wonderful care I wouldn't be hear to hear it. I'm going to give you 10 percent of it to show my appreciation."

The MD turned white — clutched his heart — and dropped dead.

We were parked near the Mirror, News and Journal-American cars (which are outfitted with short-wave police call sets) near 51st and Champ's Restaurant the other 3 a. m. ... This corner is populated by sportsmen out of Runyon — all trying to make some income on the outcome of fights, ball games and other sports ... Many unescorted girls and women pass this corner ... We've never heard of any being molested or even ogled ... 'If I printed that," we told a character, "readers wouldn't believe it."

"You haven't been around," was the reply, "when these same birds get into fights because of unescorted women. Th ones who bother the dames are punks in Cadillacs!"

Jack O'Brian, the N. Y. Journal-American's seevy-radio oracle, flew up to Boston and got an exclusive interview with Godfrey... O'Brian reports tht Arthur's doctor wondered how he got his Big Break ... "I can tell you," replied the star, "in two words — Walter Winchell. One day in 1934 I was making $75 a week. The week after he boosted me I made $750 per. And then it was $1,000. I've never made less than that since" ... "You're making a little more than that now, aren't you?" kidded the doc ... "Ask O'Brian," chuckled Godfrey .... "Arthur now gets," disclosed the reporter, "$35,00 a week."

Do Moviegoers Want More Horror Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, June 20 — When I talk with directors, producers, and writers I seem to be persuaded that the screen, coincident with the advent of 3-D pictures, is about to embark upon a horror program for future screenfare. Is that necessary ;just because it is possible to present horror with greater facility than ever before? Do our moviegoers want the daylights scared out of them? Just because a new and advanced form of the medium has been develloped, dose it follow that grotesque and fantastic persons, animals, scenes, backgrounds, action must be introduced that will terrify the theater customers? What about children? Are they to be included, or will theater managers bar them from movie houses?

These so-called science fiction stories, I'm afraid, are going to become offensive, unless level-headed producers step in and head off the trend. Why should visitors from outer space be monsters always, villainous killers, war-makers, agents of destruction? Why not beautiful stories with regular folks from Mars, or from Venus, or from any of a million stars that may be worlds on which there is some form of life?

Why set a pattern now in outer space characterization that will be difficult to change later when movie audiences tire of unbelievable creatures from yonder way-stations in the realm of astronomy? Why can't Mars produce heroic characters, as well as monsters? In pictures I have seen, the space visitors, in a few instances, have been immune to our puny efforts to combat them or destroy them. Even the atom bomb was represented as nothing more than a drop of water on a duck's back.

When I hark back to Frankenstein, Dracula, King Kong and a few other examples of the horror breed of the past, they become tame and weak and insignificant when compared with the monstrosities of "War of the Worlds," "The House of Wax" or other examples such as "The beast from 20,000 Fathoms." I merely pose the question: Do normal, everyday moviegoers want the extreme in horror pictures? And, is it good sense to produce such subjects in introducing the 3-D innovation?

Preview Nights: "Julius Caesar," an MGM production, is a magnificent achievement. It is Shakespeare in the best tradition. Will the rank and file of movie fans appreciate this fact? Some of the finest exponents of the Bard of Avon are in there to interpret such famous fiction folks as Julius Caesar, Brutus, Cicero, Cassius, Portia and others, and these artists include Louis Calhern, James Mason, Deborah Kerr, Greer Garson, Edmund O'Brien, Marlon Brando, John Gielgud, George Macready—a veritable who's who. I wonder if the fans will like the unadulterated Elizabethan language, spoken so fluently in the earlier scenes. However, when the story starts racing and the plot begins to take form, the overwhelming action, the wonderful color backgrounds, players as Brando, Mason, Gielgud and Deborah Kerr will put dialogue in the shadows. I liked Mason's characterization of Brutus. Calhern as Caesar is virtually perfect, as one visualizes the character from the famous play. Marlon Brando does a remarkable characterization of Mark Antony. And don't overlook John Gielgud as Cassius. John Houseman is the producer, and Joseph L. Mankiewicz directed "julius Caeaer,, is a picture that will add prestige to the entire motion picture industry.

Timmons In Washington

U. S. Had Bib Part In Losing It's First War

WASHINGTON, D. C. — If the Korean truce were to boomerang on President Eisenhower and his administration, as some commentators have suggested, it would be quite unfair. But sometimes political trends have neither rhyme nor reason.

The truth is that the president knew, when he returned from his post election jaunt to Korea, that the United Nations had been placed in a position from which they could only withdraw by giving the advantage to the Communists. He is understood to have conveyed this gloomy forecast to some of his friends.

That was as apparent to other generals, active and retired, as it was to Dwight D. Eisenhower. When you get in a stalemate war, with casualties running high and no dcisive victory in sight, the best thing to do is to get out. Germany found herself in a considerably worse plight in World War I than now confronts the U. N. in Korea, and jumped at the chance for an armistice. History records other similar instances of negotiated peace, in which both sides were anxious to stop shooting.

In one respect, the president has apparently been unwise. His statement on April 16 that an armistice in Korea would "be a fraud," unless the Communists agreed to end their infiltration of southeast Asia, and his subsequent announcement in his letter to President Sygnman Rhee that the United States has abandoned every intent to bring about the unification of Korea by military power were viewed here as regrettable admissions of U. S. weakness. The April 16 avowal had no force behind it, even at the time it was made, and the later disavowal of any intent to fight the war to a finish, gave the Communists positive assurance they could proceed without fear of a big U.N. military offensive any time in the near future, if the truce negotiations failed.

What President Eisenhower did was to reverse the American Korean policy of three years ago, which was to unite the country and toss the Communists out. General Douglas MacArthur had accomplished this in large measure when the Chinese Reds, with their endless man power jumped into the fighting.

After that, hindsight now tells us, growing enemy strength steadily reversed the whole outlook and at any time in the past year, the men familiar with the Korean situation could have predicted the almost certal outcome.

The negotiated peace will not be such in the accepeted sense, for the firing line in the Far East now extends into Indo-China and Malaya and the fighting in those sectors may step up if the Korean hostilities end. But the pressure on the Communists — both the North Koreans and the Chinese — will be eased and they will have an opportunity to readjust their food and other supplies. Meanwhile, Korea will continue to be a U. N. problem, with the U. S. carrying the load.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai - shek has again faded from sight as a factor in the Asiatic outlook, though Admiral Arthur Radford, new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, formerly advocated the use of the Formosa army in an active role against the Communists. The Nationalist army is better equipped now than it was when General Mac Arthur left Japan, but it is still incapable of more than hit and run attacks. This, too, could have been forecast a year ago.

If the U. S. is bitter about the Korean truce, when it comes—the country is more likely to heave a sigh of relief — the embittered one should think back to June 1951, the decisive month of the war when General James Van Fleet had the advantage over them as yet poorly organized Communist armies but was ordered — by his own government acting under pressure from the United Nations — not to press the offensive. In the same month Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who admittedly didn't know much about how wars are fought, said the objective in Korea was to end the aggression and restore peace. Nothing was said about unifying Korea.

All in all, history probably will have to conclude that this time, the United States had a big part in losing its first war under United Nations jurisdiction.

This Generous Community

There are many of you this Sunday morning on Father's Day, celebrating the event honoring "Dad" with probably a big Sunday dinner and letting "poor maligned 'Dad' enjoy" his Sunday by taking the family to a picture show or for a ride.

However, as you are celebrating his day, there is something dark which overshadows this otherwise normal Sunday morning. There is, of course, the international situation, which seems always to be dark.

However, there is in the midst of all the grand folks of this area a young girl who has but a few years at the most to enjoy this life which everyone takes for granted. She is suffering from a tumor on her spinal column, a terrible malady which cannot be remedied due to the position of the growth. Her name is Marie Johnston. She lives in Epps, Louisiana, when she is not in New Orleans at the hospital undergoing operations and treatments.

A year or so ago, she was a normal girl, a high school girl playing basketball, when she noticed unusual headaches. These headaches began to grow more severe. She was put under medical care. She was taken to New Orleans and her trouble diagnosed. Now, she will leave the world in which she lives and previously enjoyed. Not a cheerful prospect. However, until she leaves, she needs an iron lung.

An appeal was made through this newspaper by one of the staff writers last week. At this writing, there has been received some two thousand dollars toward this lung.

This is the total amount of the cost of the lung. This is all that is needed. It has all come within five days after the very first appeal. It is still coming. There are those demanding that their money be accepted.

This is an amazing and God-given amount. If this area has never been noted for anything in the past, it will forever be noted for its generosity and assistance to people who need money in desperate times.

Many of you are fortunate. Many have sent large checks, many have sent smaller ones. The size of the amount matters not. It is the spirit of giving to those who are in need which is the important factor. People have been coming by this newspaper all week asking what they can do to help, and how much is needed. People from all walks of life, those wearing expensive suits and those who wear overalls. It makes no difference. You are all Americans. You are living up to the spirit of Americanism 100 percent.

You didn't let little Chrystal Jean die in agony by herself last year, and it is apparent that you are not going to let such happen to Marie. For your deeds of generosity and help to a little girl who needs it, God bless each and every one of you. This is a grand community in which to live.

Never a day goes by without proof of that statement.

A Spirit Of Gratitude

Typical of the spirit of the American people is the reception given to Col. Royal N. Baker by his home town of McKinney, Tex., on his return from the Korean war. Colonel Baker shot down an even dozen Russian-built MIGs, to qualify as America's No. 1 ace, but to the people of McKinney he was just a home town boy back from the war. That he was an accredited hero added little to the ardor of the welcome.

Thousands turned out to greet his, Sam Rayburn, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, made a speech. A new automobile was presented to Colonel Baker. Emotionally upset, he was unable to make a speech in reply. "I don't have the words," he declared.

Such receptions are fine as far as they go, and will undoubtedly be repeated many times throughout the nation when the war ends. But the spirit of gratitude for the men who have been on the firing line should not end with the shouting. Every effort should be made to ease their transition to the ways of peace through community cooperation and understanding.

Many will need a friendly hand, perhaps a job. They're entitled to the best their community can give them, help which extends beyond the staging of a reception and gifts of automobiles.

National Carnage

Blood of more than 2,000,000 Americans was splattered on the nation's highways last year, accounting for the worst automobile accident toll in the country's history. Deaths alone totaled 37,600, a 500 increase over 1951, while the injury count soared to 2,090,000, more than 127,00 over the previous year.

An analysis of this needless carnage shows that the most fatal mistake in driving in 1952 was excessive speed. Significantly, too, it is shown that drivers under 25 years old were involved in almost 25 per cent of the year's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 15 per cent of the total of all drivers.

In other facts distilled in the study it is revealed that nearly half the fatalities occurred in week-end crashes, with Saturdays being the most tragic day of all, and that 80 per cent of the death vehicles were traveling straight ahead when irrevocable collisions occurred.

This is ghastly data, but it will not become any less fearsome until everyone who ventures behind a steering wheel shows greater respect for the horsepower thus unleashed and his or her own horse-sense.

New York Is Also Like This

The Blue Angel (now 10 years old) played a big part in developing new singing stars ... It has seen many (who began thir careers there) "outgrow" it ... To a point where the club cannot afford to pay their tall salaries ... As a result, competitors get "names" who were "nobodies" when the Blue Angel took them on ...Some of them are Pearl Bailey, Evelyn Knight, Imogene Coca, Martha Wright and Mary McCarty.

Last January a newcomer named Felicia Sanders opened there for a two-week booking ... She clicked and was held over for ten more ... In the meantime, her first recording, "The Song" (from "Moulin Rouge"), became the nation's pet platter via Percy Faith's crew and Felicia's vocal-lure.

Her agent were offered as high as $.000 a week at major places — if she would desert the blue Angel ... She turned them down to resume there (at a lot less coin) on July 6th.

"Get it while you're Hot, girl," she was cautioned, "you stay Cold a long time!"

"Maybe so," she maybe-so'd, "but I want the Blue Angel people to make some money on me. They did all the gambling on me."

Polly Adler was America's chief Madam in the Prohibition Era ... Her book, "A House Is Not a Home," will make th best-seller lists Sunday ... When she was interviewed the other day, she nervously fingered a giant'sized diamond ring.

"How many karats?" asked the reporter.

At least seven cab drivers in the Times Square area gave the police considerable assistance in a hit and run homicide at 49th and 7th yestermorn ... They traced the hit and run killer and saw him park the car in a lot at 52nd and 6th ... The hackies who provided the police with full descriptions, etc., certainly rate commendations and consideration from Capt. W. E. McGinn of the Hack Bureau.

Tony LaMadriad, the Latin Quarter waiter who was killed trying to defend a bartender pal, never knew he was going to die on the Day He Was Born.

One of the hottest sellers among the recordings was made by a totally unknown singer on an obscure firm's label with only guitar accompaniment ... The singer, 16 years old, wrote it and made the master-record himself ... Cost him $8 ... He hoped to interest some music publisher in it ... Not one gave it a nod ... It has made a young fortune for the 16 year old composer-singer whose name is Don Howard ... The song: "Oh, Happy Day!"

A bedraggled pair got off a bus from Alabama at the corner of 2nd Avenue and 45th Street ... She had a child in her arms — one in a go-cart — and three others dragging along ... They walked over to a cop and inquired about a certain address ... He saw how weary they were and hailed a taxi ... He told the hackie to take them there and handed the driver $2.

A passerby who observed and listened handed the cop $5 ... "For what?" asked the officer... "For doing what you just did," said the stranger walking away ... The cop handed the fiver to the couple ... His Shield Number is 6717 ... His name is Patrolman Gene McCrohan of the 15th Precinct.

The news about Arthur Godfrey's doctor (the doctor who operated on Arthur) passing away—reminds us of this one ... Happened after an Irish Sweepstakes ... An ailing father (whose demise was expected any day, following a stroke) won $100,000 in that sweeps ... His family feared letting him know ... They persuaded his medico to break it to him ... The doctor spent an hour chatting about little things and then sprung it ... "You won $100,000 on the sweepstakes!"

The ill man's eyes lit up and he smiled. "Wonderful," he said. "If it weren't for your wonderful care I wouldn't be hear to hear it. I'm going to give you 10 percent of it to show my appreciation."

The MD turned white — clutched his heart — and dropped dead.

We were parked near the Mirror, News and Journal-American cars (which are outfitted with short-wave police call sets) near 51st and Champ's Restaurant the other 3 a. m. ... This corner is populated by sportsmen out of Runyon — all trying to make some income on the outcome of fights, ball games and other sports ... Many unescorted girls and women pass this corner ... We've never heard of any being molested or even ogled ... 'If I printed that," we told a character, "readers wouldn't believe it."

"You haven't been around," was the reply, "when these same birds get into fights because of unescorted women. Th ones who bother the dames are punks in Cadillacs!"

Jack O'Brian, the N. Y. Journal-American's seevy-radio oracle, flew up to Boston and got an exclusive interview with Godfrey... O'Brian reports tht Arthur's doctor wondered how he got his Big Break ... "I can tell you," replied the star, "in two words — Walter Winchell. One day in 1934 I was making $75 a week. The week after he boosted me I made $750 per. And then it was $1,000. I've never made less than that since" ... "You're making a little more than that now, aren't you?" kidded the doc ... "Ask O'Brian," chuckled Godfrey .... "Arthur now gets," disclosed the reporter, "$35,00 a week."

Do Moviegoers Want More Horror Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, June 20 — When I talk with directors, producers, and writers I seem to be persuaded that the screen, coincident with the advent of 3-D pictures, is about to embark upon a horror program for future screenfare. Is that necessary ;just because it is possible to present horror with greater facility than ever before? Do our moviegoers want the daylights scared out of them? Just because a new and advanced form of the medium has been develloped, dose it follow that grotesque and fantastic persons, animals, scenes, backgrounds, action must be introduced that will terrify the theater customers? What about children? Are they to be included, or will theater managers bar them from movie houses?

These so-called science fiction stories, I'm afraid, are going to become offensive, unless level-headed producers step in and head off the trend. Why should visitors from outer space be monsters always, villainous killers, war-makers, agents of destruction? Why not beautiful stories with regular folks from Mars, or from Venus, or from any of a million stars that may be worlds on which there is some form of life?

Why set a pattern now in outer space characterization that will be difficult to change later when movie audiences tire of unbelievable creatures from yonder way-stations in the realm of astronomy? Why can't Mars produce heroic characters, as well as monsters? In pictures I have seen, the space visitors, in a few instances, have been immune to our puny efforts to combat them or destroy them. Even the atom bomb was represented as nothing more than a drop of water on a duck's back.

When I hark back to Frankenstein, Dracula, King Kong and a few other examples of the horror breed of the past, they become tame and weak and insignificant when compared with the monstrosities of "War of the Worlds," "The House of Wax" or other examples such as "The beast from 20,000 Fathoms." I merely pose the question: Do normal, everyday moviegoers want the extreme in horror pictures? And, is it good sense to produce such subjects in introducing the 3-D innovation?

Preview Nights: "Julius Caesar," an MGM production, is a magnificent achievement. It is Shakespeare in the best tradition. Will the rank and file of movie fans appreciate this fact? Some of the finest exponents of the Bard of Avon are in there to interpret such famous fiction folks as Julius Caesar, Brutus, Cicero, Cassius, Portia and others, and these artists include Louis Calhern, James Mason, Deborah Kerr, Greer Garson, Edmund O'Brien, Marlon Brando, John Gielgud, George Macready—a veritable who's who. I wonder if the fans will like the unadulterated Elizabethan language, spoken so fluently in the earlier scenes. However, when the story starts racing and the plot begins to take form, the overwhelming action, the wonderful color backgrounds, players as Brando, Mason, Gielgud and Deborah Kerr will put dialogue in the shadows. I liked Mason's characterization of Brutus. Calhern as Caesar is virtually perfect, as one visualizes the character from the famous play. Marlon Brando does a remarkable characterization of Mark Antony. And don't overlook John Gielgud as Cassius. John Houseman is the producer, and Joseph L. Mankiewicz directed "julius Caeaer,, is a picture that will add prestige to the entire motion picture industry.

Timmons In Washington

U. S. Had Bib Part In Losing It's First War

WASHINGTON, D. C. — If the Korean truce were to boomerang on President Eisenhower and his administration, as some commentators have suggested, it would be quite unfair. But sometimes political trends have neither rhyme nor reason.

The truth is that the president knew, when he returned from his post election jaunt to Korea, that the United Nations had been placed in a position from which they could only withdraw by giving the advantage to the Communists. He is understood to have conveyed this gloomy forecast to some of his friends.

That was as apparent to other generals, active and retired, as it was to Dwight D. Eisenhower. When you get in a stalemate war, with casualties running high and no dcisive victory in sight, the best thing to do is to get out. Germany found herself in a considerably worse plight in World War I than now confronts the U. N. in Korea, and jumped at the chance for an armistice. History records other similar instances of negotiated peace, in which both sides were anxious to stop shooting.

In one respect, the president has apparently been unwise. His statement on April 16 that an armistice in Korea would "be a fraud," unless the Communists agreed to end their infiltration of southeast Asia, and his subsequent announcement in his letter to President Sygnman Rhee that the United States has abandoned every intent to bring about the unification of Korea by military power were viewed here as regrettable admissions of U. S. weakness. The April 16 avowal had no force behind it, even at the time it was made, and the later disavowal of any intent to fight the war to a finish, gave the Communists positive assurance they could proceed without fear of a big U.N. military offensive any time in the near future, if the truce negotiations failed.

What President Eisenhower did was to reverse the American Korean policy of three years ago, which was to unite the country and toss the Communists out. General Douglas MacArthur had accomplished this in large measure when the Chinese Reds, with their endless man power jumped into the fighting.

After that, hindsight now tells us, growing enemy strength steadily reversed the whole outlook and at any time in the past year, the men familiar with the Korean situation could have predicted the almost certai outcome.

The negotiated peace will not be such in the accpeted sense, for the firing line in the Far East now extends into Indo-China and Malaya and the fighting in those sectors may step up if the Korean hostilities end. But the pressure on the Communists — both the North Koreans and the Chinese — will be eased and they will have an opportunity to readjust their food and other supplies. Meanwhile, Korea will continue to be a U. N. problem, with the U. S. carrying the load.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai - shek has again faded from sight as a factor in the Asiatic outlook, though Admiral Arthur Radford, new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, formerly advocated the use of the Formosa army in an active role against the Communists. The Nationalist army is better equipped now than it was when General Mac Arthur left Japan, but it is still incapable of more than hit and run attacks. This, too, could have been forecast a year ago.

If the U. S. is bitter about the Korean truce, when it comes—the country is more likely to heave a sigh of relief — the embittered one should think back to June 1951, the decisive month of the war when General James Van Fleet had the advantage over them as yet poorly organized Communist armies but was ordered — by his own government acting under pressure from the United Nations — not to press the offensive. In the same month Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who admittedly didn't know much about how wars are fought, said the objective in Korea was to end the aggression and restore peace. Nothing was said about unifying Korea.

All in all, history probably will have to conclude that this time, the United States had a big part in losing its first war under United Nations jurisdiction.

Clark Guided Only By Broad Orders In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, Far East supreme commander, is dealing with the explosive Korean situation guided only by a broad order to maintain the safety and security of United Nations forces in South Korea.

The Pentagon, relying on Clark's political and military judgment, has sent him no new detailed military directives since President Syngman Rhee precipitated a crisis by ordering release of all non-Communist prisoners held by the U. N. in South Korea, it was learned today.

However, the White House and State Department, with the advice of the Pentagon Command, are keeping a sharp watch on military matters through reports from Clark.

A two-hour session of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was held late yesterday, apparently to consider the various, and dangerous, military potentialities created by what the U. S. has termed Rhee's violation of the "United Nations authority of command."

Beyond Rhee's order, which released upwards of 25,000 prisoners of war just as agreement on a truce appeared close, stood the possibility that Rhee might decide to order Republic of South Korea troops into some action not approved by the U. N. High Command—perhaps an offensive.

The military view here was that any such single-handed action would take ROK forces out of control of the Eighth Army, commanded by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, and thus repudiate the basic agreement made at the very start of the Korean conflict.

There has been talk here, including some within military circles, of keeping Rhee in line by withdrawing logistic support of ROK divisions.

However, to stop supplies, transportation and other support for ROK divisions would mean that the burden of manning the front would fall entirely on eight U. S. divisions in the Far East, plus the units of other U. N. nations in Korea.

The gravest of the several possibilities which Clark and the military command here had to contemplate, however, was that an incident might arise out of further attempts to release war prisoners or to protect those already out of the camps from being picked up by U. N. soldiers. A shooting incident between the Allies could bring tragic results.

Some military officials here indicated they were not entirely surprised at Rhee's decision to release the prisoners but were startled when he carried out that decision without telling the other Allies of the imminence of his action.

The disposition at the Pentagon, like that in U. S. diplomatic circles, was at least to hope that Rhee's action had not wrecked truce agreement prospects.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, such as failure of either husband or wife to praise the other and to show affection. Many wives who boast that their husbands are tops and really love them, go home and criticize them for having made a bad investment ten years ago. Husbands boast of their love for the "little woman," but fail to notice her hair-do or new hat, etc. Research proves hardly anything warps the personality of children more than failure by parents to show mutual affection.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes. According to writer Tom Henry, the U. S. Federal Trade Commission reviewed 636,096 advertisements and found only three per cent to be misleading. I'a not wholly convinced. In several instances I have examined "marked down" clothes at one store and have seen the idential garments elsewhere at the same price but marked "regular." Maybe it's an exception, or I'm "a born sneak."

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, or an "average" foot either. Biologist R. J. Williams states that the average shoe fits only about four percent of men who wear the same size. It takes 40 other sizes and shapes to fit the remainder fairly well and probably a hundred to fit women. Indeed, there ain't no such person as an average human being, nor is there an average foot. To me the most amazing hing is that 155,000,000 people are enough alike to live peaceably under a Constitution only a few hundred words long.

Quick Decisions Will Be Required During Holidays

CHICAGO, June 20. (Special)—Can you make quick decisions? If you can't, you had better stay off the nation's highways and streets over the Fourth of July week end, the National Safety Council said today.

"It has been estimated that the average motorist has to make from 20 to 50 decisions per hour, depending on the traffic," the council said, "and a wrong decision can be fatal. In extremely heavy traffic, like that during holidays, a driver is never more than a second away from an acciddent."

The council expects more pleasure - seeking motorists to climb into more cars and roll up more miles during this three day weekend celebration than ever before in the nation's history.

Nearly 40 million motor vehicles are expected to jam the highways, and their speedometers are expected to clock close to four billion miles. The increasing number of new cars on the road and the substantial rise in gasoline consumption, plus the fact that many summer vacationists will use the three-day weekend as the beginning or end of their regular vacation periods, threaten a heavy death toll unless extra care is used, the council warned.

The council is coordinating a nationwide campaign to hold down the holiday toll, and 161 national organizations have joined in the united effort. The campaign is designed to increase public awareness of the extra holiday hazards and the extra caution needed to overcome them. It also seeks to help officials, traffic officers and safety leaders in their efforts to reduce traffic accidents over the fourth.

Urging public support of the campaign, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the council, said excessive speed contributes to one out of three fatal traffic accidents.

"Speed control is the personal responsibility of every driver," he said. "A heavy foot on the throttle can mean a heavy heart for someone."

Advising an early start for holiday motor trips to reduce the temptation to speed, the council offered these tips to drivers:

1. Obey common sense as well as legal speed limits.
2. Keep your car under control at all times, so you can stop quickly if circumstances demand.
3. Keep fresh and alert at the wheel. You can't make split-second decisions if you're tired and fuzzy.
4. Keep a safe, clear stopping distance between you and the car ahead. Watch cars behind in your rear-view mirror.
5. Signal for turns well before turning. Avoid abrupt stops.
6. Slow down at sundown, and be sure you can stop within the range of your lights.

Oil Price Boost Makes Good News For Producers

AUSTIN, Texas, June 20 (AP) — This week's advance in the price of domestic crude oil was the best news that producers—particularly the independent operators—have had in six years.

While the higher price tag pleases the producer, it probably will prompt unhappy remarks from car owners in the next few weeks.

Higher wholesale prices on gasoline already have been announced in some parts of the country, and a general rise of at least one cent a gallon at the service station pump is likely.

Whether the average price inincrease of 25 cents per barrel for crude will stand up is not safely predictable, but it seems certain the search for new oil reserves will be encouraged.

"The little independents, the ones who do the wildcatting and find the new oil have been feeling the pinch for some time," said a spokesman for the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

"The cost of exploration, development, and production has kept going up, but the price for oil has stayed the same since 1947. This price rise is being greatly welcomed by our members, and we think it's going to encourage greater exploration."

Similar views were expressed by Hines Baker, president of Humble Oil and Refining Co., the second firm to announce higher prices this week.

"Rates of pay and costs of materials used in oil production have increased more than prices generally (since 1947)," he said. "Combined costs of finding, developing and producing oil have advanced even more.

"Crude oil prices have not reflected the decline in the value of the dollar nor any part of the large increase in costs that has occurred in the past five years."

Texas Railroad Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson also commended the advance in price. He had advocated a better price for several years.

Sabrejets Bag Six More MIGs

TOKYO, Saturday, June 20—UP American Sabrejet pilots went on another Communist jet fighter killing rampage Friday, knocking down six enemy planes while South Koreans and Chinese Reds battled to a draw on the ground.

The indecisive infantry action was at both ends of the 15-mile bulge the Reds drove into the United Nations east central sector six days ago. No change in the battlefront was reported.

But, in the air it was a different story. Led by America's 33rd jet ace Capt. Ralph Parr, of Apple Valley, Calif., the Sabrejet pilots scored their kills in protecting a fighter-bomber raid on a North Korean airfield and oil dump. A seventh Soviet-built MIG was damaged.

U. S. Jet Ace, Mother Target Of Red Threats

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 20—UP—Capt. Manuel Fernandez, No. 2 jet ace, said Saturday he and his mother have received letters on a threatening nature from "Communist sympathizers" calling him a "killer."

"Those letters did not come from religious fanatics," the 28-year-old flier from Miami said, at a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention. "They were from Communist sympathizers who don't wish to see the loss of their own people."

Fernandez, who is credited with shooting down 14 Russian-made MIGs and sharing the destruction of another, did not disclose the nature of the threats made against himself and his mother by the writers.

Wayne P. Morgan Is Accused Of Forgery

A Monroe man, Wayne P. Morgan, 49, is being held in the Ouachita Parish jail on two counts of forgery, Sheriff Bailey Grant said yesterday. He was arrested Friday afternoon.

Grant said a bond of $1,000 had been set for Morgan, but that he is being held in jail in default of the bond.

Clark Guided Only By Broad Orders In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, Far East supreme commander, is dealing with the explosive Korean situation guided only by a broad order to maintain the safety and security of United Nations forces in South Korea.

The Pentagon, relying on Clark's political and military judgment, has sent him no new detailed military directives since President Syngman Rhee precipitated a crisis by ordering release of all non-Communist prisoners held by the U. N. in South Korea, it was learned today.

However, the White House and State Department, with the advice of the Pentagon Command, are keeping a sharp watch on military matters through reports from Clark.

A two-hour session of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was held late yesterday, apparently to consider the various, and dangerous, military potentialities created by what the U. S. has termed Rhee's violation of the "United Nations authority of command."

Beyond Rhee's order, which released upwards of 25,000 prisoners of war just as agreement on a truce appeared close, stood the possibility that Rhee might decide to order Republic of South Korea troops into some action not approved by the U. N. High Command—perhaps an offensive.

The military view here was that any such single-handed action would take ROK forces out of control of the Eighth Army, commanded by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, and thus repudiate the basic agreement made at the very start of the Korean conflict.

There has been talk here, including some within military circles, of keeping Rhee in line by withdrawing logistic support of ROK divisions.

However, to stop supplies, transportation and other support for ROK divisions would mean that the burden of manning the front would fall entirely on eight U. S. divisions in the Far East, plus the units of other U. N. nations in Korea.

The gravest of the several possibilities which Clark and the military command here had to contemplate, however, was that an incident might arise out of further attempts to release war prisoners or to protect those already out of the camps from being picked up by U. N. soldiers. A shooting incident between the Allies could bring tragic results.

Some military officials here indicated they were not entirely surprised at Rhee's decision to release the prisoners but were startled when he carried out that decision without telling the other Allies of the imminence of his action.

The disposition at the Pentagon, like that in U. S. diplomatic circles, was at least to hope that Rhee's action had not wrecked truce agreement prospects.

Quick Decisions Will Be Required During Holidays

CHICAGO, June 20. (Special)—Can you make quick decisions? If you can't, you had better stay off the nation's highways and streets over the Fourth of July week end, the National Safety Council said today.

"It has been estimated that the average motorist has to make from 20 to 50 decisions per hour, depending on the traffic," the council said, "and a wrong decision can be fatal. In extremely heavy traffic, like that during holidays, a driver is never more than a second away from an accident."

The council expects more pleasure - seeking motorists to climb into more cars and roll up more miles during this three day weekend celebration than ever before in the nation's history.

Nearly 40 million motor vehicles are expected to jam the highways, and their speedometers are expected to clock close to four billion miles. The increasing number of new cars on the road and the substantial rise in gasoline consumption, plus the fact that many summer vacationists will use the three-day weekend as the beginning or end of their regular vacation periods, threaten a heavy death toll unless extra care is used, the council warned.

The council is coordinating a nationwide campaign to hold down the holiday toll, and 161 national organizations have joined in the united effort. The campaign is designed to increase public awareness of the extra holiday hazards and the extra caution needed to overcome them. It also seeks to help officials, traffic officers and safety leaders in their efforts to reduce traffic accidents over the fourth.

Urging public support of the campaign, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the council, said excessive speed contributes to one out of three fatal traffic accidents.

"Speed control is the personal responsibility of every driver," he said. "A heavy foot on the throttle can mean a heavy heart for someone."

Advising an early start for holiday motor trips to reduce the temptation to speed, the council offered these tips to drivers:

1. Obey common sense as well as legal speed limits.
2. Keep your car under control at all times, so you can stop quickly if circumstances demand.
3. Keep fresh and alert at the wheel. You can't make split-second decisions if you're tired and fuzzy.
4. Keep a safe, clear stopping distance between you and the car ahead. Watch cars behind in your rear-view mirror.
5. Signal for turns well before turning. Avoid abrupt stops.
6. Slow down at sundown, and be sure you can stop within the range of your lights.

Oil Price Boost Makes Good News For Producers

AUSTIN, Texas, June 20 (AP) — This week's advance in the price of domestic crude oil was the best news that producers—particularly the independent operators—have had in six years.

While the higher price tag pleases the producer, it probably will prompt unhappy remarks from car owners in the next few weeks.

Higher wholesale prices on gasoline already have been announced in some parts of the country, and a general rise of at least one cent a gallon at the service station pump is likely.

Whether the average price increase of 25 cents per barrel for crude will stand up is not safely predictable, but it seems certain the search for new oil reserves will be encouraged.

"The little independents, the ones who do the wildcatting and find the new oil have been feeling the pinch for some time," said a spokesman for the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

"The cost of exploration, development, and production has kept going up, but the price for oil has stayed the same since 1947. This price rise is being greatly welcomed by our members, and we think it's going to encourage greater exploration."

Similar views were expressed by Hines Baker, president of Humble Oil and Refining Co., the second firm to announce higher prices this week.

"Rates of pay and costs of materials used in oil production have increased more than prices generally (since 1947)," he said. "Combined costs of finding, developing and producing oil have advanced even more.

"Crude oil prices have not reflected the decline in the value of the dollar nor any part of the large increase in costs that has occurred in the past five years."

Texas Railroad Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson also commended the advance in price. He had advocated a better price for several years.

Sabrejets Bag Six More MIGs

TOKYO, Saturday, June 20—UP American Sabrejet pilots went on another Communist jet fighter killing rampage Friday, knocking down six enemy planes while South Koreans and Chinese Reds battled to a draw on the ground.

The indecisive infantry action was at both ends of the 15-mile bulge the Reds drove into the United Nations east central sector six days ago. No change in the battlefront was reported.

But, in the air it was a different story. Led by America's 33rd jet ace Capt. Ralph Parr, of Apple Valley, Calif., the Sabrejet pilots scored their kills in protecting a fighter-bomber raid on a North Korean airfield and oil dump. A seventh Soviet-built MIG was damaged.

U. S. Jet Ace, Mother Target Of Red Threats

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 20—UP—Capt. Manuel Fernandez, No. 2 jet ace, said Saturday he and his mother have received letters on a threatening nature from "Communist sympathizers" calling him a "killer."

"Those letters did not come from religious fanatics," the 28-year-old flier from Miami said, at a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention. "They were from Communist sympathizers who don't wish to see the loss of their own people."

Fernandez, who is credited with shooting down 14 Russian-made MIGs and sharing the destruction of another, did not disclose the nature of the threats made against himself and his mother by the writers.

Wayne P. Morgan Is Accused Of Forgery

A Monroe man, Wayne P. Morgan, 49, is being held in the Ouachita Parish jail on two counts of forgery, Sheriff Bailey Grant said yesterday. He was arrested Friday afternoon.

Grant said a bond of $1,000 had been set for Morgan, but that he is being held in jail in default of the bond.

Ike's Former Driver Shot In Mississippi

COLUMBIA, Miss., June 20 (AP) — Kenneth King, one-time Army chauffeur for President Eisenhower, was in a critical condition Friday with a rifle wound in the chest.

King, 25, of the Bunkerhill community, was found in a wooded area. Authorities said they did not know how he had been shot. He was picked up by an unidentified motorist late Wednesday.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, such as failure of either husband or wife to praise the other and to show affection. Many wives who boast that their husbands are tops and really love them, go home and criticize them for having made a bad investment ten years ago. Husbands boast of their love for the "little woman," but fail to notice her hair-do or new hat, etc. Research proves hardly anything warps the personality of children more than failure by parents to show mutual affection.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes. According to writer Tom Henry, the U. S. Federal Trade Commission reviewed 636,096 advertisements and found only three per cent to be misleading. I's not wholly convinced. In several instances I have examined "marked down" clothes at one store and have seen the idential garments elsewhere at the same price but marked "regular." Maybe it's an exception, or I'm "a born sneak."

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, or an "average" foot either. Biologist R. J. Williams states that the average shoe fits only about four percent of men who wear the same size. It takes 40 other sizes and shapes to fit the remainder fairly well and probably a hundred to fit women. Indeed, there ain't no such person as an average human being, nor is there an average foot. To me the most amazing hing is that 155,000,000 people are enough alike to live peaceably under a Constitution only a few hundred words long.

by Philip Hulitar

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Look to Philip Hulitar for the shape of things to come. This handsome, young American designer has devoted his great talents to glorifying the supple, lithe American figure. There's no froufrou about his creations. Pattern M309 from his current collection is simple as possible—it's even easy to sew—yet every line is molded to do the most for your figure. In a slender season, Hulitar balances a square-cut neckline on a silhouette straight as a string. The effect is dramatic—slimming—tall-making. Subtly, he elongates the waist by placing a pocket low on one hip. Cleverly, he gives walking ease with an up curve at each side of the narrow skirt. Choose a fine cotton, linen, or shantung—sew this with loving care—it's your expensive, exclusive Hulitar Original.

Pattern M309 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 35-inch fabric.

CIO Gives Tips For Prosperity

WASHINGTON, June 20—UP—The CIO Saturday gave its anti-depression prescription for a peacetime economy—creation of 2 million new jobs each year through 1956 while boosting average income of each man, woman and child by $265.

CIO President Walter P. Reuther released a report prepared by the organization's economic policy committee on post-Korean war prosspects.

The alternative to planning for prosperity, he said, is the possibility of "a new and unpopular draft—a draft in a standing, growing, dangerous army of the unemployed."

Reuther told a news conference the CIO is alarmed about an Eisenhower administration tendency to "defer advance planning." To follow "drifting policy," he said, "would be "economically insane and morally untenable ... a policy which would place millions of Americans on a peacetime dole."

Administration advisers told newsmen two weeks ago plans for dealing with any economic setbacks are under study. They stressed that no depression or major recession was expected, but said details of a long-range program were being worked out—"just in case." Among other things, they said, it would include a huge public works program, to be invoked as a "last resort."

Reuther said some people in the business community think a little depression would not be a bad thing.

Louisiana Men Are Casualties

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The Defense Department announced today that five Louisiana soldiers were wounded, one missing in action and another captured in the Korean area.

Wounded:

Sgt. Jimmy O. Billon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar D. Billon, 319 East Livingston Place, New Orleans.

Pvt. Isaac Caldwell Jr., grandson of Mrs. Alma Hamilton, 7816 Fairfield Ave., Shreveport.

TO RECEIVE HONOR—Ralph Armstrong, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Armstrong, and member of Troop 1, Boy Scouts of America, will receive the Ad Altare Dei award tonight in special servvices at 7:30 p. m. at the St. Matthew's Church. The award is given by the Catholic scouts for servvices to the church.

Local Scout To Get Award

Ralph Armstrong, member of Troop 1, Boy Scouts of America, will receive the Ad Altare Dei award in a special service tonight. The award will be presented by Msgr. J. C. Marsh.

The special honor is the highest that can be bestowed upon a Catholic scout.

Armstrong has been in scouting since November of 1950, and became a member of Troop 1, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, in March of 1952. He is a senior patrol leader and will represent the troop at the national jamboree at Irving Ranch, California, later this summer.

The public is invited to attend the service, which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Battery Booster Dispute Renewed

WASHINGTON, June 20—UP—The Senate small business committee Saturday moved back into the dispute over AD-X2, the chemical which is supposed to give new pep to old batteries.

Chairman Edward J. Thye (R-Minn), called public hearings Monday because he is worried about delays caused by time-consuming scientific tests on the controversial product.

AD-X2 is manufactured by Jess M. Ritchie of Oakland, Calif. The dispute over it led to dismissal and later reinstatement of Dr. Allen V. Astin, director of the U.S. Bureau of Standards.

The bureau held that the product did not meet the manufacturer's claims that it will add substantially to the life of worn-out batteries.

When Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks announced that a committee of scientists would be set up to review the bureau's findings, they cancelled previously-scheduled hearings.

Thye told a news conference Saturday he now had reinstated the hearings because the tests may take up to a year.

"If he (Ritchie) goes broke." Thye said, "it won't make much difference what the tests show."

He promised to "hear all sides of this controversy." He said Ritchie will be the first witness Monday; Astin, the second. Other witnesses, representing private laboratories which tested the product, and military and commercial users of it will be heard.

workers' revolt. The official ADN news agency and the party press published dispatches from a score of cities dedicated to the theme Western agents and Fascists provoked the putsch, that it was smashed and that the rank and file has pledged to go back to work.

The dispatches contained the very information the West otherwise never could have learned through the ring of steel that Soviet martial law has forged. In each case, the regime admitted that every major city and major industry was paralyzed as though a D-Day signal had flashed through.

By the Communists' own listing of trouble spots, it became clear that several million East Germans almost half the working force, had risen in fury against hated bosses.

The riots in East Berlin, where 50,000 men battled Communist police and Russian tanks until two full armored divisions tamped down the fires of revolt, had parallels near and far.

Allied informants said the giant Leuna synthetic gasoline plant in Halle, set afire by the rebels, was reported largely destroyed and its neighbor, a synthetic rubber plant, was more than half wrecked. These were major suppliers of gasoline and tires for the 300,000-man Soviet occupation army.

The Red regime, fighting to present a picture of public support by the resumption of work in the East zone, made known itself the following facts:

1. The attack on the Leuna and Buna plants at Halle.

2. A tremendous strike at the Ernst Thaelmann heavy machine tool plant, formerly a Krupp concern, in Magdeburg. A leader, Karl Gross, was executed.

3. Major strikes in the Neptune shipyards in the Baltic port of Rostock, the Warnow-Werft yards in Warnemuende, the soft coal and uranium mines throughout East Germany, the biggest silk factory of the zone at Rathenow, the Zeiss optical plant at Jena, and the Leipzig plant which makes buses and trucks for the Russian Army.

The arrangements committee said others will be added to the list of speakers.

The funeral procession will then wind over a 35-mile route to Wellwood Cemetery, near Farmingdale on Long Island, for burial ceremonies at 2 p.m.

More speeches were planned at the cemetery.

A guard was posted over the caskets by the "Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case," which set up the group to handle funeral arrangements.

The committee fought until the day of execution to secure a new trial for the Rosenbergs.

The hearse which brought the Rosenberg bodies from the prison was unescorted.

No demonstrations were reported as it proceeded slowly over 30 miles of thoroughfares to the funeral home.

The widowed mothers of the Rosenbergs were in seclusion, as were the couple's two sons, Michael, 10, and Robert, 6. The children were under the care of Bernard Bach of Toms River, N. J.

U. S. Marshal William A. Carroll was quoted by the New York Daily News as saying today that up until the moment of execution the Rosenbergs could have saved themselves by co-operating with the government.

Carroll was in charge of the executions.

"There was a direct wire open" the News quoted the marshal as saying. "I had instructions to halt the executions at any time the Rosenbergs indicated they were ready to co-operate with the government . . . but neither one did."

The News said the Rosenbergs made separate wills shortly before they died.

Contents of the wills were not disclosed, pending probation.

Tomorrow, the News said, Marshal Carroll will gather up the couple's personal effects and place them under lock and key until their final disposition.

Mississippi River Bridge Row Center

NEW ORLEANS, June 20—UP—Controversy flared Saturday over the proposed Mississippi river bridge at New Orleans after two members of the bridge authority attacked a protest by the Dock Board of the highway department's application for the project.

State Senator Alvin T. Stumpf and Richard W. Freeman said it was their belief that the newest highway department plans had been altered to meet the objecions of the Dock Board.

The Dock Board, in a letter to Col. Charles T. Tench, U. S. district engineer, said that a pier on the project would constitute a navigational hazard.

The bridge authority members answered that there are many types of hazards involved "in permitting any fixed or moving object in the river." But they said such risks must be taken.

Police Find Reptiles In Glass Jars

West Monroe police decided this week that the aged expression, "snake in the grass", is in reality "snake in the glass."

On Thursday the police received a call that several West Monroe youths had found a couple of jars full of snakes. Upon investigating, officers Ray Wyles and H. L. McPhail discovered that it was the snakes that were "pickled."

The youths said that they had found the reptiles, well preserved in alchol, at a trash pile near the fairgrounds. The find consisted of one large jar containing a large reptile, identified only as a lizard, and a small snake, and a smaller jar containing a rattlesnake's head.

Police were unable to say for sure how the reptiles found their way to the fairgrounds, but voiced several opinions. One possibility was that some student of biology had misplaced his homework, or had failed to identify the reptiles correctly on an examination, and had "kidnapped" the specimens to make sure that they would never darken his curriculum again.

Other explanation included the possibility that the "find" had been discarded by some carnaval worker in the area.

If anyone should come across a headless rattlesnake or a broken hearted lizard, please direct it to the West Monroe Police Station, where it can pick-up its "better half."

Design Of Tie Row Thrown Out By High Court

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 20 (AP)—Cavalier Cravat Co. today won federal court dismissal of a patent controversy suit filed against it by Wembley, Inc., manufacturer of men's neckwear.

The New Orleans firm had attempted to invalidate Cavalier's patent on the so-called "locked-in construction" of neckties.

Herman Handmaker, attorney for Cavalier, said that Wembley agreed to pay $10,000 for past infringement on Cavalier's rights to the tie construction and in the future will pay a royalty for making ties by this method.

The construction plan is used to make the square-end necktie, fully sealed as one piece and with no stitches showing. According to the makers, this guarantees a long-lasting necktie which holds its shape well.

Protest Verdict By Calling Strike

HONOLULU, June 20 (AP)—Three thousand of Hawaii's 26,000 stevedores and sugar workers walked off their jobs yesterday and today in protest against the conviction of a longshore leader in Hawaii's Communist conspiracy case.

The walkouts stopped dock operation at all Hawaii ports and shut down five sugar plantations. Sugar employers said workers left machinery going at one plantation. Truck drivers at Honokaa, on the island of Hawaii, stopped their trucks on the road and walked away.

Two ships sailed without filling their cargoes. Nine more were tied up in ports.

Most sugar plantations operate on a five-day week so the full effect will not be felt until Monday.

The walkouts began within an hour after a racially-mixed jury yesterday convicted Jack Hall, Hawaii regional director of Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. Hall and six co-defendants were found guilty of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

The trial lasted 7½ months but a juror said only one ballot was needed to decide. Defense Attorney Richard Gladstein said he would seek a new trial. He denounced the whole thing as a "false and fraudulent witch hunt."

State Highway Branch Asking Project Bidding

BATON ROUGE, June 20 (AP)—The Louisiana Department of Highways announced today that sealed bids will be received until 11 a. m. July 1 on a dozen projects throughout the state.

The projects, by parish:

Mississippi Bar Ends Convention

Other officers chosen at the final session included Dr. Robert Farley, dean of the University of Mississippi law school, vice president, and Robert Nichols of Jackson, retiring president of the junior bar section, as second vice president.

The lawyers adopted a resolution of the Washington County bar to petition the Legislature to abolish the office of justice of the peace. The resolution asked for replacement by an office requiring the services of persons qualified in law.

Roll Call

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—How Louisians congressmen were recorded as voting on recent roll calls:

HOUSE

On passage, 363 to 35, of bill extending reciprocal trade act for another year: For—Boggs, Brooks, Hebert, Long, Morrison, Passman, Thompson. Not voting—Willis.

On adoption, 217 to 179 of motion to delete from independent office appropriation bill language authorizing the Veterans Administration to investigate finances of veterans seeking free treatment of ailments not connected with their military service: For — Boggs, Brooks, Long, Thompson, Willis. Against—Hebert, Passman. Not voting—Morrison.

SENATE

On Williams (R-Del) amendment to Agriculture Department appropriation bill to reduce funds for conservation program by 55 million dollars, rejected 38 to 38: For—Ellender, Long.

Mount Everest Climbers Back From Conquest

KATMANDU, Nepal, June 20 (AP)—Tribesman Tensing Bhutia, the native hero of the Himalayas, and Sir Edmund Hilary of New Zealand returned here today in royal processional grandeur from their conquest of Mt. Everest.

Flowers and ceremonial red powder were showered on them and the red carpet was rolled out by the King and the cheering people of this remote mountain kingdom capital.

The whole city concentrated mostly on Nepal's own hero, the Sherpa tribesman guide Tensing, called the Tiger of Tigers for his mountaineering prowess in a career he is giving up now that he has topped 29,002-foot Everest, the world's high spot Hillary was his companion at the crest.

From Banepa, 20 miles away, Hillary, Tensing and British Col. John Hunt, director of the first successful expedition to the top of the world were brought to Katamandu in a three-mile-long procession. Roadsides were jammed with rapturous Nepalese.

In an ornate four-horse coach garlanded with flowers rode Tensing with his Indian wife and two daughters on one side and Hunt and Hillary on the other.

Earlier, when the expedition arrived at Banepa, a tiny hilltop village, the welcome made the hills ring.

Tensing smilingly disengaged himself from a Communist who had ventured out to Banepa and whispered in Tensing's ear: "This Communist is welcome."

The Sherpa guide replied: "I am no politician, just a humble mountain climber. Reaching the top of Everest was no politics."

Nepal is a neighbor of Communist-captive Tibet and has an internal Communist problem of its own.

More honors await the Everesh conquerors in New Delhi, where India's government is preparing a big welcome, and in London where Queen Elizabeth already has knighted Hillary and Hunt and her government is pondering over what to award Tensing.

Short Courses In Crafts At Local College

Another "first" in curricular offerings at Northeast State will be the three short courses in crafts scheduled this summer for teachers.

One semester of credit art will be given for each course, which will be of one-week duration, Dean William M. Smith announced.

The classes are designed primarfly to train people who teach fyouth groups such as Boy and Girl Scouts, church organizations, playground and other recreational groups.

Classes will meet from 1 to 4 p.m. from Monday through Friday in the clothing laboratory of the Home Economics Department in the Science Building.

The week of July 6 will be devoted to work with leather; the week of July 13 to work with aluminum; the week of July 20 to general crafts in several types of media.

Registration fee for each course will be $2, which covers the cost of materials to be used in classes.

To earn college credit in the short courses requires registering, attending all sessions, and completing assigned projects satisfactorily, Dean Smith said.

Only 30 students will be permitted to enroll in a class. Mrs. Evelyn M. Otts, director of teacher training at Northeast, is now receiving reservations for each or all of these courses. These may be made by telephone for the convenience of persons interested in the work.

Large Group Enlists In Louisiana Purchase Unit

A large group of young men from northeast Louisiana have joined the recently organized Louisiana unit of the Marine corps entitled the Louisiana Purchase platoon, Marine Recruiter Sgt. L. H. Dickey announced here today.

The first man to sign up of the new platoon was William A. Jones, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jones, Sr., of West Monroe. The second was Johnny Roy Lamber, son of Mrs. Ruby S. Halbrooks of West Monroe.

The platoon will be composed of 150 men all from Louisiana who will train as an individual unit. They will train at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

Upon completion of their training, the Louisiana Purchase Platoon will be promoted en masse to private first class with special honors going to outstanding individuals of the platoon who will be designated as "Honor Men."

The unit will have a banner of it's own and through the entire nine weeks of training will maintain its identity as the Louisiana Purchase platoon. It is anticipated that seasoned Marine corps veterans, all natives of Louisiana, will be designated as instructors who will guide the platoon through their entire training.

Maj. C. E. Corley, officer in charge of the Louisiana area, announced that only a few vacancies remain and that young men interested in joining this unique platoon should contact their local Marine Recruiting office as soon as possible.

Airline Future Is Placed With Area Residents

LITTLE ROCK, June 20—UP—An Arkansas congressman Saturday warned the people of four states to be served by an extension of Trans-Texas Airways operations to "use it or lose it."

Rep. Oren Harris, Democrat of El Dorado, spoke at ceremonies here attended by officials from Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas.

The four states will be served by the new air network that goes into operation soon.

Harris traced the history of the long fight to convince the civil aeronautics board that the enlarged service to Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee points would be feasible.

The congressman, a member of the Interstate Commerce committee in the House, said it would be up to the people of the region to make the new service pay.

"You must use it or lose it," he said.

Commercial airline service has become a two-part system composed of trunkline and local service operations, Harris said. He added that local service such as that provided by the Texas firm is "here to stay."

European Men Get Low Rating From A Texan

HOUSTON, June 20—UP—Mrs. Louise Cochran, Houston's unofficial delegate to the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, thinks European men "lack something."

Mrs. Cochran, a red-haired, 39-year-old widow returned home Friday night and said she would start back to selling real estate for a living Monday.

But she said she had made some observations of European men.

"They just lack something," she said. "They were lovely, but there just isn't anything to compare with American men."

She said it rained and "was so cold" in London during the coronation and that the rain followed everywhere she went—to Rome, Paris and Naples among other places.

Mrs. Cochran cabled Queen Elizabeth herself for accommodations for the coronation and received confirmation of hotel accommodations signed "Sir Alan Lascelles." He is the Queen's secretary.

When she arrived, a palace spokesman denied the confirmation had been sent. She was finally given use of the London home of Radio Commentator Lowell Thomas.

"I feel just wonderful and I'm sure Sir Alan does too now that I've left London," she remarked gaily. "I called him for three days running and he was afraid to talk to me."

CIO Gives Tips For Prosperity

WASHINGTON, June 20—UP—The CIO Saturday gave its anti-depression prescription for a peace-time economy—creation of 2 million new jobs each year through 1956 while boosting average income of each man, woman and child by $265.

CIO President Walter P. Reuther released a report prepared by the organization's economic policy committee on post-Korean war prosspects.

The alternative to planning for prosperity, he said, is the possibility of "a new and unpopular draft—a draft in a standing, growing, dangerous army of the unemployed."

Reuther told a news conference the CIO is alarmed about an Eisenhower administration tendency to "defer advance planning." To follow "drifting policy," he said, "would be "economically insane and morally untenable ... a policy which would place millions of Americans on a peacetime dole."

Administration advisers told newsmen two weeks ago plans for dealing with any economic setbacks are under study. They stressed that no depression or major recession was expected, but said details of a long-range program were being worked out—"just in case." Among other things, they said, it would include a huge public works program, to be invoked as a "last resort."

Reuther said some people in the business community think a little depression would not be a bad thing.

Louisiana Men Are Casualties

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The Defense Department announced today that five Louisiana soldiers were wounded, one missing in action and another captured in the Korean area.

TO RECEIVE HONOR—Ralph Armstrong, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Armstrong, and member of Troop 1, Boy Scouts of America, will receive the Ad Altare Dei award tonight in special services at 7:30 p. m. at the St. Matthew's Church. The award is given by the Catholic scouts for servvices to the church.

Local Scout To Get Award

Ralph Armstrong, member of Troop 1, Boy Scouts of America will receive the Ad Altare Dei award in a special service tonight. The award will be presented by Msgr. J. C. Marsh.

Armstrong has been in scouting since November of 1950, and became a member of Troop 1, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, in March of 1952. He is a senior patrol leader and will represent the troop at the national jamboree at Irving Ranch, California, later this summer.

The public is invited to attend the service, which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Battery Booster Dispute Renewed

WASHINGTON, June 20—UP—The Senate small business committee Saturday moved back into the dispute over AD-X2, the chemical which is supposed to give new pep to old batteries.

Chairman Edward J. Thye (R-Minn), called public hearings Monday because he is worried about delays caused by time-consuming scientific tests on the controversial product.

AD-X2 is manufactured by Jess M. Ritchie of Oakland, Calif. The dispute over it led to dismissal and later reinstatement of Dr. Allen V. Astin, director of the U.S. Bureau of Standards.

The bureau held that the product did not meet the manufacturer's claims that it will add substantially to the life of worn-out batteries.

When Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks announced that a committee of scientists would be set up to review the bureau's findings, they cancelled previously-scheduled hearings.

Thye told a news conference Saturday he now had reinstated the hearings because the tests may take up to a year.

"If he (Ritchie) goes broke." Thye said, "it won't make much difference what the tests show."

He promised to "hear all sides of this controversy." He said Ritchie will be the first witness Monday; Astin, the second. Other witnesses, representing private laboratories which tested the product, and military and commercial users of it will be heard.

workers' revolt. The official ADN news agency and the party press published dispatches from a score of cities dedicated to the theme Western agents and Fascists provoked the putsch, that it was smashed and that the rank and file has pledged to go back to work.

The dispatches contained the very information the West otherwise never could have learned through the ring of steel that Soviet martial law has forged. In each case, the regime admitted that every major city and major industry was paralyzed as though a D-Day signal had flashed through.

By the Communists' own listing of trouble spots, it became clear that several million East Germans almost half the working force, had risen in fury against hated bosses.

The riots in East Berlin, where 50,000 men battled Communist police and Russian tanks until two full armored divisions tamped down the fires of revolt, had parallels near and far.

Allied informants said the giant Leuna synthetic gasoline plant in Halle, set afire by the rebels, was reported largely destroyed and its neighbor, a synthetic rubber plant, was more than half wrecked. Both were major suppliers of gasoline and tires for the 300,000-man Soviet occupation army.

The Red regime, fighting to present a picture of public support by the resumption of work in the East zone, made known itself the following facts:

1. The attack on the Leuna and Buna plants at Halle.

2. A tremendous strike at the Ernst Thaelmann heavy machine tool plant, formerly a Krupp concern, in Magdeburg. A leader, Karl Gross, was executed.

3. Major strikes in the Neptune shipyards in the Baltic port of Rostock, the Warnow-Werft yards in Warnemuende, the soft coal and uranium mines throughout East Germany, the biggest silk factory of the zone at Rathenow, the Zeiss optical plant at Jena, and the Leipzig plant which makes buses and trucks for the Russian Army.

The arrangements committee said others will be added to the list of speakers.

The funeral procession will then wind over a 35-mile route to Wellwood Cemetery, near Farmingdale on Long Island, for burial ceremonies at 2 p.m.

More speeches were planned at the cemetery.

A guard was posted over the caskets by the "Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case," which set up the group to handle funeral arrangements.

The committee fought until the day of execution to secure a new trial for the Rosenbergs.

The hearse which brought the Rosenberg bodies from the prison was unescorted.

No demonstrations were reported as it proceeded slowly over 30 miles of thoroughfares to the funeral home.

The widowed mothers of the Rosenbergs were in seclusion, as were the couple's two sons, Michael, 10, and Robert, 6. The children were under the care of Bernard Bach of Toms River, N. J.

U. S. Marshal William A. Carroll was quoted by the New York Daily News as saying today that up until the moment of execution the Rosenbergs could have saved themselves by co-operating with the government.

Carroll was in charge of the executions.

"There was a direct wire open" the News quoted the marshal as saying. "I had instructions to halt the executions at any time the Rosenbergs indicated they were ready to co-operate with the government . . . but neither one did."

The News said the Rosenbergs made separate wills shortly before they died.

Contents of the wills were not disclosed, pending probation.

Tomorrow, the News said, Marshal Carroll will gather up the couple's personal effects and place them under lock and key until their final disposition.

Mississippi River Bridge Row Center

NEW ORLEANS, June 20—UP—Controversy flared Saturday over the proposed Mississippi river bridge at New Orleans after two members of the bridge authority attacked a protest by the Dock Board of the highway department's application for the project.

State Senator Alvin T. Stumpf and Richard W. Freeman said it was their belief that the newest highway department plans had been altered to meet the objecions of the Dock Board.

The Dock Board, in a letter to Col. Charles T. Tench, U. S. district engineer, said that a pier on the project would constitute a navigational hazard.

The bridge authority members answered that there are many types of hazards involved "in permitting any fixed or moving object in the river." But they said such risks must be taken.

Police Find Reptiles In Glass Jars

West Monroe police decided this week that the aged expression, "snake in the grass", is in reality "snake in the glass."

On Thursday the police received a call that several West Monroe youths had found a couple of jars full of snakes. Upon investigating, officers Ray Wyles and H. L. McPhail discovered that it was the snakes that were "pickled."

The youths said that they had found the reptiles, well preserved in alchol, at a trash pile near the fairgrounds. The find consisted of one large jar containing a large reptile, identified only as a lizard, and a small snake, and a smaller jar containing a rattlesnake's head.

Police were unable to say for sure how the reptiles found their way to the fairgrounds, but voiced several opinions. One possibility was that some student of biology had misplaced his homework, or had failed to identify the reptiles correctly on an examination, and had "kidnapped" the specimens to make sure that they would never darken his curriculum again.

Other explanation included the possibility that the "find" had been discarded by some carnaval worker in the area.

If anyone should come across a headless rattlesnake or a broken hearted lizard, please direct it to the West Monroe Police Station, where it can pick-up its "better half."

Design Of Tie Row Thrown Out By High Court

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 20 (AP)—Cavalier Cravat Co. today won federal court dismissal of a patent controversy suit filed against it by Wembley, Inc., manufacturer of men's neckwear.

The New Orleans firm had attempted to invalidate Cavalier's patent on the so-called "locked-in construction" of neckties.

Herman Handmaker, attorney for Cavalier, said that Wembley agreed to pay $10,000 for past infringement on Cavalier's rights to the tie construction and in the future will pay a royalty for making ties by this method.

The construction plan is used to make the square-end necktie, fully sealed as one piece and with no stitches showing. According to the makers, this guarantees a long-lasting necktie which holds its shape well.

Protest Verdict By Calling Strike

HONOLULU, June 20 (AP)—Three thousand of Hawaii's 26,000 stevedores and sugar workers walked off their jobs yesterday and today in protest against the conviction of a longshore leader in Hawaii's Communist conspiracy case.

The walkouts stopped dock operation at all Hawaii ports and shut down five sugar plantations. Sugar employers said workers left machinery going at one plantation. Truck drivers at Honokaa, on the island of Hawaii, stopped their trucks on the road and walked away.

Two ships sailed without filling their cargoes. Nine more were tied up in ports.

Most sugar plantations operate on a five-day week so the full effect will not be felt until Monday.

The walkouts began within an hour after a racially-mixed jury yesterday convicted Jack Hall, Hawaii regional director of Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. Hall and six co-defendants were found guilty of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

The trial lasted 7½ months but a juror said only one ballot was needed to decide. Defense Attorney Richard Gladstein said he would seek a new trial. He denounced the whole thing as a "false and fraudulent witch hunt."

State Highway Branch Asking Project Bidding

BATON ROUGE, June 20 (AP)—The Louisiana Department of Highways announced today that sealed bids will be received until 11 a. m. July 1 on a dozen projects throughout the state.

Mississippi Bar Ends Convention

Other officers chosen at the final session included Dr. Robert Farley, dean of the University of Mississippi law school, vice president, and Robert Nichols of Jackson, retiring president of the junior bar section, as second vice president.

The lawyers adopted a resolution of the Washington County bar to petition the Legislature to abolish the office of justice of the peace. The resolution asked for replacement by an office requiring the services of persons qualified in law.

Madam Chiang Expresses Thanks To Toastmasters

Lou A. Branch, president of the Monroe Toastmaster Club, received a letter today from Madame Chiang Kai-Shek stating that the tribute which the Twin Cities was bestowing upon General Chiang Kai-Shek was "evidence of good will and admiration on the part of the two Louisiana cities."

The local Toastmasters Club is sponsoring a Chiang Kai-Shek day on June 26 to pay honor to the Nationalist leader.

The letter from Madame Chiang Kai-Shek reads as follows:

"My husband wishes me to write to thank you and the people of the city of Monroe and West Monroe, Louisiana, for the kind greetings which were so warmly expressed in your letter of May 15. We are very happy that our good friends, General and Mrs. Chennault, are in your midst.

"The president feels that it is a great tribute and honor you are planning to bestow on him. This evidence of good will and admiration on your part, in designating the 26th of June as Chiang Kai-Shek day, he gladly accepts, not for himself personally, but as a representative of the millions of our compatriots who have given their all in our continuing struggle for a free and peaceful China.

"The road to freedom for our struggling people is yet ahead. But we are making every preparation within our means to meet all eventualities. We shall never cease in our endeavors to liberate our people from Communist domination until Freedom is attained. Ever determined, ever vigilant, ever perservering, we shall pursue our objective to lift the yoke of Communist oppression from our compatriots throughout the length and breadth of our tortured country. To this are dedicating our lives so that China will again be free from the scourge of Communist tyranny and brutality.

"To all our good friends in Louisiana, and elsewhere in America, we send our grateful thanks for your heart-warming support and assistance. We shall not fail you.

"Yours sincerely,
"Madame Chiang Kai-Shek."

ONE MAN—Every eye is centered on the explosive Far East, where three-fourths of the populations of the entire world are drawn up into distinct battle lines, portending a life and death struggle between Communism and Democracy—with the fate of the rest of the world hanging and swaying precariously in the balance, awaiting the outcome of this great Struggle.

One man—and one of the greatest Christian Characters of our time—stands between the free nations and the communist slave nations—and that man is Generalissimo CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

In his hands he holds the answer—we cannot afford to fail him now! ! ! ! With a proper supply of arms and ammunition, this great Chinese Leader will free Red China from Red domination, run the Communists out of China—and all Asia, save Russia— and relieve the tremendous pressure on this nation to feed, clothe, and arm the entire world. With typical Chinese philosophy, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek reviews the forces with which he intends to regain the mainland, and when these reviews are concluded, he turns to his advisers, and remarks:

"... We will reclaim our Homeland ... We will drive
hundred years ...."

Let us pray with him, and for him, and let us have faith in him, and above all, do not let us fail him in his hour of greatest need—for on his fate, rests our own . .

Dashing Music Comedy Will Delight House

A real spicy musical comedy, executed by college girls who are leaders in the dramatic art, will be offered the public of Monroe at Ouachita Parish High School Auditorium, Tuesday at 8 p.m. when Tim McCarthy's aggregation from Pueblo, Colo., will be presented. It is sponsored by the Monroe Civitan Club and a substantial sum realized will be devoted to the Monroe Little League baseball league.

This group of players have established an enviable reputation and they are touring each summer through many states. This will be the first time they have been booked for Monroe and it is expected that they will make sufficent hit to be sought for a return engagement another year.

They are led by a thoroughly capable man, Mr. McCarthy, graduate of several colleges and universities, has for years worked with teen agers and collegians and he assures that there will be plenty of fun, but of a clean nature, nothing objectional being permitted.

The group is booked this year as in past years to appear before Rotary groups, Elks organizations, the Jaycees and a long list of dinner and civic clubs.

A double purpose will be proviced for through the show given here. It will mean an evening of pleasure for all attending and at the same time will be aiding with money for the Little Baseball League.

While it may be a warm night, the auditorium will be cooled with fans that are to be specially provided for this occasion so that everyone will be cared for in this regard.

The show will be pleasing for 22 talented and beautiful girls, all senior high school students or young collegians will be presented in songs and dance numbers of the very latest.

Mr. McCarthy will arrive with his players in time so that they can spend Tuesday in Monroe and will be conducting on their own the sale of tickets.

Just see these beauties and there will be a great throng eager to witness their skilled performances. It appears that the house is going to play to capacity, for advance ticket sales are already surprisingly large.

Ward 3 Voters Will Get Blanks On Registration

Residents of three precincts of Ward 3 will receive permanent registration blanks within the next day or two, Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita Parish registrar of voters, stated Saturday. All forms for persons living in Precincts 1, 2 and 3 were mailed late yesterday.

This is the first group of permanent registration blanks to be mailed to residents of ward 3, the registrar said.

Forms for other residents will be mailed as they are completed, with intervals of two or three days between each mailing expected. All of the forms must be typed in duplicate and then signed personally by Mrs. Lucky before being sent to the eligible voters in the parish. When completed approximately 70,000 forms will have been sent out.

In completing the forms eligible voters must sign on the reverse side of both the original and carbon copies and return to the registrar's office in order to be qualified for voting The signatures, which are to be made in ink, should be placed on the line designated by "your signature here" and a small hand pointing to the line. No other mark should be made on the forms, Mrs. Lucky stated.

Also enclosed with the forms is a slip which has places for the color of the voter's eyes and the maiden name of the voter's mother. This information will be kept by the registrar for identification when the persons come to the polls to vote.

Retired Civil Employes Here Form Group

The preamble of the organization states that the organization was formed "in order that the retired employees may receive from the United States government the remuneration to which their long and faithful service entitles them; to aid them in securing their rights under the retirement law; for the promotion of their general welfare; and to secure legislation perfecting the retirement law."

Any retired federal employe who is interested in joining is asked to contact one of the following men: S. S. Blac, president, Box 989, Monroe; S. C. Paulus, 2321 Lover's Lane, Monroe; C. E. Ponder, secretary, 207 Jonesboro Road, West Monroe.

The local meets every fourth Saturday at 2 p.m. on the second floor of the Ouachita Parish court house.

All retired federal employes are cordially invited to join the organization.

OTTAWA, June 20 (AP)—Joint exercises to test Canadian and American air defenses will be held next month. Canadian officials are interested in finding out how efficiently their extended radar network will operate under simulated attack conditions.

U. S. Officials Seek To Offset Spy Propaganda

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—American officials are moving to counter Communist propaganda use of the Rosenberg executions as a pawn in the global chess game of psychological warfare.

Since July 17, 1950, when Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were arrested for conspiring to slip atomic secrets to Russia, until last night, when they died in Sing Sing's electric chair, the Reds have tried unceasingly to make the case a cause celebre in the cold war.

Through the last 24 hours of fruitless legal maneuvering to save the husband and wife, the Communist press and radio, front lines in the cold war, blasted away. Outcries from Communists on both sides of the Iron Curtain reached a fever pitch when the execution was carried out.

"Murder," screamed one Red paper in 5-inch type. "Defiance of world opinion," shouted another.

One man was killed in a Paris riot. There were demonstrations in London, San Francisco and Washington.

Some pro-American newspapers in Western Europe criticized the executions. Not all protests and expressions of concern about the Rosenbergs' death sentence have come from Communists.

Pope Pius XII, while avoiding any discussion of the merits of the case, expressed a hope that justice would be tempered with mercy. Harold C. Urey, the famed atomic physicist, sought presidential clemency and voiced doubt any top atomic secrets were transmitted by the Rosenbergs.

But for the Rosenberg case and South Korea's sudden freeing of 26,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners, the Communists would have been hard-put for something to offset the psychological effect of riotings and strikes in the Soviet zone of Germany.

The global effect of the Rosenbergs' trial and execution have occupied the attention of U. S. officials for some time. But they feel they have succeeded in offsetting criticism by hammering home that the couple got a fair trial and went through a long judicial process before being executed.

OIL CLAIM

ROME, June 20 (AP)—The British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's suit for possession of some 4,600 tons of oil shipped recently from Iran's nationalized petroleum fields by an Italian firm will go before an Italian court July 2. The British company claims it owns all oil coming out of the Iranian installations it once owned and operated.

Mississippi Methodists Will Buy Building For Jackson Headquarters

BILOXI, Miss., June 20 (AP)—The Mississippi Methodist Conference today authorized the purchase of a suitable building in Jackson for denomination's state headquarters.

The project will be carried out in cooperation with the North Mississippi Conference. It was expected that negotiations will be completed with the city of Jackson for the building housing the Jackson Public Library, across from the capitol and the state Baptist headquarters.

The report of the conference statistician showed that the value of the church and parsonage property in the conference is $14,800,908 an increae of $2,353,592 from last year.

The conference received 8,369 new members last year, giving a total church membership of 101,694. The churches raised $3,562,348 during the year.

The anniversary of the board of evangelism was noted at the morning session. The board announced that Rev. Aubrey Walley of Jackson, who has been serving as conference director of evangelism, has resigned, to re-enter the pastorate, and for the coming year, the Rev. Ray Wolfe of Jackson, will serve.

For the past seven years, Wolfe has served as rural evangelist in the conference.

Dr. Pierce Harris brought his final message in the capacity of speaker of the board of evangelism, his subject being "This is Evangelism."

Woodfin Earl Ainsworth, Ovette; Robert Neil Arinder, Emory University; Roy Alfred Givens, Biloxi; Benjamin Mayfield Goodwin, Brooklyn; Robert Earl Gorday, Jackson; Kenneth Edwin Graham, Emory University; William Burwell Jones II, Nashville; Rev. Lavon Loftin, Rose Hill; William Lowry, Emory University; Altus Lamar Martin, Emory University; Oliver Perry Tanksley, McLain; and Hubert Lavelle Woodrick, Meridian.

The following men will be ordained by the bishop to the elder position:

Billy Dean Case, Vicksburg; Robert L. Case, Jackson; Tom O. Crosby Jr., Hurley; William R. Dement, Auburn; Ellis Robert Dickerson, Jackson; A. Eugene Dyess, Laurel; Charles Ray Franklin, Myersville; J. K. Hegwood, DeKalb; J. C. Jackson Jr., Lorman; Robert Lee Kates, Meridian; W. C. Ranager, Cary; Richard O. Sigler, Seminary; and James Willoughby, New Augusta.

Appointments to serve as superintendents and as pastors of charges in the Mississippi Methodist Conference will be announced by Bishop Franklin at tomorrow's session.

Three superintendents are retiring from office having served the six year term permitted by the church. They are Dr. Bruner M. Hunt, Jackson; the Rev. J. D. Slax, Hattiesburg, and Dr. J. D. Haughton, Brookhaven, who will become superintendent of the Methodist Home Hospital in New Orleans.

Tonight the bishop consecrated a deaconess, Miss Dorothy Lisch, Moore Community House of Biloxi and two missionaries to Chili, the Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Jones, Nashville.

Campus At Northeast Is Receiving 'New Look'

Northeast State's campus is taking on a "new look" this summer, with an overall beautification program going full swing. Shrubs and trees and shrubs are under the sprayed, the stadium has been repainted and various improvements are being made throughout the buildings—both wooden and brick—on the campus.

Trimming and spraying of the trees adn shrubs are under the direction of Gary Wimberly, new supervisor of grounds at Northeast State, while building improvements are being directed by H. M. Moak, Northeast building superintendent.

The general "clean-up" campaign began this past spring, and got into high gear this summer, with work going on at a fast and steady pace, getting things ready for this fall, when more than 1,000 students are expected to enroll at the local college.

One of the chief projects in the campus improvement program this summer is the re-painting of Brown Stadium. In addition to the fresh coat of paint being applied to the structure, new wooden seats have been installed. This is the first time in five years that the stadium has been re-painted.

College officials plan various improvements to the campus as a whole during the coming months. These include construction of parking areas for the benefit of students, visitors and the many persons who will attend athletic events at the college beginning in the fall when Northeast will become a member of the Gulf State Conference in all major sports.

Other tentative improvements will include the re-lighting of the college football field, details of which are to be announced soon, the installation of new lights in the library, and the construction of the athletic fields on the campus.

All buildings on the Northeast grounds are being given new coats of paint inside. This work is being directed by U. N. Bryant, painter in the college maintenance department. In addition, many of the floors of various classrooms are being re-sanded for better use and appearance this fall.

When it's all done, visitors to Northeast State will see one of the neatest campuses in the country, college officials said. Plans are to improve buildings and grounds over the college's more than 50 acres by the fall semester.

Ban On Picketing Will Be Appealed

LITTLE ROCK Ark., June 20—UP—A permanent injunction against picketing by greater Little Rock sheet metal workers will be appealed to the state Supreme Court, an attorney for the union said Saturday.

J. B. Dodds, the lawyer, announced the appeal after chancellor Guy E. Williams made the injunction permanent. Williams held valid a contract between the union and the sheet metal contractors association which the union claimed expired last March.

Real Estate Transfers

Larry R. Henry sold to Robert M. Hines lot 3 of Section 12, Township 17W, Range 2E and part of Lot 3 of Sec. 12, T17N, Range 2E, for $175.

Alvin L. Skipper sold to Alvie H. Gates Lots 1, 2 and 3 of Square 3, Unit 1, of the Cage and Watkins Subdivision of the Haynes tract for $1650.

Claude E. Crowley et ux sold to Hardy L. Cathan et ux lot 12 of Block 15 of the Austin and Eby's southern addition to the City of West Monroe for $750.

NAVAL MANEUVERS

LONDON, June 20 (AP)— The U. S. S. Antietam, first aircraft carrier with an angled flight deck, will take part in joint American-British naval maneuvers off Portsmouth for five days beginning June 29. The Antietam is due in Portsmouth June 24.

Cotton Prices Remain Steady

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Cotton futures prices continued to mark time this week. Net changes for the week in prices of active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange ranged from 45 cents a bale higher to 55 cents lower.

Some buying was prompted by uncertainty over truce developments in Korea and reports of boll weevil infestation in the eastern and central Cotton Belt. Offerings were confined to scattered liquidation and hedging.

Of interest to traders was an estimate from the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau that net cotton stocks as of next August 1 could be expected to total about 1,755,000 bales.

The exchange noted that stocks in all hands at the end of May totalled around 7,109,000 bales as against 4,366,000 a year ago, with the government controlling 2,236,000 bales as compared to 439,000 at the same time last year. If weekly repossessions of 1952 loan cotton during the balance of the season are in line with the average of recent weeks, said the exchange, a net stock as of August 1 of about 1,775,000 bales would be in prospect.

Cadets Reach Camp Gordon For Training

Thirty-five Northeast State ROTC cadets reached Camp Gordon, Ga. Saturday for a six-week period of training. Attendance of summer camp is required of all students between their junior and senior years who are working toward a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps.

Joining more than 750 students from approximately 45 colleges throughout the nation, the prospective Military Police officers will convert classroom theory into practical field tactics.

Activities of the period will include instruction in care and marksmanship with small arms and heavy weapons, a field bivouac and procedures and problems in traffic control. The cadets will have access to athletic facilities, swimming pools and movies of the base, as well as their own service club.

Serving as camp commander will be Brigadier General Charles C. Blanchard, commanding general of Camp Gordon. Professors of military science and tactics from the colleges represented will form the instructor faculty. Two officers from Northeast State included in the list are Maj. Eugene M. Freeman and Maj. Alfred L. Singer, both assistant professors of military science and tactics.

Northeast State will be represented at two ROTC summer camps other than Camp Gordon. George L. DeCuir of West Monroe will receive training at the Chemical Corps camp at Fort McClellan, Alabama and Joe F. Harrison of Abiline, Texas, will attend the Ordnance training program at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland.

Cadets attending Camp Gordon include: Harold G. Bates, West Monroe; Bethel M. Boatright, Monroe; Harold W. Corkran, Mariana, Arkansas; Robert M. Cole, Sulphur; Perry B. Elder, Monroe; Robert V. Elliot, Grayson; Troy A. Fore, Grayson; Bennie M. Fryer, Oak Grove; Chris J. Gatzoulas, Monroe.

James R. George, West Monroe; Johnny V. Goodwin, West Monroe; Kenneth E. Greer, Minden; Houston C. Hill, Rayville; David L. Kahn, Monroe; Douglas D. Keller, Bastrop; Ralph C. McKay, Monroe; Richard M. McConnell, Springhill; William J. Milstead, Sterlington; Charles P. Morn, Henderson, Kentucky; Wamul R. Owens, West Monroe; Henry L. Parham, Mangham.

Robert E. Parker, Sterlington; Johnie C. Parkson, Benton; Harlan L. Prestridge, Monroe; Jack H. Reitzell, Monroe; Walter L. Roberts, Fairbanks.

Picnic Conducted By Gray Ladies At St. Joseph Home

The Grey Ladies entertained the guests of St. Joseph Home with a picnic under the beautiful shade trees on the lawn of the home.

Sixty-five or more guests enjoyed this gay affair. The Delta Sigma Fraternity assisted in helping to get the guests on the lawn and in serving. Members of Delta Sigma helping with this were: Chuck Weinberg, Larry McCarthy, Johnnie Guerriero, Joe D. Guerriero, Philip Goleman and Jerry Cross.

After the guests were seated they were served hot roast beef sandwiches, buttered carrots, potato chips, pickles, soft drinks of all kinds, pineapple sherbert, ice cold watermelon, and different kinds of fruit.

The Gray Ladies and their husbands present were: Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Gleason, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reece and son, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marx, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Coe and two sons, Mrs. Wm. Weinberg, Mrs. Milton Coverdale, Mrs. Wm. Smith, Mrs. Pete Embanato, and Mr. C. P. O'Brien.

BID FOR SCHOOL

VENICE, Italy, June 20 (AP)—A wealthy Italian has asked Venice's monument commission for permission to build a modern architecture school on the banks of the Grand Canal in memory of his architect son, Angelo Masieri, who was killed in a traffic accident last year. The father, Paolo Masieri of Udine, has asked American architect Frank Lloyd Wright to design the building.

30 Young Ladies Enter Miss La. Beauty Contest

LAKE PROVIDENCE, June 20. (Special) — Three entertainment-packed days and nights with beauty pageants, boat races, parades, dances and fishing have been scheduled for the 30 lovely contestants and visitors expected for the 5th Annual Miss Louisiana Pageant and Water Carnival.

Reservations are pouring in daily for the big annual event, Bill Ragland, Jr., general chairman of the show, has announced. "We are expecting new records to be established in attendance and beauty and talent of our contestants."

The first performance of the contestants will be held on Friday night, 8 o'clock July 3, on a specially - built outdoor stage at the American Legion Stadium, near the beautiful Lake Providence. At that time half of the contestants will model evening dresses and swim suits while the other half will display talent. The next night, the order will be reversed. At the final performance, Sunday, July 5, the ten finalist will appear and model evening dresses, swim suits and display talent.

Bob Evan of Helena, Ark., master of ceremonies and talent director of the Miss America Pageant and of the Miss Canada and Miss Arkansas pageant, will again emcee the Miss Louisiana pageant. Evans is a former arranger, composer and soloist with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians and was for many years an outstanding radio star with his famous quartet "Hi Lo Jack and the Dame," appearing for three years with the Fred Allen Texaco Star Theatre, and for two seasons with the Paul Whiteman Philco Hall of Fame.

The National Outboard Races will be held on Lake Providence on Sunday afternoon, July 5, from one to four o'clock. Nine hundred dollars in cash prizes will be awarded.

The official Miss Louisiana parade of contestants will be held at 4 p.m. on Saturday, July 4. The grand ball, at which all contestants and Miss Louisiana of 1953 will be presented, will be held in the American Legion Hut beginning at 10:30 Sunday night. Hugo Morara and his orchestra will play. Tickets for both the pageant performances and the dance are now available at the pageant headquarters.

The winner of the Miss Louisiana Pageant will represent the state in the Miss America pageant. First and second place runners-up will receive Miss America trophies and a special trophy will go to "Miss Congeniality."

Dashing Music Comedy Will Delight House

A real spicy musical comedy, executed by college girls who are leaders in the dramatic art, will be offered the public of Monroe at Ouachita Parish High School Auditorium, Tuesday at 8 p.m. when Tim McCarthy's aggregation from Pueblo, Colo., will be presented. It is sponsored by the Monroe Civitan Club and a substantial sum realized will be devoted to the Monroe Little League baseball league.

This group of players have established an enviable reputation and they are touring each summer through many states. This will be the first time they have been booked for Monroe and it is expected that they will make sufficent hit to be sought for a return engagement another year.

They are led by a thoroughly capable man, Mr. McCarthy, graduate of several colleges and universities, has for years worked with teen agers and collegians and he assures that there will be plenty of fun, but of a clean nature, nothing objectional being permitted.

The group is booked this year as in past years to appear before Rotary groups, Elks organizations, the Jaycees and a long list of dinner and civic clubs.

A double purpose will be proviced for through the show given here. It will mean an evening of pleasure for all attending and at the same time will be aiding with money for the Little Baseball League.

While it may be a warm night, the auditorium will be cooled with fans that are to be specially provided for this occasion so that everyone will be cared for in this regard.

The show will be pleasing for 22 talented and beautiful girls, all senior high school students or young collegians will be presented in songs and dance numbers of the very latest.

Mr. McCarthy will arrive with his players in time so that they can spend Tuesday in Monroe and will be conducting on their own the sale of tickets.

Just see these beauties and there will be a great throng eager to witness their skilled performances. It appears that the house is going to play to capacity, for advance ticket sales are already surprisingly large.

Ward 3 Voters Will Get Blanks On Registration

Residents of three precincts of Ward 3 will receive permanent registration blanks within the next day or two, Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita Parish registrar of voters, stated Saturday. All forms for persons living in Precincts 1, 2 and 3 were mailed late yesterday.

This is the first group of permanent registration blanks to be mailed to residents of ward 3, the registrar said.

Forms for other residents will be mailed as they are completed, with intervals of two or three days between each mailing expected. All of the forms must be typed in duplicate and then signed personally by Mrs. Lucky before being sent to the eligible voters in the parish. When completed approximately 70,000 forms will have been sent out.

In completing the forms eligible voters must sign on the reverse side of both the original and carbon copies and return to the registrar's office in order to be qualified for voting The signatures, which are to be made in ink, should be placed on the line designated by "your signature here" and a small hand pointing to the line. No other mark should be made on the forms, Mrs. Lucky stated.

Also enclosed with the forms is a slip which has places for the color of the voter's eyes and the maiden name of the voter's mother. This information will be kept by the registrar for identification when the persons come to the polls to vote.

Retired Civil Employes Here Form Group

The preamble of the organization states that the organization was formed "in order that the retired employees may receive from the United States government the remuneration to which their long and faithful service entitles them; to aid them in securing their rights under the retirement law; for the promotion of their general welfare; and to secure legislation perfecting the retirement law."

Any retired federal employe who is interested in joining is asked to contact one of the following men: S. S. Blac, president, Box 989, Monroe; S. C. Paulus, 2321 Lover's Lane, Monroe; C. E. Ponder, secretary, 207 Jonesboro Road, West Monroe.

The local meets every fourth Saturday at 2 p.m. on the second floor of the Ouachita Parish court house.

All retired federal employes are cordially invited to join the organization.

OTTAWA, June 20 (AP)—Joint exercises to test Canadian and American air defenses will be held next month. Canadian officials are interested in finding out how efficiently their extended radar network will operate under simulated attack conditions.

U. S. Officials Seek To Offset Spy Propaganda

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—American officials are moving to counter Communist propaganda use of the Rosenberg executions as a pawn in the global chess game of psychological warfare.

Since July 17, 1950, when Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were arrested for conspiring to slip atomic secrets to Russia, until last night, when they died in Sing Sing's electric chair, the Reds have tried unceasingly to make the case a cause celebre in the cold war.

Through the last 24 hours of fruitless legal maneuvering to save the husband and wife, the Communist press and radio, front lines in the cold war, blasted away. Outcries from Communists on both sides of the Iron Curtain reached a fever pitch when the execution was carried out.

"Murder," screamed one Red paper in 5-inch type. "Defiance of world opinion," shouted another.

One man was killed in a Paris riot. There were demonstrations in London, San Francisco and Washington.

Some pro-American newspapers in Western Europe criticized the executions. Not all protests and expressions of concern about the Rosenbergs' death sentence have come from Communists.

Pope Pius XII, while avoiding any discussion of the merits of the case, expressed a hope that justice would be tempered with mercy. Harold C. Urey, the famed atomic physicist, sought presidential clemency and voiced doubt any top atomic secrets were transmitted by the Rosenbergs.

But for the Rosenberg case and South Korea's sudden freeing of 26,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners, the Communists would have been hard-put for something to offset the psychological effect of riotings and strikes in the Soviet zone of Germany.

The global effect of the Rosenbergs' trial and execution have occupied the attention of U. S. officials for some time. But they feel they have succeeded in offsetting criticism by hammering home that the couple got a fair trial and went through a long judicial process before being executed.

OIL CLAIM

ROME, June 20 (AP)—The British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's suit for possession of some 4,600 tons of oil shipped recently from Iran's nationalized petroleum fields by an Italian firm will go before an Italian court July 2. The British company claims it owns all oil coming out of the Iranian installations it once owned and operated.

Mississippi Methodists Will Buy Building For Jackson Headquarters

BILOXI, Miss., June 20 (AP)—The Mississippi Methodist Conference today authorized the purchase of a suitable building in Jackson for denomination's state headquarters.

The project will be carried out in cooperation with the North Mississippi Conference. It was expected that negotiations will be completed with the city of Jackson for the building housing the Jackson Public Library, across from the capitol and the state Baptist headquarters.

The report of the conference statistician showed that the value of the church and parsonage property in the conference is $14,800,908 an increae of $2,353,592 from last year.

The conference received 8,369 new members last year, giving a total church membership of 101,694. The churches raised $3,562,348 during the year.

The anniversary of the board of evangelism was noted at the morning session. The board announced that Rev. Aubrey Walley of Jackson, who has been serving as conference director of evangelism, has resigned, to re-enter the pastorate, and for the coming year, the Rev. Ray Wolfe of Jackson, will serve.

For the past seven years, Wolfe has served as rural evangelist in the conference.

Dr. Pierce Harris brought his final message in the capacity of speaker of the board of evangelism, his subject being "This is Evangelism."

Woodfin Earl Ainsworth, Ovette; Robert Neil Arinder, Emory University; Roy Alfred Givens, Biloxi; Benjamin Mayfield Goodwin, Brooklyn; Robert Earl Gorday, Jackson; Kenneth Edwin Graham, Emory University; William Burwell Jones II, Nashville; Rev. Lavon Loftin, Rose Hill; William Lowry, Emory University; Altus Lamar Martin, Emory University; Oliver Perry Tanksley, McLain; and Hubert Lavelle Woodrick, Meridian.

The following men will be ordained by the bishop to the elder position:

Billy Dean Case, Vicksburg; Robert L. Case, Jackson; Tom O. Crosby Jr., Hurley; William R. Dement, Auburn; Ellis Robert Dickerson, Jackson; A. Eugene Dyess, Laurel; Charles Ray Franklin, Myersville; J. K. Hegwood, DeKalb; J. C. Jackson Jr., Lorman; Robert Lee Kates, Meridian; W. C. Ranager, Cary; Richard O. Sigler, Seminary; and James Willoughby, New Augusta.

Appointments to serve as superintendents and as pastors of charges in the Mississippi Methodist Conference will be announced by Bishop Franklin at tomorrow's session.

Three superintendents are retiring from office having served the six year term permitted by the church. They are Dr. Bruner M. Hunt, Jackson; the Rev. J. D. Slax, Hattiesburg, and Dr. J. D. Haughton, Brookhaven, who will become superintendent of the Methodist Home Hospital in New Orleans.

Tonight the bishop consecrated a deaconess, Miss Dorothy Lisch, Moore Community House of Biloxi and two missionaries to Chili, the Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Jones, Nashville.

Campus At Northeast Is Receiving 'New Look'

Northeast State's campus is taking on a "new look" this summer, with an overall beautification program going full swing. Shrubs and trees and shrubs are under the sprayed, the stadium has been repainted and various improvements are being made throughout the buildings—both wooden and brick—on the campus.

Trimming and spraying of the trees adn shrubs are under the direction of Gary Wimberly, new supervisor of grounds at Northeast State, while building improvements are being directed by H. M. Moak, Northeast building superintendent.

The general "clean-up" campaign began this past spring, and got into high gear this summer, with work going on at a fast and steady pace, getting things ready for this fall, when more than 1,000 students are expected to enroll at the local college.

One of the chief projects in the campus improvement program this summer is the re-painting of Brown Stadium. In addition to the fresh coat of paint being applied to the structure, new wooden seats have been installed. This is the first time in five years that the stadium has been re-painted.

College officials plan various improvements to the campus as a whole during the coming months. These include construction of parking areas for the benefit of students, visitors and the many persons who will attend athletic events at the college beginning in the fall when Northeast will become a member of the Gulf State Conference in all major sports.

Other tentative improvements will include the re-lighting of the college football field, details of which are to be announced soon, the installation of new lights in the library, and the construction of the athletic fields on the campus.

All buildings on the Northeast grounds are being given new coats of paint inside. This work is being directed by U. N. Bryant, painter in the college maintenance department. In addition, many of the floors of various classrooms are being re-sanded for better use and appearance this fall.

When it s all done, visitors to Northeast State will see one of the neatest campuses in the country, college officials said. Plans are to improve buildings and grounds over the college's more than 50 acres by the fall semester.

Ban On Picketing Will Be Appealed

LITTLE ROCK Ark., June 20—UP—A permanent injunction against picketing by greater Little Rock sheet metal workers will be appealed to the state Supreme Court, an attorney for the union said Saturday.

J. B. Dodds, the lawyer, announced the appeal after chancellor Guy E. Williams made the injunction permanent. Williams held valid a contract between the union and the sheet metal contractors association which the union claimed expired last March.

Real Estate Transfers

Larry R. Henry sold to Robert M. Hines lot 3 of Section 12, Township 17W, Range 2E and part of Lot 3 of Sec. 12, T17N, Range 2E, for $175.

Alvin L. Skipper sold to Alvie H. Gates Lots 1, 2 and 3 of Square 3, Unit 1, of the Cage and Watkins Subdivision of the Haynes tract for $1650.

Claude E. Crowley et ux sold to Hardy L. Cathan et ux lot 12 of Block 15 of the Austin and Eby's southern addition to the City of West Monroe for $750.

NAVAL MANEUVERS

LONDON, June 20 (AP)— The U. S. S. Antietam, first aircraft carrier with an angled flight deck, will take part in joint American-British naval maneuvers off Portsmouth for five days beginning June 29. The Antietam is due in Portsmouth June 24.

Cotton Prices Remain Steady

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Cotton futures prices continued to mark time this week. Net changes for the week in prices of active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange ranged from 45 cents a bale higher to 55 cents lower.

Some buying was prompted by uncertainty over truce developments in Korea and reports of boll weevil infestation in the eastern and central Cotton Belt. Offerings were confined to scattered liquidation and hedging.

Of interest to traders was an estimate from the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau that net cotton stocks as of next August 1 could be expected to total about 1,755,000 bales.

The exchange noted that stocks in all hands at the end of May totalled around 7,109,000 bales as against 4,366,000 a year ago, with the government controlling 2,236,000 bales as compared to 439,000 at the same time last year. If weekly repossessions of 1952 loan cotton during the balance of the season are in line with the average of recent weeks, said the exchange, a net stock as of August 1 of about 1,775,000 bales would be in prospect.

Cadets Reach Camp Gordon For Training

Thirty-five Northeast State ROTC cadets reached Camp Gordon, Ga. Saturday for a six-week period of training. Attendance of summer camp is required of all students between their junior and senior years who are working toward a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps.

Joining more than 750 students from approximately 45 colleges throughout the nation, the prospective Military Police officers will convert classroom theory into practical field tactics.

Activities of the period will include instruction in care and marksmanship with small arms and heavy weapons, a field bivouac and procedures and problems in traffic control. The cadets will have access to athletic facilities, swimming pools and movies of the base, as well as their own service club.

Serving as camp commander will be Brigadier General Charles C. Blanchard, commanding general of Camp Gordon. Professors of military science and tactics from the colleges represented will form the instructor faculty. Two officers from Northeast State included in the list are Maj. Eugene M. Freeman and Maj. Alfred L. Singer, both assistant professors of military science and tactics.

Northeast State will be represented at two ROTC summer camps other than Camp Gordon. George L. DeCuir of West Monroe will receive training at the Chemical Corps camp at Fort McClellan, Alabama and Joe F. Harrison of Abiline, Texas, will attend the Ordnance training program at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland.

Cadets attending Camp Gordon include: Harold G. Bates, West Monroe; Bethel M. Boatright, Monroe; Harold W. Corkran, Mariana, Arkansas; Robert M. Cole, Sulphur; Perry B. Elder, Monroe; Robert V. Elliot, Grayson; Troy A. Fore, Grayson; Bennie M. Fryer, Oak Grove; Chris J. Gatzoulas, Monroe.

Reed Is Silent On Tax Cut Talk With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Rep. Daniel Reed (R-NY) came away from a White House conference today wtihout saying whether President Eisenhower had talked him out of blocking extension of the excess profits tax.

"I had a very friendly visit," was all reporters got from the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which normally starts all tax bills through Congress.

Repeatedly questioned, Reed gave no indication of weakening his adamant stand against Eisenhower's plea to extend the excess profits tax for six months past its June 30 expiration date.

Except to permit committee hearings, Reed thus far has not relaxed his opposition. He has maintained that the tax throttles business growth and, further, that a scheduled drop in individual income taxes should be advanced six months to July 31.

Eisenhower and other Republican leaders, while agreeing the excess profits tax is unfair, contend it must be kept six more months to bring in 800 million dollars additional revenue toward balancing the budget.

House (GOP) leaders predict Reed's committee would approve the bill if the chairman were to permit a vote. They also predict the House itself would uphold committee approval.

After Reed left the face-to-face showdown with Eisenhower, who had arranged it, the congressman was asked whether he would bet that his committee would put out a bill or keep it bottled up.

"I have never given any thought to that," he replied. "I am not a gambling man."

GOP leaders have tried in vain to break through Reed's roadblock. They have explored possibilities for bypassing his committee, but apparently such efforts have also proved fruitless.

Crippled Mother Saves Infant In Race From Fire

BOSTON, June 20—UP—A one-legged mother clutched her 14-month-old baby in her arms and hopped down a fire escape ladder to safety Saturday when fire swept a four-story tenement house.

"I didn't even think I just grabbed the baby and went out the quickest way," said Mrs. Anna Filzowe, 40, who lost her left leg in a farm accident in her native Russia.

Mrs. Filzowe said she plucked her baby son Vladmir from his crib and ran to the window without stopping to strap on her artificial leg.

"There wasn't time for that," she said.

With the infant under one arm, sh used the other to support herself as she hopped down the ladder — one rung at a time — From her second-floor flat.

Filzowe said he hestitated momentarily in leaving the building before his wife because the fire escape was not of the stairway type.

He watched her a few minutes as she made the perilous descent and then, with the older children, ran out and waited below the ladder to catch her if she fell.

Firemen found the plucky housewive standing at the foot of the ladder when they arrived to quell the blaze which apparently was touched off by a refrigerator motor short circuit in the Filzowe flat.

Reed Is Silent On Tax Cut Talk With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Rep. Daniel Reed (R-NY) came away from a White House conference today wtihout saying whether President Eisenhower had talked him out of blocking extension of the excess profits tax.

"I had a very friendly visit," was all reporters got from the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which normally starts all tax bills through Congress.

Repeatedly questioned, Reed gave no indication of weakening his adamant stand against Eisenhower's plea to extend the excess profits tax for six months past its June 30 expiration date.

Except to permit committee hearings, Reed thus far has not relaxed his opposition. He has maintained that the tax throttles business growth and, further, that a scheduled drop in individual income taxes should be advanced six months to July 31.

Eisenhower and other Republican leaders, while agreeing the excess profits tax is unfair, contend it must be kept six more months to bring in 800 million dollars additional revenue toward balancing the budget.

House (GOP) leaders predict Reed's committee would approve the bill if the chairman were to permit a vote. They also predict the House itself would uphold committee approval.

After Reed left the face-to-face showdown with Eisenhower, who had arranged it, the congressman was asked whether he would bet that his committee would put out a bill or keep it bottled up.

"I have never given any thought to that," he replied. "I am not a gambling man."

GOP leaders have tried in vain to break through Reed's roadblock. They have explored possibilities for bypassing his committee, but apparently such efforts have also proved fruitless.

Crippled Mother Saves Infant In Race From Fire

BOSTON, June 20—UP—A one-legged mother clutched her 14-month-old baby in her arms and hopped down a fire escape ladder to safety Saturday when fire swept a four-story tenement house.

"I didn't even think I just grabbed the baby and went out the quickest way," said Mrs. Anna Filzowe, 40, who lost her left leg in a farm accident in her native Russia.

Mrs. Filzowe said she plucked her baby son Vladmir from his crib and ran to the window without stopping to strap on her artificial leg.

"There wasn't time for that," she said.

With the infant under one arm, sh: used the other to support herself as she hopped down the ladder — one rung at a time — From her second-floor flat.

Filzowe said he hestitated momentarily in leaving the building before his wife because the fire escape was not of the stairway type.

He watched her a few minutes as she made the perilous descent and then, with the older children, ran out and waited below the ladder to catch her if she fell.

Firemen found the plucky housewive standing at the foot of the ladder when they arrived to quell the blaze which apparently was touched off by a refrigerator motor short circuit in the Filzowe flat.

Theater Owners Singing 'Happy Days' In 3-D Time

HOLLYWOOD — The nation's theater owners are singing "Happy Days Are Here Again" over the New Look of Hollywood's movies.

Three dimensional "depthies" stereophonic sound and wide-screen films as of right now are luring moviegoers away from television, the competitive entertainment monster that caught movietown off-balance and unprepared.

"The Hollywood motion picture industry faces its greatest era as the world's top entertainment medium," says Robert J. O'Donnell of Texas, one of the nation's major exhibitors.

One of O'Donnell's theaters whose gross for a good week has been $8500 jumped to over $30,000, he says, for the first week's showing of a three dimension film.

But there's no chorus in Hollywood of the "Happy Days" that theater owners are singing.

"Undecided" is the theme song of the major studios as they await the public's answer to three important questions:

1. Are three - dimensional movies the answer to television's competition or are they just a temporary box - office lure?

2. Will wide - screen movies replace 3-D in the public's affection if the "depthies" have no lasting power?

3. Will the public tire of both and return to television sets, making it necessary for major studio production of only a few theater films a year, plus telefilms for sponsors, or for some kind of pay-as-you-see-at-home TV film projection?

Indecision by the big six major studios because of these questions, plus a rise in foreign film production, is fast turning the film capital into a "ghost town," says Roy M. Brewer, president of the Hollywood A.F.L. Film Council.

Only 50 per cent of Hollywood's technical workers are employed, says Brewer, and had not television films taken up part of the slack, more than 75 per cent of craft employees in Hollywood would be jobless.

Hundreds of theaters have closed in the last few years because of free television competition while living costs hit new highs. Hollywood's indecision over the future has cost an estimated 6500 studio employees, stars, directors and writers their jobs during the past two years, with one studio, Warner Brothers, dark since April.

Approximately 250 high salaried stars, directors and writers lopped off Hollywood payrolls have gone overseas for movie work, some to become members of the "18 Month Club" that gives them tax free earnings if they do not return to the United States for an 18 month period.

Hollywood craft employees forced out of major and independent studios have either joined telefilm or live TV production crews or switched to other fields.

Hollywood's lush golden years B. T. (Before Television) may be gone forever, it's believed, or just temporarily blacked out because of the filmmakers' indecision while they await the public's final verdict on the new 3-D and widescreen films.

But as yet the ghosts, cobwebs and dust have not taken over any Hollywood studio. Television has.

Three studios that were deserted two years ago — Samuel Goldwyn's General Service and Hal Roach— are humming with telefilm production.

Twenty four motion pictures are being filmed at the six major studios this month, as compared to 33 a year ago. Only three major studio companies are shooting in Europe, with one independent in Mexico.

Twenty - six half-hour telefilms also are being turned out every week in Hollywood, with another 25 on the planning boards of TV networks and advertising agencies.

Dancing Princess Picture Is Technicolor Masterpiece

King Herod probably would have offered Rita Hayworth his entire kingdom had he seen her doing the Dance of the Seven Veils for which he offered the dancing princess of Galilee, Salome, only half of his realm. Because the devastating star of Columbia Pictures' magnificent spectacle, "Salome," which opened last night at the Paramount Theatre in color by Technicolor, is a cavalcade of passion and pageantry which certainly should rank as the screen achievement of the year. Miss Hayworth's impassioned dance is just one rewarding element in a film amazingly rich in entertainment, lavish in spectacle, exciting in romance and action. "Salome" is a supreme screen masterpiece.

Some of the world's greatest actors head the cast of thousands recruited by Columbia from London, New York, and Hollywood to re-create the fabulous world of "Salome" in all its Oriental color and opulence. Stewart Granger, Hollywood's heart - beat of the hour, fresh from his adventurous triumphs in "Scaramouche" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," is the Roman conqueror who romantically pursues Rita from Rome to Galilee.

Charles Laughton is co - starred with Miss Hayworth and Granger, topping the cruel, licentious characterizations that have made him famous with his portrayal of the lustful king, Herod. Judith Anderson plays the all - out wicked Queen Herodias and Sir Cedric Hardwicke rules Rome with patrician dignity as Tiberius Caesar.

Basil Sydney is memorable as the unforgettable, unforgivable Pontius Pilate and Maurice Schwartz, internationally - famous dean of New York's Yiddish Art Theater, plays Herod's high priest. Arnold Moss keeps villainy alive as Herodias' scheming adviser and England's Alan Badel makes a memorable American film debut as John the Baptist, the prophet who preached of a better way of life. These are the players in a film based on a legend which has, for centuries, held the imagination of the world.

'Salome" obviously is the picture only Rita Hayworth could make. Her famous portrayals of screen temptresses inevitably led her to re-create the times and loves of Salome, the greatest temptress of them all, and only Rita could possibly do Salome's famous dance with the sensuous passion and fire acquired by legend.

Brilliant color effects surpassing anything ever seen before on the screen were achieved through novel ideas planned by Millard Sheets, head of the Scripps College Department of Fine Art, who applied a painter's approach to the production of "Salome." Mr. Sheets supplanted colored lights with paints, as used by the world's finest artists to produce sets and costumes glowing with all the barbaric realism of the age of Salome.

Meticulous care obviously was devoted to every detail of the picture, so that its every sequence is a matter of delight. The sets, the cast, the dialogue, the story—all reveal the determination of the studio to make "Salome" a greater production than ever before screened. The Paramount Theatre film is dramatic, exciting proof of success.

But greater than any of the many entertainment elements of 'Salome" is the compelling surge of history which grips the film's audiences from the first moment and carries them forward in a mounting tide of wonder, splendor, beauty and suspense. "Salome" is an unforgettable production of a never forgotten era.

The Record Shop

Listen And Turn Green

NEW YORK (NEA) — Tom Murray is worried. He's a co-creator of those vile little gems called "There's a New Sound" and "Fish" on the bilious green label of Horrible Records. He's worried because people are buying the nauseating things.

"The whole business was an experiment," says Murray. "The disc jockeys were the laboratory. We wanted to see if we could make something so revolting that it would show up all this new-sound nonsense.

"But what happened? People like it. It's selling everywhere. Disc jockeys keep calling us to come on their show. We're heroes. I'm afraid, honestly afraid. What will it all lead to?"

What indeed. Murray and his co-conspirator, Tony Borello, went out of their way to produce the world's worst record. They got the weirdest, most unpleasant sounds. On the "Fish" side, they made four takes, then scientifically spliced together the worst parts of each. When it sounded too good, they went out and recorded some surface noise on top to make it worse.

And now people are clamoring to buy these musical miscarriages. Murray and Borello, both serious pop musicians, are afraid they'll be typed as the Horrible Boys. They're giving serious thought to changing their names to escape the stagnant stigma of stenchy stanzas.

Murray, though, seems slightly torn. As an advertising executive, he smells the possibility of large money to be made in producing more Horrible records, perhaps even Horrible other things. That's balanced, though, by the awful thought of being forever identified as Mr. Horrible.

So he thinks he'll retire from being Horrible, after a last fling of making one Horrible Masterworks edition. That should be delightfully loathsome.

The Popular Side: And then the two bop musicians met Einstein, scraping away on his violin, "Man," said the talkative one, "dig that square root." . . . Giselle MacKenzie, who will replace June Valli on "Your Hit Parade" next sterephonic sound and wide-screen season, is a dead ringer for Rosalind Russell. . . . The hit, "Song From 'Moulin Rouge'," originally written in France for the U. S. movie, is now being published in France for the first time.

On the Classics: RCA - Victor out with two oral records — "Adlai Stevenson Speaks," edited by James Fleming, and "Through Childhood to the Throne," a chronicle of the life of Queen Elizabeth II. . . . MGM's expanding classical department is spotlighting numbers previously unrecorded on LP.

Mrs. Mickey Rooney, (4th) Might Outdo Ava Gardner

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Exclusively Yours: Mrs. Mickey Rooney is on the stardust road — with Mickey's blessing. The Elaine Davis who just made her telefilm debut in Sovereign Theater's "My Wife, Poor Wretch," is Mrs. Rooney the fourth, and 10 per-center Ed Lynn, who's guiding her career, thinks he has another Ava Gardner in the former model.

Mickey's all for Elaine having a career and has been helping her to develop as an actress by reading scenes with her.

"Decameron Nights," filmed in Europe with Joan Fontaine, finally has a purity seal from U. S. censors after a cutting job, but Joan's in the dark about the deletions— "There must have been plenty because it's pretty racy."

Joan had a fling with Aly Khan after his separation from Rita Hayworth, but she isn't doing any second guessing on the "Flight to Tangiers" set about his current romance with Gene Tierney. "I love Gene," she says, "and I wish her the best."

SHE'LL HAVE A BALL

ZIPPY Corinnne Calvet proved she was French in her $1,000,000 lawsuit against Zsa Zsa Gabor (later withdrawn by Corinne), but now she'll be "A Woman Without a Country" on the radio. The French cutie just recorded the first show in the projected air series which she describes as another Dragnet. To retain some personal identity, her radio character name will be Corinne Corday.

If the show clicks there will be a TV version and she's hoping it can be done live instead of on film —"When it's live nobody can stop me — there's no director saying 'Cut'—and I have a ball."

Rosemary Clooney and Gene Barry are having a big freeze on the set of "Red Garters" with insiders on Gene's side of the argu-

Dept. of Confusion:

Joan Crawford's new MGM flicker, "Torch Song," is based on a magazine story—not the Broadway play. The film version of the play was made in 1932 under the title "Laughing Sinners" and the star was—Joan Crawford.

EASY DOES IT

Danny Kaye is pointing to his record of only nine movies in 10 years—and not ill health—in explaining why he's turning down fabulous TV offers.

His recent Mayo Clinic visit was his annual checkup—"I was there three days and all they found was some wax in my ears." Here's Danny talking about TV on the set of his Paramount movie, "Knock on Wood":

"I refused to burn myself up in pictures and I'm not going to do it in television. A lasting career has to be spread over a wide period of years. That's why I do only one film a year. There's nothing but confusion in TV now.

"When I find the right format and can maintain a standard I'll do television, but you can bet it won't be every week."

Until a couple of days ago Mai and Greta Garbo lived in the same Hollywood apartment house, but Garbo's as shy as ever.

"I sent her a fan note and she wrote back that maybe we could meet," Mai tells it. "Then there was a news story about her return to Hollywood and where she was living and the next day she moved."

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Fleet operators, farmers, independent truckers—truck users everywhere—buy more Chevrolets than any other make. There can be only one reason for that: Chevrolet trucks offer more of what you want.
CHEVROLET
first in demand in value in sales
As the official registration figures keep rolling in, they keep telling the same positive story about truck popularity and truck value: Again in 1953, for the twelfth straight production year, truck buyers show a clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks.
If you're a truck user, this fact is mighty important to you. Why? Well, as you know, trucks are built and bought for just one reason—to do a job. So isn't it logical then that since Chevrolet trucks outsell all others, they must do a better job at lower cost?
That's why it will pay you to stop in and see us before you buy your next truck.

Charles Laughton is co - starred with Miss Hayworth and Granger, topping the cruel, licentious characterizations that have made him famous with his portrayal of the lustful king, Herod. Judith Anderson plays the all - out wicked Queen Herodias and Sir Cedric Hardwicke rules Rome with patrician dignity as Tiberius Caesar.

Basil Sydney is memorable as the unforgettable, unforgivable Pontius Pilate and Maurice Schwartz, internationally - famous dean of New York's Yiddish Art Theater, plays Herod's high priest. Arnold Moss keeps villainy alive as Herodias' scheming adviser and England's Alan Badel makes a memorable American film debut as John the Baptist, the prophet who preached of a better way of life. These are the players in a film based on a legend which has, for centuries, held the imagination of the world.

'Salome'' obviously is the picture only Rita Hayworth could make. Her famous portrayals of screen temptresses inevitably led her to re-create the times and loves of Salome, the greatest temptress of them all, and only Rita could possibly do Salome's famous dance with the sensuous passion and fire acquired by legend.

Brilliant color effects surpassing anything ever seen before on the screen were achieved through novel ideas planned by Millard Sheets, head of the Scripps College Department of Fine Art, who applied a painter's approach to the production of "Salome." Mr. Sheets supplanted colored lights with paints, as used by the world's finest artists to produce sets and costumes glowing with all the barbaric realism of the age of Salome.

Meticulous care obviously was devoted to every detail of the picture, so that its every sequence is a matter of delight. The sets, the cast, the dialogue, the story—all reveal the determination of the studio to make "Salome" a greater production than ever before screened. The Paramount Theatre film is dramatic, exciting proof of success.

But greater than any of the many entertainment elements of 'Salome'' is the compelling surge of history which grips the film's audiences from the first moment and carries them forward in a mounting tide of wonder, splendor, beauty and suspense. "Salome" is an unforgettable production of a never forgotten era.

The Record Shop

Listen And Turn Green

NEW YORK (NEA) — Tom Murray is worried. He's a co-creator of those vile little gems called "There's a New Sound" and "Fish" on the bilious green label of Horrible Records. He's worried because people are buying the nauseating things.

"The whole business was an experiment," says Murray. "The disc jockeys were the laboratory. We wanted to see if we could make something so revolting that it would show up all this new-sound nonsense.

"But what happened? People like it. It's selling everywhere. Disc jockeys keep calling us to come on their show. We're heroes. I'm afraid, honestly afraid. What will it all lead to?"

What indeed. Murray and his co-conspirator, Tony Borello, went out of their way to produce the world's worst record. They got the weirdest, most unpleasant sounds. On the "Fish" side, they made four takes, then scientifically spliced together the worst parts of each. When it sounded too good, they went out and recorded some surface noise on top to make it worse.

And now people are clamoring to buy these musical miscarriages. Murray and Borello, both serious pop musicians, are afraid they'll be typed as the Horrible Boys. They're giving serious thought to changing their names to escape the stagnant stigma of stenchy stanzas.

Murray, though, seems slightly torn. As an advertising executive, he smells the possibility of large money to be made in producing more Horrible records, perhaps even Horrible other things. That's balanced, though, by the awful thought of being forever identified as Mr. Horrible.

So he thinks he'll retire from being Horrible, after a last fling of making one Horrible Masterworks edition. That should be delightfully loathsome.

The Popular Side: And then the two bop musicians met Einstein, scraping away on his violin, "Man," said the talkative one, "dig that square root." . . . Giselle MacKenzie, who will replace June Valli on "Your Hit Parade" next sterephonic sound and wide-screen season, is a dead ringer for Rosalind Russell. . . . The hit, "Song From 'Moulin Rouge'," originally written in France for the U. S. movie, is now being published in France for the first time.

On the Classics: RCA - Victor out with two oral records — "Adlai Stevenson Speaks," edited by James Fleming, and "Through Childhood to the Throne," a chronicle of the life of Queen Elizabeth II. . . . MGM's expanding classical department is spotlighting numbers previously unrecorded on LP.

Mrs. Mickey Rooney, (4th) Might Outdo Ava Gardner

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Exclusively Yours: Mrs. Mickey Rooney is on the stardust road — with Mickey's blessing. The Elaine Davis who just made her telefilm debut in Sovereign Theater's "My Wife, Poor Wretch," is Mrs. Rooney the fourth, and 10 per-center Ed Lynn, who's guiding her career, thinks he has another Ava Gardner in the former model.

Mickey's all for Elaine having a career and has been helping her to develop as an actress by reading scenes with her.

"Decameron Nights," filmed in Europe with Joan Fontaine, finally has a purity seal from U. S. censors after a cutting job, but Joan's in the dark about the deletions—"There must have been plenty because it's pretty racy."

Joan had a fling with Aly Khan after his separation from Rita Hayworth, but she isn't doing any second guessing on the "Flight to Tangiers" set about his current romance with Gene Tierney. "I love Gene," she says, "and I wish her the best."

SHE'LL HAVE A BALL

ZIPPY Corinnne Calvet proved she was French in her $1,000,000 lawsuit against Zsa Zsa Gabor (later withdrawn by Corinne), but now she'll be "A Woman Without a Country" on the radio. The French cutie just recorded the first show in the projected air series which she describes as another Dragnet. To retain some personal identity, her radio character name will be Corinne Corday.

If the show clicks there will be a TV version and she's hoping it can be done live instead of on film —"When it's live nobody can stop me — there's no director saying 'Cut'—and I have a ball."

Rosemary Clooney and Gene Barry are having a big freeze on the set of "Red Garters" with insiders on Gene's side of the argu-

Dept. of Confusion:

Joan Crawford's new MGM flicker, "Torch Song," is based on a magazine story—not the Broadway play. The film version of the play was made in 1932 under the title "Laughing Sinners" and the star was—Joan Crawford.

EASY DOES IT

Danny Kaye is pointing to his record of only nine movies in 10 years—and not ill health—in explaining why he's turning down fabulous TV offers.

His recent Mayo Clinic visit was his annual checkup—"I was there three days and all they found was some wax in my ears." Here's Danny talking about TV on the set of his Paramount movie, "Knock on Wood":

"I refused to burn myself up in pictures and I'm not going to do it in television. A lasting career has to be spread over a wide period of years. That's why I do only one film a year. There's nothing but confusion in TV now.

"When I find the right format and can maintain a standard I'll do television, but you can bet it won't be every week."

Until a couple of days ago Mai and Greta Garbo lived in the same Hollywood apartment house, but Garbo's as shy as ever.

"I sent her a fan note and she wrote back that maybe we could meet," Mai tells it. "Then there was a news story about her return to Hollywood and where she was living and the next day she moved."

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Fleet operators, farmers, independent truckers—truck users everywhere—buy more Chevrolets than any other make. There can be only one reason for that: Chevrolet trucks offer more of what you want.
CHEVROLET
first in demand, in value, in sales
As the official registration figures keep rolling in, they keep telling the same positive story about truck popularity and truck value: Again in 1953, for the twelfth straight production year, truck buyers show a clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks.
If you're a truck user, this fact is mighty important to you. Why? Well, as you know, trucks are built and bought for just one reason—to do a job. So isn't it logical then that since Chevrolet trucks outsell all others, they must do a better job at lower cost?
That's why it will pay you to stop in and see us before you buy your next truck.

"The Girl Next Door," at the Tem

Girl Next Door' Is Bright, Joyful, Technicolor Musical

"The Girl Next Door," today's film arrival at the Tem Theatre, is one of the brightest, most joyous and novel Technicolor musicals in many a moon. It has delightful stars in Dan Dailey, June Haver (the title roler) and Dennis Day; catchy songs and fast-paced dance numbers; a merry romp in the form of animated cartoon inserts, and a warm, romantic story nimbly enclosing both laughs and heart-tugs. This frolicsome movie-going pause will refresh any summer's day or evening.

Loaded with entertainment values, the picture maintains a light, airy and extremely winning manner from start to finish. The core of the story has Dailey, a successful comic strip cartoonist, fall in love with the pretty actress who lives next door, diverting the affection and attention which he has devoted solely to the motherless son who worships him and can't comprehend a man's need for a woman. This leads to the lad's resentment of Miss Haver, neatly resolved with the aid of some of pop's comic strip characters come to life in the boy's fancies.

The musical numbers, both song and dance, move the story along in the best tradition of integrated musical comedy. Too often a movie musical inserts its tunes distractingly and obviously. But in "The Girl Next Door" they flow naturally and amiably into the main proceedings.

The Dailey-Haver teaming is most engaging. The lovely blonde star is attractively pert alongside the lanky, friendly frame of Dan Dailey. Together they enliven both romantic and comic songs with neat vocalizing and imaginative dancing. Added vocal appeal stems from the beautiful voice of Dennis Day, who, as in his radio and television appearances, doubles as an hilarious comedian. Youth and verve are the high marks of this engaging screen trio.

Billy Gray, the youngster who plays Dailey's son, dominates the supporting cast with a sensitive acting job and efficient musical comedy contributions. Here's a young man to watch. Also effective are Cara Williams, Hyden Rorke and Mary Jane Saunders, while Natalie Schafer and Clinton Sundberg do notable work as comical household aides.

Among the musical numbers penned by Mack Gordon and Josef Myrow are "I'm Mad About The Girl Next Door" and "If I Loved You a Mountain," two beautiful ballads for Dailey and Day, respectively; Miss Haver's "A Quiet Little Place In The Country"; and a Dan Dailey-Billy Gray special, "I'd Rather Have A Pal Than A Gal—Anytime," all handsomely dance-directed by Richard Barstow.

The Technicolor production was produced for Twentieth Century-Fox by Robert Bassler and directed by Richard Sale from Isobel Lennart's script based on a story by L. Bush-Fekete and Mary Helen Fay. The unique and mirthful animated cartoon bits are by United Productions of America.

CONCORD, N. H. —UP—State officials reported that New Hampshire's quarter - million dollar maple syrup industry suffered a 25 per cent loss this year.

Two other states, New York and Vermont, suffered losses of one-third of their output.

New Hampshire realized a crop of 63,000 gallons, or 75 per cent of normal. It takes 40 gallons of sap boiled down to make one gallon of syrup.

WASHINGTON — The Department of Commerce reports that more dollars were spent for new construction in 1952 in this country than in any previous year. The value of new work put in place climbed 5 per cent over the 1951 level of $32,300,000,000. The physical volume of new construction was about the same, however, the additional dollars spent being absorbed by a rise in costs.

Destination Gobi Is Unusual Story

Through the eerie singing sands and strange magnetic lights of Asia's Gobi Desert, through restless nomadic Mongol encampments Chinese caravans and Japanese cavalry, Twentieth Century - Fox has charted an adventure that will have audiences literally gripping their seats with excitement. "Destination Gobi," which opened last night at the Jim Theatre, starring Richard Widmark and Don Taylor, is the spectacular account of a small detachment of the U. S. Navy in the last war, assigned to a Gobi Desert outpost to report weather conditions from behind enemy lines. A sudden Jap air attack sends the small band of seven war-toughened men on a desperate dash to the sea across a no-mans' land of sand and storm to a final showdown in an ancient seaport town in a wild and strange story, abounding with excitement from beginning to end.

The fast - paced action proceeds with mounting tension under the deft direction of Robert Wise who has judiciously interspersed the drama with romance and intermittent gaiety of red-blooded Americans who never let go their sense of humor. The magnificent shots of the desert with its twisting lines of camel caravans and colorful tribal processions, make this Stanley Rubin production a truly sensational achievement in Technicolor.

Billy Gray, the youngster who plays Dailey's son, dominates the supporting cast with a sensitive acting job and efficient musical comedy contributions. Here's a young man to watch. Also effective are Cara Williams, Hyden Rorke and Mary Jane Saunders, while Natalie Schafer and Clinton Sundberg do notable work as comical household aides.

Among the musical numbers penned by Mack Gordon and Josef Myrow are "I'm Mad About The Girl Next Door" and "If I Loved You a Mountain," two beautiful ballads for Dailey and Day, respectively; Miss Haver's "A Quiet Little Place In The Country"; and a Dan Dailey-Billy Gray special, "I'd Rather Have A Pal Than A Gal—Anytime," all handsomely dance-directed by Richard Barstow.

The Technicolor production was produced for Twentieth Century-Fox by Robert Bassler and directed by Richard Sale from Isobel Lennart's script based on a story by L. Bush-Fekete and Mary Helen Fay. The unique and mirthful animated cartoon bits are by United Productions of America.

CONCORD, N. H. —UP—State officials reported that New Hampshire's quarter - million dollar maple syrup industry suffered a 25 per cent loss this year.

Two other states, New York and Vermont, suffered losses of one-third of their output.

New Hampshire realized a crop of 63,000 gallons, or 75 per cent of normal. It takes 40 gallons of sap boiled down to make one gallon of syrup.

WASHINGTON — The Department of Commerce reports that more dollars were spent for new construction in 1952 in this country than in any previous year. The value of new work put in place climbed 5 per cent over the 1951 level of $32,300,000,000. The physical volume of new construction was about the same, however, the additional dollars spent being absorbed by a rise in costs.

Destination Gobi Is Unusual Story

Through the eerie singing sands and strange magnetic lights of Asia's Gobi Desert, through restless nomadic Mongol encampments Chinese caravans and Japanese cavalry, Twentieth Century - Fox has charted an adventure that will have audiences literally gripping their seats with excitement. "Destination Gobi," which opened last night at the Jim Theatre, starring Richard Widmark and Don Taylor, is the spectacular account of a small detachment of the U. S. Navy in the last war, assigned to a Gobi Desert outpost to report weather conditions from behind enemy lines. A sudden Jap air attack sends the small band of seven war-toughened men on a desperate dash to the sea across a no-mans' land of sand and storm to a final showdown in an ancient seaport town in a wild and strange story, abounding with excitement from beginning to end.

The fast - paced action proceeds with mounting tension under the deft direction of Robert Wise who has judiciously interspersed the drama with romance and intermittent gaiety ot red-blooded Americans who never let go their sense of humor. The magnificent shots of the desert with its twisting lines of camel caravans and colorful tribal processions, make this Stanley Rubin production a truly sensational achievement in Technicolor.

Petit Jurors Ordered For Murder Case

WINNSBORO, June 20 (Special) — According to Robert Lowe, Franklin parish deputy clerk of court, 30 Petit Jurors who were drawn by the jury commissioners on March 10, 1953 for service beginning Monday, May 11, 1953, but did not actually serve, to the fact that there were no jury cases, are ordered by the court to appear for jury duty on Monday, June 29, 1953.

The trial of Joseph O. Sheffield, who is charged with the murder of deputy sheriff, John L. Waller, has been set for Monday, June 29. Petit jurors who have been ordered to report for jury duty at this time are:

Alvin L. Bridges, Robert S. Roach, J. W. Brown, R. C. Bryan, Chas. E. Ezell, Charlie A. Harris, Leo Collins, James C. Smith, Solon L. Chambley, John B. Farley, Fate M. Cain, Lawrence Otwell, G. R. Louisiana Gets Blistering Heat As Season Shifts

Searing heat with temperatures approaching the 100 degree mark blistered Louisiana and Mississippi Saturday and the weather bureau offered little hope for cooling rains Sunday.

At 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Greenwood in north Mississippi registered an even 100 with the temperature still rising. Meridian showed 98 and Jackson had 96.

The one cooling note in the state was struck at Biloxi which registered 74 at 1:30, thanks to a thunderstorm. However, the weather bureau said the Gulf Coast would be back up in the 90s again Sunday.

Monroe in North Louisiana sweltered under 98 degrees and Shreveport, Lafayette and Alexandria registered 97. Baton Rouge marked up 95 and Lake Charles and New Orleans 94 each.

It represented a decline for New Orleans which chalked up 100.4 on Friday for the hottest reading in the city in 23 years.

The weather bureau in New Orleans forecast highs of 96 to 100 Sunday for the entire two-state area with only widely scattered afternoon thundershowers to take the edge off the heat.

The extended forecast through Wednesday offers no prospect for relief from the heat and citizens can expect the temperature to range into the upper 90s for almost another week.

Rev. J. T. Harris Chief Speaker

At the regular meeting of the Fellowship Supper, which is sponsored by the Methodist Fisherman's Club of Collinston, Rev. James T. Harris, new district superintendent of the Monroe district was guest speaker.

A large crowd was present to welcome Rev. Harris, his wife and daughter, and to enjoy the pot luck supper and fellowship together.

Oil Group Elects New Orleans Man

FORT WORTH, June 20 (AP)—The National Oil Scotus and Landmen's Association today elected C. D. (Doug) Hogue of the Humble Oil and Refining Co. at New Orleans president.

The group's 1954 convention will be held at New Orleans.

Dean Of Local Radio Men, L. Gibbs, Started Here In '32 At Age Of 13

By BILL ANDERSON
(Staff Writer)

Most area residents hear his voice coming forth from the speakers of their radios daily, but few realize that they are listening to an announcer who has been in the business as long, if not longer than any other announcer in the state. The voice is that of Lawrence Gibbs, announcer for radio station KMLB.

Gibbs became associated with local radio in 1932, when he was 13 years old. When asked how he came to enter the field of radio, he explained that while in the eighth grade of Neville High School, the general science teacher, W. C. Speight, instructed him to visit the local station and then report back to the class on what he had observed. "I've been here ever since," he added.

His original ambition was to enter the then new field of radio, not as an announcer, but as an engineer. As a youth he built "those wonderful little crystal sets," and sold them to other boys in his neighborhood. At one time he even built a small, five meter, transmitter. "I saved my allowance, which was small in those depression years, for weeks in order to buy a $1.25 tube needed for the set" he said. "I finally bought it, but when I tried to test it, I got the wires crossed, and 'blew out' the tube. That was the end of my transmitter."

Gibbs, who has seen radio grow from its infant days, started out doing odd jobs around the station. Later he played a guitar and sang on the air. It was not until 1936, that he first became an announcer.

Recalling his first days in radio, he stated that carbon granual microphones were used. Often the granuals would become caked and the announcer would have to tap the diaphram with a pencil to loosen them. We had to be careful, too, that we did not break the diaphram. It happened quite often, though. The engineer would then buy a chocolate bar, and use the tin foil that it was wrapped in, to make, new diaphram. "I got many free candy bars that way," he said.

Except for time spent in the military service during World War II, and three months work for station WFOR in Hattiesburg, Miss., and another six months with a Little Rock, Ark., station, Gibbs' career has been with the local station.

Well-known locally as a sports announcer, he did not do sports work until 1938. "One day I was told that I was going to give the listeners a play by play description of an Arkansas A. & M.—Mississippi State Teachers College (now Mississippi Southern) football game. I argued that I had never done any sports announcing, and that I didn't know the coach from the referee, but it did no good. The only formation name that I knew of was single wing. As far as the radio listeners were concerned the entire game was played with single wing formations.

"After that I set out to learn all I could about sports. I even attended 'skull practice' for local high school teams."

When asked about "fluffs" that he had made as an announcer, he recalled that in 1941 he was broadcasting a high school championship football game. One of the players made a quick kick, but for some reason Gibbs couldn't get the words to come out right. "I said something likke this, he explained, "it's a click quick, a quick click, a click click — the ball's on the 20 yard line."

He asserted that the life of a radio announcer is anything but dull. Many of his phone calls come from people who wish to know the weather report, or to complain that conditions aren't exactly as predicted in a weather report, which he had read over the air. Not long ago a woman called one Monday morning and wanted to know the weather report. He read it to her, "warm amd cloudy." The woman then insisted that he voice his opinion as to whether or not it was going to rain. "I want to know if I should do my washing today," she explained.

Another time a man, who was trying to put his son to sleep by reciting nursery rhymes to him, forgot several lines. He wanted to know if the announcer could tell him what they were.

Other times people call to cuss him out about something someone else had said, but which he read in the newscast.

Gibbs has not only seen the local station, and the radio industry as a whole grow. He has also observed radio personalities move up the ladder of success. He remembers when Webb Pearce of the Grand Ole Opry program, voted top hill-billy singer last year, broadcast from the local station. Link Davis, another radio celebrity of note, also performed here.

When asked about his future plans, Gibbs stated that he intends to stay in radio. "We grew up together," he said.

Engineer Head At La. Tech Is Named

RUSTON, June 20. (Special)—J. J. (Jack) Thigpen, a native of Ruston and an alumnus of Louisiana Tech, has been appointed head of the mechanical engineering department of the college here, President R. L. Ropp has announced.

In that capacity, Professor Thigpen will succeed Ben T. Bogard, who several months ago became dean of the school of engineering at Tech.

After graduating from Louisiana Tech, Thigpen entered the United States Military Academy at West Point, where he received a bachelor of science degree.

Following 29 months of service in the Pacific theater of operations during World war II, Thigpen returned to West Point, where for three years he taught military history and tactics. In 1947, he joined the Louisiana Tech faculty as assistant professor of mechanical engineering. Later, he obtained a master's degree from the University of Texas.

Then he was recalled to military service and assigned to West Point where until recently he was teaching engineering with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Faculty Changes In Concordia's Schools Listed

FERRIDAY, June 19 (Special)—A number of faculty changes in the Concordia parish public schools has been announced by Jesse S. Burris, parish superintendent of education. These include:

Resignations: Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Cross, and Mrs. Gene W. Kaigler, from Ferriday elementary school; Mrs. Pauline M. Jones from Ferriday high school.

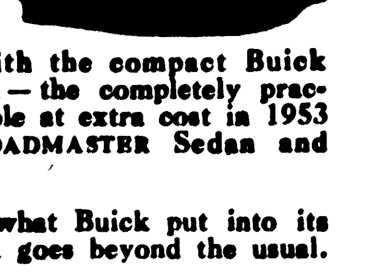
Air Conditioning on wheels* comes of age!

NOW you can have a car that's as comfortable on hot days as your air-conditioned home, office or favorite theater.

Now you can ride in draft-free coolness at the temperature level you choose—even when the outside reading is 110° and more.

Now you can take a full complement of passengers through the thick of traffic on a sweltering day—and each one of you will keep looking and feeling fresh as a daisy at dewtime.

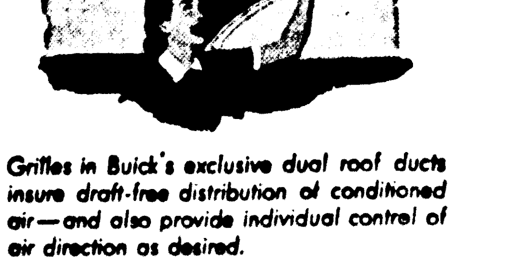


Air intakes on each side of car introduce outside air into system.

You do this with the compact Buick AIRCONDITIONER — the completely practical unit available at extra cost in 1953 SUPER and ROADMASTER Sedan and Riviera models.

But note this: what Buick put into its AIRCONDITIONER goes beyond the usual.

For the advanced design of this Buick unit provides dual roof ducts that distribute up to 300 cubic feet of cooled, freshened, filtered, air per minute to all parts of the car interior evenly and constantly—without icy blasts and drafts on your neck, shoulders, legs.



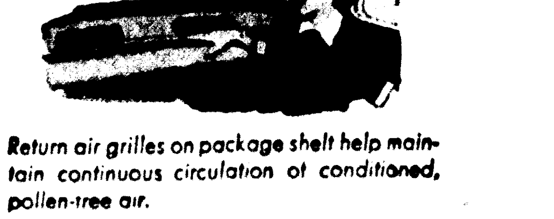
Grilles in Buick's exclusive dual roof ducts insure draft-free distribution of conditioned air—and also provide individual control of air direction as desired.

What's more, these exclusive roof ducts have individually controlled air directors above the side windows. So each window-seat passenger can guide a gentle breeze of conditioned air exactly where he wants it.

Of course, the Buick AIRCONDITIONER is automatic.

You switch it on, choose the temperature setting you want—and that level of coolness is maintained constantly. It thoroughly conditions the air around you—automatically. It carries off heat, stale air, tobacco smoke—automatically. It continuously introduces outside air into the system—automatically.

It's fast-acting, too. Even after an hour or more locked up under summer's hottest sun, the car interior can be brought to a delightfully cool comfort in a matter of minutes.



Return air grilles on package shelf help maintain continuous circulation of conditioned, pollen-free air.

And it's really compact. The cooling unit itself fits neatly on a narrow shelf in the big trunk compartment—leaves plenty of room for luggage and the like.

Why not drop in on us and try a demonstration?

You'll find that the Buick AIRCONDITIONER with its exclusive dual roof ducts is the ultimate comfort in hot-climate driving.

Louisiana Gets Blistering Heat As Season Shifts

Searing heat with temperatures approaching the 100 degree mark blistered Louisiana and Mississippi Saturday and the weather bureau offered little hope for cooling rains Sunday.

At 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Greenwood in north Mississippi registered an even 100 with the temperature still rising. Meridian showed 98 and Jackson had 96.

The one cooling note in the state was struck at Biloxi which registered 74 at 1:30, thanks to a thunderstorm. However, the weather bureau said the Gulf Coast would be back up in the 90s again Sunday.

Monroe in North Louisiana sweltered under 98 degrees and Shreveport, Lafayette and Alexandria registered 97. Baton Rouge marked up 95 and Lake Charles and New Orleans 94 each.

It represented a decline for New Orleans which chalked up 100.4 on Friday for the hottest reading in the city in 23 years.

The weather bureau in New Orleans forecast highs of 96 to 100 Sunday for the entire two-state area with only widely scattered afternoon thundershowers to take the edge off the heat.

The extended forecast through Wednesday offers no prospect for relief from the heat and citizens can expect the temperature to range into the upper 90s for almost another week.

Rev. J. T. Harris Chief Speaker

At the regular meeting of the Fellowship Supper, which is sponsored by the Methodist Fisherman's Club of Collinston, Rev. James T. Harris, new district superintendent of the Monroe district was guest speaker.

A large crowd was present to welcome Rev. Harris, his wife and daughter, and to enjoy the pot luck supper and fellowship together.

The group's 1954 convention will be held at New Orleans.

Dean Of Local Radio Men, L. Gibbs, Started Here In '32 At Age Of 13

By BILL ANDERSON
(Staff Writer)

Most area residents hear his voice coming forth from the speakers of their radios daily, but few realize that they are listening to an announcer who has been in the business as long, if not longer than any other announcer in the state. The voice is that of Lawrence Gibbs, announcer for radio station KMLB.

Gibbs became associated with local radio in 1932, when he was 13 years old. When asked how he came to enter the field of radio, he explained that while in the eighth grade of Neville High School, the general science teacher, W. C. Speight, instructed him to visit the local station and then report back to the class on what he had observed. "I've been here ever since," he added.

His original ambition was to enter the then new field of radio, not as an announcer, but as an engineer. As a youth he built "those wonderful little crystal sets," and sold them to other boys in his neighborhood. At one time he even built a small, five meter, transmitter. "I saved my allowance, which was small in those depression years, for weeks in order to buy a $1.25 tube needed for the set" he said. "I finally bought it, but when I tried to test it, I got the wires crossed, and 'blew out' the tube. That was the end of my transmitter."

Gibbs, who has seen radio grow from its infant days, started out doing odd jobs around the station. Later he played a guitar and sang on the air. It was not until 1936, that he first became an announcer.

Recalling his first days in radio, he stated that carbon granual microphones were used. Often the granuals would become caked and the announcer would have to tap the diaphram with a pencil to loosen them. We had to be careful, too, that we did not break the diaphram. It happened quite often, though. The engineer would then buy a chocolate bar, and use the tin foil that it was wrapped in, to make, new diaphram. "I got many free candy bars that way," he said.

Except for time spent in the military service during World War II, and three months work for station WFOR in Hattiesburg, Miss., and another six months with a Little Rock, Ark., station. Gibbs' career has been with the local station.

Well-known locally as a sports announcer, he did not do sports work until 1938. "One day I was told that I was going to give the listeners a play by play description of an Arkansas A. & M.—Mississippi State Teachers College (now Mississippi Southern) football game. I argued that I had never done any sports announcing, and that I didn't know the coach from the referee, but it did no good. The only formation name that I knew of was single wing. As far as the radio listeners were concerned the entire game was played with single wing formations.

"After that I set out to learn all I could about sports. I even attended 'skull practice' for local high school teams."

When asked about "fluffs" that he had made as an announcer, he recalled that in 1941 he was broadcasting a high school championship football game. One of the players made a quick kick, but for some reason Gibbs couldn't get the words to come out right. "I said something likke this, he explained, "it's a click quick, a quick click, a click click — the ball's on the 20 yard line."

He asserted that the life of a radio announcer is anything but dull. Many of his phone calls come from people who wish to know the weather report, or to complain that conditions aren't exactly as predicted in a weather report, which he had read over the air. Not long ago a woman called one Monday morning and wanted to know the weather report. He read it to her, "warm amd cloudy." The woman then insisted that he voice his opinion as to whether or not it was going to rain. "I want to know if I should do my washing today," she explained.

Another time a man, who was trying to put his son to sleep by reciting nursery rhymes to him, forgot several lines. He wanted to know if the announcer could tell him what they were.

Other times people call to cuss him out about something someone else had said, but which he read in the newscast.

Gibbs has not only seen the loal station, and the radio industry as a whole grow. He has also observed radio personalities move up the ladder of success. He remembers when Webb Pearce of the Grand Ole Opry program, voted top hill-billy singer last year, broadcast from the local station. Link Davis, another radio celebrity of note, also performed here.

When asked about his future plans, Gibbs stated that he intends to stay in radio. "We grew up together," he said.

Conference Set For LSU Campus

BATON ROUGE, June 20 (AP)—Five state agencies will jointly sponsor a conference on the exceptional child at Louisiana State University June 28-July 1.

Sponsoring agencies are the Departments of Health, Public Welfare, Institutions and Education, and the Louisiana Youth Commission.

Purpose of the conference is to review what is being done for exceptional children, to study programs in other states and to map action for work in the field in Louisiana.

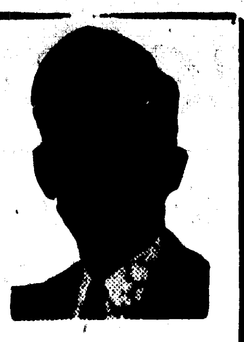
Oilers Down Sports In 10 Innings, 4-3

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over



While the Monroe Sports are having their ups and downs, finding it mighty hard to get a winning streak going as they dilly dally between first and second divisions in the Cotton States race and dangerously close to skidding further, we are heartened by at least one improvement in Manager Charley Harrington's command.

All season long Harrington has been looking for a reliable "clean-up" hitter, a man who can handle that No. 4 slot in the lineup with dependability. Ray Coss begins to look like he'll fill the bill.

For too long it has looked like consignment to the No. 4 position meant a nose-dive in batting. Adrian Burk, a heavy hitter in spring training, was Harrington's first choice, but the spring training hurlers started putting "stuff" on the ball when the championship race began, and Burk couldn't buy a hit.

Next, J. T. Jaynes got the clean-up job. Then Lou Stutts. Coss got a trial through mid-May. Then Catcher Ray Rogers, who was running No. 2 in batting, was mustered into the slot. Rogers' batting average promptly began shrinking. Dependable Nelson Daehn, sophomore center fielder, got the nod from Harrington early in June. But the clean-up job was still busy. Daehn went back to his No. 2 place in the batting order, and Jaynes got another chance.

After surrendering clean-up to Rogers late in May, Coss rode the bench for a while until called on for a pinch hit role in the ninth inning of a Natchez game here June 5. The army's former military policeman promptly slammed a double off the left field fence, a 370-foot clout. Coss was back in the lineup from that date and has since been playing merry with Cotton States pitching. Back in the clean-up hole, he has shown no signs of weakening. Maybe he has conquered the spell that has silenced bats in that spot before him.

Of course, Harrington has continuing problems that need ironing out. But, if Coss can keep producing, at least one of the big headaches may be eased.

The Fifth District All-Star American Legion Junior baseball team, exclusive of players on the club leading the league as of June 23, will be selected here Tuesday night at a meeting called by District Chairman Bob McNeely of West Monroe. McNeely will have coaches of all contending clubs; his advisory board of Lawrence Gibbs, Ed Lockhart, and Herb Steed, plus district Legion officials, and members of the press and radio present for a supper at which the selections will be made.

Members of the All-Star squad will play the June 23 leaders at Legion Memorial Stadium here the night of July the Fourth with all proceeds of the game dedicated to paying expenses for Legion Junior players to St. Louis to see two major league games.

McNeely, who has for years promoted youth work for West Monroe and the Twin Cities, is serving his third season as head man of the district's Legion baseball program. This All-Star game is McNeely's introduction to the district program.

"We hope to make our All-Star game one of the big attractions of our district," McNeely declared. "After all our district, covering all of northeast Louisiana, is one of the biggest in the state and our youth athletic program holds not only the complete support of Legionnaires throughout our area but the interest of all our sports-loving people.

The Legion district race is currently led by Monroe's defending state champions and if the form holds it will be Monroe against the best of talent from Farmerville, Rayville, Winnsboro, Ruston, and Bastrop in the All-Star tussle here.

Jamie K. Scores 1st Stakes Win In Richards Run

WILMINGTON, De., June 20 (AP)—Spring Hill farm's Jamie K., won his first stake race today as he charged from behind at the top of the stretch to run away from a field of seven in the $30,000 added Leonard Richards States at Delaware Park.

Eddie Arcaro booted the son of Crowfoot-Seal Elf to a 3½ length triumph over James Cox Brady's Landlocked in a fast 1:48 4-5 for the mile and an eighth run. Sent off as a 1-to-4 favorite by the crowd of 23,482, Jamie K., paid his backers slim picking — $2.40, $2.30 and $2.10.

James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club and owner of the colt who lost both the Preakness and Belmont Stakes to Native Dancer by a neck, was on hand to collect the cup and $32,980 awarded to the winner. The victory raised Jamie K's earnings to $97,455.

Arcaro ran the horse exactly the way Trainer John Partridge likes to see the rabbit chasing Jamie K. perform. The nation's premier stake rider had his mount dead last as the field rounded the clubhouse turn. Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords Maabrook set the early pace with Landlocked and King Ranch's Gran Chaco in close pursuit.

Jamie K. was running easily under a stout hold as the seven horses raced down the back stretch. As they came past the half-mile pole and moved around the far turn, Arcaro waved his bat in front of Jamie K's face and the Norris colt began to move. at the top of the stretch he shoved his nose in front, stretching out his lead with every stride. Landlocked came on to take second and Gran Chaco third as Maabrook faded. Hal Price Headley's Regal Manner wound up fourth.

Racer Fatally Injured As Car Cracks In Test

TRENTON, N. J., June 20 (AP)—A spin and crash at the Langhorne, Pa., Auto Speedway brought death today to racer Frank Arford of Indianapolis, Ind.

Arford's stock car went into a spin, rolled over six times and crashed through the outside barrier at the track in Langhorne during a qualifying heat in time trials for tomorrow's 200-mile race, police said.

Arford was torn out of his safety belt and tumbled around inside the racer. He never regained consciousness.

Steelers Add 3 To Bring Roster To 34

PITTSBURGH, June 20. (AP)—Two halfbacks and a rookie center signed their 1953 contracts today with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. That brings the Steelers roster to 34.

The new rookie center is Luo C. Tepe, 23, a graduate of Duke University and a member of the Associated Press All Southern Conference team last year.

Third Inning El Dorado Uprising Nets 3 Of 4 Runs

EL DORADO, Ark., June 20—(Special)—The El Dorado Oilers took the measure of the Monroe Sports again tonight, 4-3, this time in ten innings.

Hoppy Hatcher, who went the entire route for the Sports, had only one bad inning, the third, in which the Oilers garnered half their eight hits and three-quarters of their runs. During the next seven innings, Hatcher allowed only three more scattered hits, retiring 12 men in order in one stretch.

Bill Brightwell, who hurled the tenth inning for the El Dorado nine, after starter Dick Royce was lifted for a pinchhitter in the ninth, received credit for the win.

Oiler hot-corner guardian Bill Carr took up where he left off last night, when he powdered one over the left field fence in the bottom of the third, with pitcher Royce on base, by virtue of a single. Neal Howard then doubled to center, Pat O'Keefe walked, and Pel Austin singled Howard in, O'Keefe stopping at second. Manager Bill Adair walked to load the hassocks, and the situation looked grim for Hatcher, as only one was away. The little Sports' ace settled down, though, and retired the next two batters to end the uprising.

The Sports, with one of Charlie Harrington's famous double-stretched-into-sliding-triple, started off a short rally in the top of the fourth. Ray Coss promptly singled his boss in from third, and the Sports had a run, to make the score 3-1, with El Dorado leading.

The Sports knotted it up in their half of the fifth, with young Joe Edmonds driving in the second Monroe marker, and scoring the equalizer. Ray Rogers led off with a double. Edmonds followed suit, scoring the stocky catcher. Advancing to third on a Hatcher ground-out, Edmonds scored the tying run on a long fly by Billy Sharp, and it was a new game at 3-3.

After allowing only one Oiler hit since the big third, Hatcher retired 13 of 15 El Dorado batters through the eighth, and though Morgan led off in the last of the ninth with a double, he didn't get any further than third, as Hoppy bore down again to retire the next three batters on two rollers and a strike-out, and the game went into extra innings.

The Oilers ended the tilt in the last of the tenth, when, after one out, O'Keefe doubled. Austin was purposely passed, and after a Rogers' passed ball, advanced both runners. Adair was passed intentionally. Jay Jeffries hit a long fly to Coss, O'Keefe tagging up and scoring the winning marker after the catch.

Mantle Main Vote-Getter

Robinson has collected 41,297 votes in the nation-wide balloting of fans to select the starting American and National League lineups for All-Star game at Cincinnati July 14.

The poll started June 12 and will end July 3.

The Chicago Cubs Kiner has drawn 40,101 votes for the National League left field starting assignment and the St. Louis Cardinals' Musial has polled 37,516.

VOTE NOW!

Help put their favorite major league baseball player in the All-Star game at Cincinnati July 14. Morning World and News-Star readers are already rallying the votes. Those who have not cast ballots may do so by selecting their choices for both National and American Leagues, except pitchers, and mailing to "Sports Department, Monroe Morning World"

Ruhe Makes Stretch Rally, Wins Lincoln

The winner received $15,950 and returned $6.80, $3.20 and $2.80. The time was 1:43 1-5.

Rose Leaves Won By Lilly Valenti, Peu-A-Peu 2nd

Overlooked as the crowd installed Bloom, a Chicago inportation, as a 5-2 favorite, Lilly Valenti ran the six furlongs in 1:10 3-5, leaving Bloom and 11 other fillies behind.

Peu-A-Peu was second and Amabala, which set the pace for five furlongs, was third. Bloom was fourth.

River Divide's Andre First In Puritan Run

BOSTON, June 20—(AP)—River Divide Farm's Andre, a 14-1 shot, won the $10,000 Puritan Handicap today at Suffolk Downs.

Ridden by Jockey John Choquette, Andre led from the start of the mile and 70 yards race and had a length on Irving Gushen's Soldier Son when he finished in 1:42.

The even-money favorite of the 19,350 crowd, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lingle's Larry Ellis, showed in the 11-horse field, a length and a half away from Soldier Son.

Andre paid $30.60, $11.40 and $5.20.

By TOM McNALLY

LINCOLN, Neb., June 20—UP—Husky Sim Iness of Southern California set a new world discus record Saturday night with a mighty toss of 190 feet, 7-8 inch and fleet Wes Santee of Kansas shattered three running marks in the annual NCAA field and track meet.

Iness's throw bettered the old world record by more than three feet. It was held by Fortune Gordien, Minnesota, since 1949 at 186 feet, 11 inches.

Santee thrilled 15,000 fans who hoped to witness a four-minute mile as he blazed the mile distance in 4:03.7.

The time failed to top his own tentative American record of 4:02.4 set earlier this year, but it broke the official listed American record, the collegiate record and the NCAA meet mark.

Iness, surprised by his effort, said afterwards that "it just didn't feel quite right when I threw it."

Santee, after his brilliant performance in the mile, was scratched from the 880 yard run because of a blister on his foot and also, Coach Bill Easton said, because the lithe Kansas cowboy was down to 141 pounds, nine under his normal weight. Excessive heat in Friday's trials may have helped take poundage off the fleet miler.

Santee, who said his "girl friend" was in the crowd on the University of Nebraska field, was all smiles after his run and within a few minutes spoke normally and looked ready to run again.

Lang Stanley, San Jose State, won the 880-yard run, in 1:52.4, almost two seconds off the meet record. The event had been billed as a duel between Santee and Stanley.

Santee had to come from behind in the mile run, taking the lead at the end of two and one half laps.

"I wish I had broken sooner," he said. "But I guess I did all right."

Willy Williams, Illinois, won the 100-yeard dash finals, beating Kansas State's Thane Baker for the second day in a row. The time was :09.7, not a record. Williams also bested Baker in semi-finals Friday.

The meet got underway in almost perfect weather with a four-mile an hour wind and comfortable 80-degree temperature.

The crowd waited through early events for the heralded mile run and Santee's crack at the four-minute mile. Spectators roared as Santee pulled from behind and finished without a close challenger.

The Kansas cowboy's coach, Bill Easton, said earlier he was hoping for "twin wins" for him, in the mile and the 880, and "the records came after that."

Girls Headline Double Feature On Kallio Card

The girls come back to help headline a double main event wrestling card at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night with Betty Hawkins, Florida state women's champion, meeting newcomer Therese Theis is backing up the twin feature that includes a brawl between Don Martin and Joe Corbett.

Martin, of Lexington, Ky., and Corbett, the San Francisco bruiser, promise a rugged match, but the girls are always top attraction on Kallio cards and are due to be the magnet that pulls the customers Tuesday night.

Miss Hawkins showed before Twin City fans last week, but Miss Theis is invading this section of the country for the first time and is already considered one of the best attractions among the feminine ring amazons of the day.

A pupil of Bronko Nagurski, former Minnesota football hero and once claimant to the world's heavyweight mat crown, Miss Theis also has collected ring wisdom from such oldtime mat warriors as Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Tony Stecher.

The 21-year-old Therese stands five-foot-eight and weighs 140 pounds. Aside from wrestling, she is a champion ice skater, winning several events in her home state of Minnesota and in Canada.

Both matches Tuesday night will have time limits of an hour and 15 minutes.

Oilers Down Sports In 10 Innings, 4-3

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

While the Monroe Sports are having their ups and downs, finding it mighty hard to get a winning streak going as they dilly dally between first and second divisions in the Cotton States race and dangerously close to skidding further, we are heartened by at least one improvement in Manager Charley Harrington's command.

All season long Harrington has been looking for a reliable "clean-up" hitter, a man who can handle that No. 4 slot in the lineup with dependability. Ray Coss begins to look like he'll fill the bill.

For too long it has looked like consignment to the No. 4 position meant a nose-dive in batting. Adrian Burk, a heavy hitter in spring training, was Harrington's first choice, but the spring training hurlers started putting "stuff" on the ball when the championship race began, and Burk couldn't buy a hit.

Next, J. T. Jaynes got the clean-up job. Then Lou Stutts. Coss got a trial through mid-May. Then Catcher Ray Rogers, who was running No. 2 in batting, was mustered into the slot. Rogers' batting average promptly began shrinking. Dependable Nelson Daehn, sophomore center fielder, got the nod from Harrington early in June. But the clean-up jinx was still busy. Daehn went back to his No. 2 place in the batting order, and Jaynes got another chance.

After surrendering clean-up to Rogers late in May, Coss rode the bench for a while until called on for a pinch hit role in the ninth inning of a Natchez game here June 5. The army's former military policeman promptly slammed a double off the left field fence, a 370-foot clout. Coss was back in the lineup from that date and has since been playing merry with Cotton States pitching. Back in the clean-up hole, he has shown no signs of weakening. Maybe he has conquered the spell that has silenced bats in that spot before him.

Of course, Harrington has continuing problems that need ironing out. But, if Coss can keep producing, at least one of the big headaches may be eased.

The Fifth District All-Star American Legion Junior baseball team, exclusive of players on the club leading the league as of June 23, will be selected here Tuesday night at a meeting called by District Chairman Bob McNeely of West Monroe. McNeely will have coaches of all contending clubs; his advisory board of Lawrence Gibbs, Ed Lockhart, and Herb Steed, plus district Legion officials, and members of the press and radio present for a supper at which the selections will be made.

Members of the All-Star squad will play the June 23 leaders at Legion Memorial Stadium here the night of July the Fourth with all proceeds of the game dedicated to paying expenses for Legion Junior players to St. Louis to see two major league games.

McNeely, who has for years promoted youth work for West Monroe and the Twin Cities, is serving his third season as head man of the district's Legion baseball program. This All-Star game is McNeely's introduction to the district program.

"We hope to make our All-Star game one of the big attractions of our district," McNeely declared. "After all our district, covering all of northeast Louisiana, is one of the biggest in the state and our youth athletic program holds not only the complete support of Legionnaires throughout our area but the interest of all our sports-loving people.

The Legion district race is currently led by Monroe's defending state champions and if the form holds it will be Monroe against the best of talent from Farmerville, Rayville, Winnsboro, Ruston, and Bastrop in the All-Star tussle here.

Third Inning El Dorado Uprising Nets 3 Of 4 Runs

EL DORADO, Ark., June 20—(Special)—The El Dorado Oilers took the measure of the Monroe Sports again tonght, 4-3, this time in ten innings.

Hoppy Hatcher, who went the entire route for the Sports, had only one bad inning, the third, in which the Oilers garnered half their eight hits and three-quarters of their runs. During the next seven innings, Hatcher allowed only three more scattered hits, retiring 12 men in order in one stretch.

Bill Brightwell, who hurled the tenth inning for the El Dorado nine, after starter Dick Royce was lifted for a pinchhitter in the ninth, received credit for the win.

Oiler hot-corner guardian Bill Carr took up where he left off last night, when he powdered one over the left field fence in the bottom of the third, with pitcher Royce on base, by virtue of a single. Neal Howard then doubled to center, Pat O'Keefe walked, and Pel Austin singled Howard in, O'Keefe stopping at second. Manager Bill Adair walked to load the hassocks, and the situation looked grim for Hatcher, as only one was away. The little Sports' ace settled down, though, and retired the next two batters to end the uprising.

The Sports, with one of Charlie Harrington's famous double - stretched - into - sliding - triple, started off a short rally in the top of the fourth. Ray Coss promptly singled his boss in from third, and the Sports had a run, to make the score 3-1, with El Dorado leading.

The Sports knotted it up in their half of the fifth, with young Joe Edmonds driving in the second Monroe marker, and scoring the equalizer. Ray Rogers led off with a double. Edmonds followed suit, scoring the stocky catcher. Advancing to third on a Hatcher ground - out, Edmonds scored the tying run on a long fly by Billy Sharp, and it was a new game at 3-3.

After allowing only one Oiler hit since the big third, Hatcher retired 13 of 15 El Dorado batters through the eighth, and though Morgan led off in the last of the ninth with a double, he didn't get any further than third, as Hoppy bore down again to retire the next three batters on two rollers and a strike-out, and the game went into extra innings.

The Oilers ended the tilt in the last of the tenth, when, after one out, O'Keefe doubled. Austin was purposely passed, and after a Rogers' passed ball, advanced both runners, Adair was passed intentionally. Jay Jeffries hit a long fly to Coss, O'Keefe tagging up and scoring the winning marker after the catch.

Ruhe Makes Stretch Rally, Wins Lincoln

The winner received $15,950 and returned $6.80, $3.20 and $2.80. The time was 1:43 1-5.

Jamie K. Scores 1st Stakes Win In Richards Run

WILMINGTON, De., June 20 (AP)—Spring Hill farm's Jamie K., won his first stake race today as he charged from behind at the top of the stretch to run away from a field of seven in the $30,000 added Leonard Richards States at Delaware Park.

Eddie Arcaro booted the son of Crowfoot-Seal Elf to a 3½ length triumph over James Cox Brady's Landlocked in a fast 1:48 4-5 for the mile and an eighth run. Sent off as a 1-to-4 favorite by the crowd of 23,482, Jamie K., paid his backers slim picking — $2.40, $2.30 and $2.10.

James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club and owner of the colt who lost both the Preakness and Belmont Stakes to Native Dancer by a neck, was on hand to collect the cup and $32,980 awarded to the winner. The victory raised Jamie K's earnings to $97,455.

Arcaro ran the horse exactly the way Trainer John Partridge likes to see the rabbit chasing Jamie K. perform. The nation's premier stake rider had his mount dead last as the field rounded the clubhouse turn. Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords Maabrook set the early pace with Landlocked and King Ranch's Gran Chaco in close pursuit.

Jamie K. was running easily under a stout hold as the seven horses raced down the back stretch. As they came past the half-mile pole and moved around the far turn, Arcaro waved his bat in front of Jamie K's face and the Norris colt began to move. at the top of the stretch he shoved his nose in front, stretching out his lead with every stride. Landlocked came on to take second and Gran Chaco third as Maabrook faded. Hal Price Headley's Regal Manner wound up fourth.

Racer Fatally Injured As Car Cracks In Test

TRENTON, N. J., June 20 (AP)—A spin and crash at the Langhorne, Pa., Auto Speedway brought death today to racer Frank Arford of Indianapolis, Ind.

Arford's stock car went into a spin, rolled over six times and crashed through the outside barrier at the track in Langhorne during a qualifying heat in time trials for tomorrow's 200-mile race, police said.

Arford was torn out of his safety belt and tumbled around inside the racer. He never regained consciousness.

Steelers Add 3 To Bring Roster To 34

PITTSBURGH, June 20. (AP)—Two halfbacks and a rookie center signed their 1953 contracts today with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. That brings the Steelers roster to 34.

The new rookie center is Luo C. Tepe, 23, a graduate of Duke University and a member of the Associated Press All Southern Conference team last year.

Overlooked as the crowd installed Bloom, a Chicago inportation, as a 5-2 favorite, Lilly Valenti ran the six furlongs in 1:10 3-5, leaving Bloom and 11 other fillies behind.

Peu-A-Peu was second and Amabala, which set the pace for five furlongs, was third. Bloom was fourth.

River Divide's Andre First In Puritan Run

BOSTON, June 20—(AP) — River Divide Farm's Andre, a 14-1 shot, won the $10,000 Puritan Handicap today at Suffolk Downs.

Ridden by Jockey John Choquette, Andre led from the start of the mile and 70 yards race and had a length on Irving Gushen's Soldier Son when he finished in 1:42.

The even-money favorite of the 19,350 crowd, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lingle's Larry Ellis, showed in the 11-horse field, a length and a half away from Soldier Son.

Andre paid $30.60, $11.40 and $5.20.

By TOM MCNALLY

LINCOLN, Neb., June 20—UP—Husky Sim Iness of Southern California set a new world discus record Saturday night with a mighty toss of 190 feet, 7-8 inch and fleet Wes Santee of Kansas shattered three running marks in the annual NCAA field and track meet.

Iness's throw bettered the old world record by more than three feet. It was held by Fortune Gordien, Minnesota, since 1949 at 186 feet, 11 inches.

Santee thrilled 15,000 fans who hoped to witness a four-minute mile as he blazed the mile distance in 4:03.7.

The time failed to top his own tentative American record of 4:02.4 set earlier this year, but it broke the official listed American record, the collegiate record and the NCAA meet mark.

Iness, surprised by his effort, said afterwards that "it just didn't feel quite right when I threw it."

Santee, after his brilliant performance in the mile, was scratched from the 880 yard run because of a blister on his foot and also, Coach Bill Easton said, because the lithe Kansas cowboy was down to 141 pounds, nine under his normal weight. Excessive heat in Friday's trials may have helped take poundage off the fleet miler.

Santee, who said his "girl friend" was in the crowd on the University of Nebraska field, was all smiles after his run and within a few minutes spoke normally and looked ready to run again.

Lang Stanley, San Jose State, won the 880-yard run, in 1:52.4, almost two seconds off the meet record. The event had been billed as a duel between Santee and Stanley.

Santee had to come from behind in the mile run, taking the lead at the end of two and one half laps.

"I wish I had broken sooner," he said. "But I guess I did all right."

Willy Williams, Illinois, won the 100-yeard dash finals, beating Kansas State's Thane Baker for the second day in a row. The time was :09.7, not a record. Williams also bested Baker in semi-finals Friday.

The meet got underway in almost perfect weather with a four-mile an hour wind and comfortable 80-degree temperature.

The crowd waited through early events for the heralded mile run and Santee's crack at the four-minute mile. Spectators roared as Santee pulled from behind and finished without a close challenger.

The Kansas cowboy's coach, Bill Easton, said earlier he was hoping for "twin wins" for him, in the mile and the 880, and "the records came after that."

Girls Headline Double Feature On Kallio Card

The girls come back to help headline a double main event wrestling card at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night with Betty Hawkins, Florida state women's champion, meeting newcomer Therese Theis is backing up the twin feature that includes a brawl between Don Martin and Joe Corbett.

Martin, of Lexington, Ky., and Corbett, the San Francisco bruiser, promise a rugged match, but the girls are always top attraction on Kallio cards and are due to be the magnet that pulls the customers Tuesday night.

Miss Hawkins showed before Twin City fans last week, but Miss Theis is invading this section of the country for the first time and is already considered one of the best attractions among the feminine ring amazons of the day.

A pupil of Bronko Nagurski, former Minnesota football hero and once claimant to the world's heavyweight mat crown, Miss Theis also has collected ring wisdom from such oldtime mat warriors as Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Tony Stecher.

The 21-year-old Therese stands five-foot-eight and weighs 140 pounds. Aside from wrestling, she is a champion ice skater, winning several events in her home state of Minnesota and in Canada.

Both matches Tuesday night will have time limits of an hour and 15 minutes.

Burke Forges Ahead Of Haas In Inverness Tourney

Freddie Falters To Fall 2 Blows Off Leading Pace

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO, O., June 20. (AP)—A sharpshooting Jack Burke, 30-year-old transplanted Texan from Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., birdied four straight holes on the back nine today to take a two-stroke lead at the 54-hole mark in the $18,000 Inverness Invitational Golf Tournament.

Burke was deadlocked at 132 with Freddie Haas of New Orleans as the field of 30 selected professionals started today in 98-degree heat. Haas took the lead by two strokes at the end of 45, and then Burke came roaring down the stretch in a three-under-par 33 despite missing par on the 17th.

With three-fourths of the 72-hole medal play test out of the way, Burke had a score of 201, a dozen under par. Haas skidded to a par 71 for a 203 total as he fell out of the led for the first time in the race for the $3,400 top prize.

Burke, suffering with influenza and 'filled with penicillin," said he hadn't eaten for two days but planned to have a big steak tonight.

"I almost didn't make it," Burke said. "On the sixth hole I almost fainted. Saw four balls when I started to putt. Finally got the ball down, and stood in the shade of a tree for a while. Then I was all right."

(He must have putted the right one of the four balls he saw, for he birdied the sixth.)

Haas, with an aching back, lost a stroke to par on the back nine with a 37, the first time he's been over the card.

Skip Alexander, who moved into contention yesterday with a seven-under-par 64, added a 69, to match Burke's effort today. That left Skip, still hampered by plane accident injuries incurred several seasons ago, in third place with 206, five off the pace.

Giambra Victory Over Portuguez Booed By Crowd

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Buffalo's middleweight hopeful Joey Giambra, got up off the deck to win a unanimous 10-round decision tonight over Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez of Costa Rica, but the result was roundly booed by a sweltering crowd of about 4,800. Giambra weighed 157½; Portuguez 160 ¾.

Giambra, who has never been knocked out and has lost only two decisions in 26 professional fights, was floored by a left hook in the eighth round. He finished the fight with his right eye completely closed and his nose dripping blood.

Referee Fred Stanton gave it to Giambra 5, 4 and 1 even. Judge Ed Shellerman scored it 6, 3, and 1. Judge Fred Hagenauer made it 6 to 4.

The Associated Press card was 5, 4 and 1 even for Giambra.

The Memorial Auditorium fight, sponsored by the Judson Boxing Club, was televised nationally (ABC).

Giambra's margin of victory was the ninth round, which was taken away from Portuguez for hitting on the break after five separate warnings in the one round. Portuguez also was warned for low blows in the third and fifth, and for butting in the sixth.

Giambra took an eight - count when he went down in the eighth.

Stranahan Left Off Walker Cup Squad By USGA

NEW YORK, June 20—UP—The United States Golfing Association Saturday named five veterans of the international competition and five newcomers to the 1953 Walker Cup team, but left off the squad, without explanation, Frank Stranahan, one of the nation's top amateurs.

Named to the team which will defend the cup against Great Brittain's best amateur golfers at the Kittansett Club, Marion, Mass., Sept. 4 and 5 were:

William C. Campbell, Huntington, W. Va.; Richard C. Chapman, Pinehurst, N. C.; Donald R. Cherry, New York City; Charles R. Coe, Oklahoma City; James G. Jackson, St. Louis; Gene A. Littler, San Diego and La Jolla, Calif.; Sam Urzetta, Rochester, N. Y.; Kenneth P Venturi, San Francisco; Harvie Ward Jr., Atlanta and Jack Westland, Everett, Wash.

Campbell, Chapman, Coe and Urzetta were members of the 1951 team which defeated Britain 6 to 3, with three matches halved, at Southport, Eng. Westland, the present U. S. amateur champion, was a Walker Cup player in 1936 and 1938.

Cherry, Jackson, Littler, Venturi and Ward will be competing in the matches for the first time.

CLOWN PRINCE OF BASEBALL, Al Schacht (above), will be a featured attraction at Legion Memorial Stadium here Monday, June 29, as he appears in his colorful exhibition prior to the game between Monroe and the Greenville Bucks, it was announced yesterday by Paul Manasseh, Monroe business manager. It will be Schacht's first appearance here in almost two decades. The diamond comic has appeared before more than 60 million people in the past 25 years. His act here will be the same which he will present at the 1953 World Series. Regular admission prices will prevail.

Shoddy Tiger Fielding Gives Yankees 6-2 Win

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP) — The New York Yankees took advantage of shoddy Detroit fielding to score five unearned runs today enroute to a -26 victory in steaming mid-90-degree heat that wilted both starting pitchers.

Vic Raschi gave way to Allie Reynolds in the eighth while. Al Aber, the Tigers' starter, tired in the heat after allowing only one hit in the first five innings.

Barr Will Enter Cycle Events At Shreveport Oval

Jimmy Barr, Monroe motorcycle enthusiast, will participate in motorcycle races scheduled for this afternoon at the state fair grounds in Shreveport. Barr, president of the Twin City Ramblers, local motorcycle club, is making his first year of racing.

Jerry Johnson will be Barr's pit man and Barney Barker his mechanic. Time trials at Shreveport begin at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon with races starting at 2:10.

Moore, Albritton Head Big Eight's Slugging Parade

RUSTON, La., June 20 (Special)—After two rounds of play in the Big Eight League, seven regulars are hitting over the .400 mark with Jess Moore and Henry Albritton, both of Farmerville, tied for first place in the race for the batting crown with averages of .471.

The Bastrop Barons claim the next two positions with Leon Langston hitting .462 for third place, and Lee Beaudreaux coming in fourth with a healthy .448.

Jerry Marchand, star L. S. U. football and baseball player, is batting .438, and Johnny Emmonds, who led the Gulf States Conference in hitting two years ago, has .406 for Bernice.

For several years the Big Eight has been known as a pitcher's league, but this year all the clubs, with the exception of Ruston, have three or four .300 hitters.

All the games this year are being played under lights with three games per week and a 35-game schedule finishing August 15 in time for the Shaughnessy playoffs to be over so that college and high school athletes can report for football practice.

Larry Fox, league president, has announced Ruston has ceased to play Sunday ball at home, and will complete the season with home dates on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Shoemaker Rides 6 Winners, Misses In Featured Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 20 (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker rang up six victories in eight starts at Hollywood Park today but it was rider Ralph Neves on Pet Bully who captured the featured $25,000 Inglewood Handicap.

Shoemaker's brilliant performance was the first time a jockey has won six races at Hollywood Park. He is the nation's leading rider this year, with 50 firsts at the current meeting and 203 first for the year.

Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Pet Bully out-dueled the front running Royal Serenade to win the Inglewood Handicap before 47,131 fans, and Calumet farm's Fleet Bird was third.

The time for the mile and one-sixteenth feature race was 1:42, two-fifths off the track record.

Pet Bully paid $10.70, $4.40 and $2.80, Royal Serenade paid $3.70, and $2.50, and Fleet Bird $2.60.

Shoemaker, who won the first three races, missed on the fourth and won the fifth and sixth, ran out of money on Mrs. Rea Warner's California horse, Trusting, in the Inglewood.

Pet Bully, an established threat to win the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap July 11, chalked up his third stakes triumph in four starts at the current meeting. He carried 123 pounds today and goes with 120 in the Cup race.

In the champion feature, the $15,000 Freeman Handicap Shoemaker ushered in Stranglehold by a length and a quarter, handing Calumet's classy A Gleam her third straight loss at Hollywood. The Betty Grable-Harry James campaigner, Big Noise, was third.

Stranglehold, clocked at 1:09 4-5 for six furlongs, brought $11.50 for a $2 win ticket.

Moore Favored To Keep Crown In Maxim Bout

The two meet Wednesday in a 15-round championship battle in the Ogden Stadium.

Aside from a continuing argument as to who will referee, the chief prefight publicity has concerned the weight of Joey Maxim.

It's nobody's business, he said, what his boy weighed that long before the fight.

The continuing haggle over selection of a referee and judges was cleared up somewhat when Jack Dempsey withdrew as a possibility. Charley Johnston, Moore's manager, had objected to Dempsey because Kearns formerly managed the ex-heavy champ.

Co-Promoters Al Warden and Kenny Mayne, tiring of trying to get Johnston and Kearns to agree on the officials promised to select them themselves no later than tomorrow.

Chatham Outfit Downs Danville To Tune Of 9-4

CHATHAM, La., June 20. (Special) The Chatham baseball club of the Eastern Division of the Jackson-Bienville League, defeated Danville, Western Division leaders, 9 to 4, here this afternoon in an exhibition game. It was the first time in four exhibitions that Chatham, leader of the Eastern Division, has been able to beat the Deacons who have won two and tied one in the series.

Chatham will entertain Arcadia in a league double header here Sunday, beginning at 2 o'clock. Moore and Jordan are due to pitch for the host club.

All-Star Buddy Contest Honors Drowned Player

RUSTON, La., June 20. (Special)—North-South all-star players for the annual Buddy League All-Star game, which will be played June 26 in Ruston were selected by team managers at a meeting held in Ruston Thursday evening.

With seven teams playing in the league this summer, Arcadia, Jonesboro-Hodge and Ruston will comprise the "South" team and Bernice, Dubach, Fairbanks and Farmerville will make up the "North" team for the classic.

The game will be played at Fraser Field in Ruston next Friday night under the lights and tickets now are on sale with the managers of the various teams.

Proceeds of the game will go to help pay league expenses but the game, itself, will be dedicated to Thomas Middleton, Bernice center fielder, who was drowned in a swimming accident in Ruston's Municipal Natatorium Wednesday afternoon.

Middleton, who was a member of the all-star team last year for the "East" division, had been nominated for the center field position on the "North" squad this year before the tragic accident.

The team managers selected the following players on the two all-star quads:

South

Ruston—Doyle Sherrill, Gerald Cobb, Don Cole, Ragan Edmiston, Bobby Harrison, Pat Garrett, James Upchurch, Jerry Dyson and Jimmy Alexander.

Arcadia—Jim Adkins, Langford Caskey, Terry Sandlin, Ronnie Bears, Buddy McCullen and Billy Boatner.

North

Fairbanks—Jimmy Hodge, Harold Dunnigan, Ralph Ward, Ben Peek and Ronny Spillars.

Joe Holder, Dubach, second; Peek, Fairbanks, shortstop; Hodge, Farmerville, leftfield; Till, Bernice, catcher; Dunnigan, first, Fairbanks; Hunt, Dubach, centerfield; Tubbs, third, Bernice; Nolan, rightfield, Farmerville, and Vernon Smith, Bernice, Ronny Spillars, Fairbanks, and Oliver Holder, Dubach, pitchers.

4-Run 8th Inning Saves 5-3 Victory For Braves

MILWAUKEE, June 20 (AP) — A brilliant pitching duel exploded in both ends of the eighth inning today as the Milwaukee Braves wiped out a three-run uprising by the New York Giants with a four-run blast of their own to win, 5-3, and maintain their National League lead of 2½ games.

Don Liddle, rookie Braves' southpaw, and veterans right - hander Jim Hearn had been locked in a tight tussle until the roof blew off in the eighth. The Braves held a 1-0 lead at the time on the strength of Bill Bruton's 385-foot triple and an outfield fly in the sixth.

The season's largest Saturday crowd—13,631 fans — watched the Braves even the series and hoisted the home draw for 20 dates to 491,480.

Burke Forges Ahead Of Haas In Inverness Tourney

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO, O., June 20. (AP)—A sharpshooting Jack Burke, 30-year-old transplanted Texan from Kiamesha Lake, N Y., birdied four straight holes on the back nine today to take a two-stroke lead at the 54-hole mark in the $18,000 Inverness Invitational Golf Tournament.

Burke was deadlocked at 132 with Freddie Haas of New Orleans as the field of 30 selected professionals started today in 98-degree heat. Haas took the lead by two strokes at the end of 45, and then Burke came roaring down the stretch in a three-under-par 33 despite missing par on the 17th.

With three-fourths of the 72-hole medal play test out of the way, Burke had a score of 201, a dozen under par. Haas skidded to a par 71 for a 203 total as he fell out of the led for the first time in the race for the $3,400 top prize.

Burke, suffering with influenza and 'filled with penicillin," said he hadn't eaten for two days but planned to have a big steak tonight.

"I almost didn't make it," Burke said. "On the sixth hole I almost fainted. Saw four balls when I started to putt. Finally got the ball down, and stood in the shade of a tree for a while. Then I was all right."

(He must have putted the right one of the four balls he saw, for he birdied the sixth.)

Haas, with an aching back, lost a stroke to par on the back nine with a 37, the first time he's been over the card.

Skip Alexander, who moved into contention yesterday with a seven-under-par 64, added a 69, to match Burke's effort today. That left Skip, still hampered by plane accident injuries incurred several seasons ago, in third place with 206, five off the pace.

Scores of the first three rounds:

Giambra Victory Over Portuguez Booed By Crowd

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Buffalo's middleweight hopeful Joey Giambra, got up off the deck to win a unanimous 10-round decision tonight over Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez of Costa Rica, but the result was roundly booed by a sweltering crowd of about 4,800. Giambra weighed 157½; Portuguez 160 ¾.

Giambra, who has never been knocked out and has lost only two decisions in 26 professional fights, was floored by a left hook in the eighth round. He finished the fight with his right eye completely closed and his nose dripping blood.

Referee Fred Stanton gave it to Giambra 5, 4 and 1 even. Judge Ed Shellerman scored it 6. 3, and 1. Judge Fred Hagenauer made it 6 to 4.

The Associated Press card was 5, 4 and 1 even for Giambra.

The Memorial Auditorium fight, sponsored by the Judson Boxing Club, was televised nationally (ABC).

Giambra's margin of victory was the ninth round, which was taken away from Portuguez for hitting on the break after five separate warnings in the one round. Portuguez also was warned for low blows in the third and fifth, and for butting in the sixth.

Giambra took an eight - count when he went down in the eighth.

Stranahan Left Off Walker Cup Squad By USGA

NEW YORK, June 20—UP—The United States Golfing Association Saturday named five veterans of the international competition and five newcomers to the 1953 Walker Cup team, but left off the squad, without explanation, Frank Stranahan, one of the nation's top amateurs.

Named to the team which will defend the cup against Great Brittain's best amateur golfers at the Kittansett Club, Marion, Mass., Sept. 4 and 5 were:

William C. Campbell, Huntington, W. Va.; Richard C. Chapman, Pinehurst, N. C.; Donald R. Cherry, New York City; Charles R. Coe, Oklahoma City; James G. Jackson, St. Louis; Gene A. Littler, San Diego and La Jolla, Calif.; Sam Urzetta, Rochester, N. Y.; Kenneth P Venturi, San Francisco; Harvie Ward Jr., Atlanta and Jack Westland, Everett, Wash.

Campbell, Chapman, Coe and Urzetta were members of the 1951 team which defeated Britain 6 to 3, with three matches halved, at Southport, Eng. Westland, the present U. S. amateur champion, was a Walker Cup player in 1936 and 1938.

Cherry, Jackson, Littler, Venturi and Ward will be competing in the matches for the first time.

Shoddy Tiger Fielding Gives Yankees 6-2 Win

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP) — The New York Yankees took advantage of shoddy Detroit fielding to score five unearned runs today enroute to a -26 victory in steaming mid-90-degree heat that wilted both starting pitchers.

Vic Raschi gave way to Allie Reynolds in the eighth while Al Aber, the Tigers' starter, tired in the heat after allowing only one hit in the first five innings.

Barr Will Enter Cycle Events At Shreveport Oval

Jimmy Barr, Monroe motorcycle enthusiast, will participate in motorcycle races scheduled for this afternoon at the state fair grounds in Shreveport. Barr, president of the Twin City Ramblers, local motorcycle club, is making his first year of racing.

Jerry Johnson will be Barr's pit man and Barney Barker his mechanic. Time trials at Shreveport begin at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon with races starting at 2:10.

Moore, Albritton Head Big Eight's Slugging Parade

RUSTON, La., June 20 (Special)—After two rounds of play in the Big Eight League, seven regulars are hitting over the .400 mark with Jess Moore and Henry Albritton, both of Farmerville, tied for first place in the race for the batting crown with averages of .471.

The Bastrop Barons claim the next two positions with Leon Langston hitting .462 for third place, and Lee Beaudreaux coming in fourth with a healthy .448.

Jerry Marchand, star L. S. U. football and baseball player, is batting .438, and Johnny Emmonds, who led the Gulf States Conference in hitting two years ago, has .406 for Bernice.

For several years the Big Eight has been known as a pitcher's league, but this year all the clubs, with the exception of Ruston, have three or four .300 hitters.

All the games this year are being played under lights with three games per week and a 35-game schedule finishing August 15 in time for the Shaughnessy playoffs to be over so that college and high school athletes can report for football practice.

Larry Fox, league president, has announced Ruston has ceased to play Sunday ball at home, and will complete the season with home dates on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Shoemaker Rides 6 Winners, Misses In Featured Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 20 (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker rang up six victories in eight starts at Hollywood Park today but it was rider Ralph Neves on Pet Bully who captured the featured $25,000 Inglewood Handicap.

Shoemaker's brilliant performance was the first time a jockey has won six races at Hollywood Park. He is the nation's leading rider this year, with 50 firsts at the current meeting and 203 first for the year.

Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Pet Bully out-dueled the front running Royal Serenade to win the Inglewood Handicap before 47,131 fans, and Calumet farm's Fleet Bird was third.

The time for the mile and one-sixteenth feature race was 1:42, two-fifths off the track record.

Pet Bully paid $10.70, $4.40 and $2.80, Royal Serenade paid $3.70, and $2.50, and Fleet Bird $2.60.

Shoemaker, who won the first three races, missed on the fourth and won the fifth and sixth, ran out of money on Mrs. Rea Warner's California horse, Trusting, in the Inglewood.

Pet Bully, an established threat to win the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap July 11, chalked up his third stakes triumph in four starts at the current meeting. He carried 123 pounds today and goes with 120 in the Cup race.

In the champion feature, the $15,000 Freeman Handicap Shoemaker ushered in Strangleholde by a length and a quarter, handing Calumet's classy A Gleam her third straight loss at Hollywood. The Betty Grable-Harry James campaigner, Big Noise, was third.

Strangleholde, clocked at 1:09 4-5 for six furlongs, brought $11.50 for a $2 win ticket.

Teske twirled a one-hitter but set up People's runs with walks and errors. Sticker got the only hit for the losers. D. Teske, Hinton catcher, hit four for four. Spinks, Wooley and Pittard pitched for the losers with Steele catching.

Moore Favored To Keep Crown In Maxim Bout

The two meet Wednesday in a 15-round championship battle in the Ogden Stadium.

Aside from a continuing argument as to who will referee, the chief prefight publicity has concerned the weight of Joey Maxim.

It's nobody's business, he said, what his boy weighed that long before the fight.

The continuing haggle over selection of a referee and judges was cleared up somewhat when Jack Dempsey withdrew as a possibility. Charley Johnston, Moore's manager, had objected to Dempsey because Kearns formerly managed the ex-heavy champ.

Co-Promoters Al Warden and Kenny Mayne, tiring of trying to get Johnston and Kearns to agree on the officials promised to select them themselves no later than tomorrow.

Chatham Outfit Downs Danville To Tune Of 9-4

CHATHAM, La., June 20. (Special) The Chatham baseball club of the Eastern Division of the Jackson-Bienville League, defeated Danville, Western Division leaders, 9 to 4, here this afternoon in an exhibition game. It was the first time in four exhibitions that Chatham, leader of the Eastern Division, has been able to beat the Deacons who have won two and tied one in the series.

Chatham will entertain Arcadia in a league double header here Sunday, beginning at 2 o'clock. Moore and Jordan are due to pitch for the host club.

All-Star Buddy Contest Honors Drowned Player

RUSTON, La., June 20. (Special)—North-South all-star players for the annual Buddy League All-Star game, which will be played June 26 in Ruston were selected by team managers at a meeting held in Ruston Thursday evening.

With seven teams playing in the league this summer, Arcadia, Jonesboro-Hodge and Ruston will comprise the "South" team and Bernice, Dubach, Fairbanks and Farmerville will make up the "North" team for the classic.

The game will be played at Fraser Field in Ruston next Friday night under the lights and tickets now are on sale with the managers of the various teams.

Proceeds of the game will go to help pay league expenses but the game, itself, will be dedicated to Thomas Middleton, Bernice center fielder, who was drowned in a swimming accident in Ruston's Municipal Natatorium Wednesday afternoon.

Middleton, who was a member of the all-star team last year for the "East" division, had been nominated for the center field position on the "North" squad this year before the tragic accident.

The team managers selected the following players on the two all-star quads:

South

Ruston—Doyle Sherrill, Gerald Cobb, Don Cole, Ragan Edmiston, Bobby Harrison, Pat Garrett, James Upchurch, Jerry Dyson and Jimmy Alexander.

Arcadia—Jim Adkins, Langford Caskey, Terry Sandlin, Ronnie Bears, Buddy McCullen and Billy Boatner.

North

Fairbanks—Jimmy Hodge, Harold Dunnigan, Ralph Ward, Ben Peek and Ronny Spillars.

Bernice—Hoye Grafton, Lynn Skinner, Bobby Till, Vernon Smith and Wayne Tubbs.

4-Run 8th Inning Saves 5-3 Victory For Braves

MILWAUKEE, June 20 (AP) — A brilliant pitching duel exploded in both ends of the eighth inning today as the Milwaukee Braves wiped out a three-run uprising by the New York Giants with a four-run blast of their own to win, 5-3, and maintain their National League lead of 2½ games.

Don Liddle, rookie Braves' southpaw, and veterans right - hander Jim Hearn had been locked in a tight tussle until the roof blew off in the eighth. The Braves held a 1-0 lead at the time on the strength of Bill Bruton's 385-foot triple and an outfield fly in the sixth.

The season's largest Saturday crowd—13,631 fans — watched the Braves even the series and hoisted the home draw for 20 dates to 491,480.

Jones Calls Stroke As Navy Shell Wins Regatta

Monroe Coxswain Gigs Midshipmen To 20th Victory

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 20. (UP)—Navy's might Olympic gold medalists unleashed a burst of power in the final yards today to retain their Intercollegiate Rowing Regatta championship and to stretch to 20 their two-year streak of unbroken victories.

The eight young Midshipmen who have sprayed water in the faces of the world's greatest crews showed their class again as they shot under the wire a length and a quarter ahead of surprising Cornell.

Powerful University of Washington, shooting for a clean sweep of the day's storm-interrupted program after winning the freshman and junior varsity events, faded badly in the last quarter of a mile after making a strong fight of it for two and three-quarters miles.

Navy's winning time for the straightaway three-mile course was 15 minutes, 29.6 seconds—21.5 slower than their victorious race a year ago when the shell was helped by a strong following wind.

Washington was clocked in 15:36.2, followed by Wisconsin in 15:41.8.

The day started in sweltering 100 - degree temperatures which caused one freshman crewman to collapse in the midst of the race. Then came a storm just before the junior varsity race which brought rain and gusts of 45 miles an hour, and sent a crowd of 18,000 scurrying for cover.

The final event was staged under ideal conditions—with the sky cloudy and the water fairly tame.

With 127-pound Bob Jones of Monroe, La., calling the beat and Edward Stevens of Detroit rowing stroke, the Navy midshipmen broke into the lead at the start and then followed a whale of a race.

Rowing a steady 31 beat, Navy took the lead at the milemark with a quarter boat length over Washington with California, Cornell and Wisconsin following in a close-buched order.

At a mile and a half—halfway point in the gruelling test—Washington forged to the front for a brief moment, taking a half length lead over Navy, with Cornell continuing a strong challenge.

As the knife-like shells shot down the stretch in front of the open grandstand, Washington, upping its beat to 36½, made its challenge and it looked for a while that this would be good enough to complete a triple triumph for the boys from the northwest.

Navy did and with a powerful push behind a fast 38 beat, met the dare head-on, shooting ahead and opening up water between the pursuers.

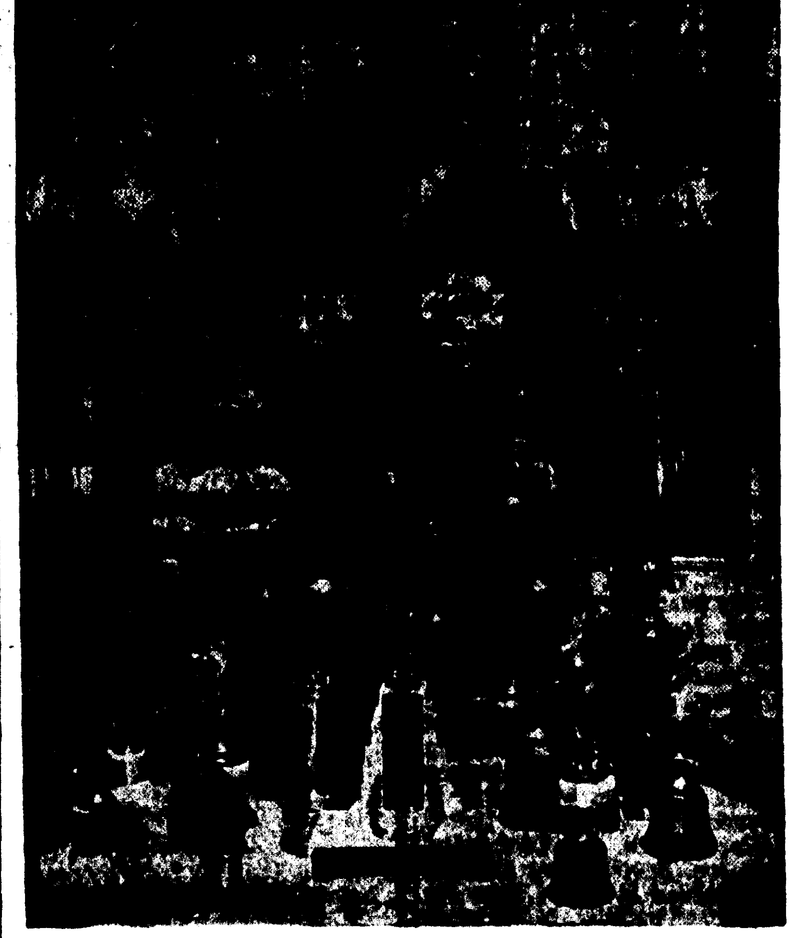
Casting King Visits Here



JUST A FEW of the many trophies won by Bryant Black in national tournament casting are displayed here by the fishing master who will be a featured entertainer on a program sponsored by the Ouachita Wildlife unit tomorrow night at Neville High School auditorium.

Fishermen of this area will be treated to a rare experience here tomorrow night when they will be offered the opportunity, without charge, of seeing in person Bryant Black, king of tournament bait casters, in a demonstration and show at Neville High School auditorium.

Black, who has swept to national all-around honors in fishermen's and distance events for casting and fly fishing, is being brought to Monroe by the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation for this show.

"We expect it to prove one of the year's best attractions for sports fishermen of our area," declared Floyd Martin, unit president. "Black is undoubtedly one of the finest bait and fly casters of our time and his tricks with rod and reel as well as abundance of fishing lore should be just what we have been wanting to see. There is no admission charge and we hope to turn out a big crowd for Black's visit."

In addition to Black's personal show of various casting methods, both practical and trick, the visiting fishing master will also present a 30-minute full color motion picture entitled "Chugger Fishing."

The film will picture a rare and memorable scene where two bass are clearly seen hitting the same plug—and being landed.

Conrad, Vickers Reach Trans-Miss Title Play

January staged a terrific comeback on the incoming nine after being 4-down to Conrad's sub-par golf at the turn.

With the count three against him, January banged in birdies on the 16th and 17th holes to make it one down and one to go. Both Texans, who were roommates and members of the North Texas State NCAA championship team last year, fired pars under pressure on the 18th to leave Conrad with the match.

Vickers and Littler fought their match hole to hole. They were all square at the first nine. Vickers went one down after the 15th hole, but won the next to tie it up again. Then Littler faltered on the 17th. He went into a trap on his third shot and required four more strokes. Vickers had a five to go 1-up.

They parred the last hole, giving the decision to Vickers.

January played brilliantly in the morning quarter-finals to eliminate defending champion Charles Coe in an extra hole match. January took the overtime hole with a birdie while Coe lost a stroke in a trap.

Conrad and Vickers will play two 18-hole rounds Saturday to determine the title winner.

In quarterfinal play, Conrad won 2 and 1 over John Johnson of Oklahoma City; Littler trimmed Glen Fowler, Oklahoma City, 6 and 5; and Vickers downed Bill Webb of Kansas City, 4 and 3.

Coe's Elimination Businesslike

January, playing out of Dallas, stayed under par in his businesslike elimination of the highly-favored Coe. The latter was seeking his fourth Trans-Miss title.

At the turn, January was 2-up. But Coe recovered and at the end of 16 holes the match was even. The 17th and 18th were halved.

It was on the 19th hole that the pressure caught up with the former National Amateur champion. Coe's tee shot found the woods and his second hit a trap. He was 12 feet away with his third. January was solid off the tee and six feet from the pin with his second shot on the 396-yard hole. Coe's long putt failed and he picked up, conceding January a birdie and the match.

January and Conrad played on the North Texas team that won the NCAA team title the last two years. January is not eligible to compete in the NCAA tournament at Colorado Springs next month, but Conrad will play there.

Cucchi arini To Leave Fort Worth's Team

FORT WORTH, June 20 —UP—Ray Cucchiarini, one of five outfielders of the Texas League Fort Worth club, has been optioned to Pueblo of the Western League, it was announced Saturday.

Cucchiarini, who joined the Brooklyn farm club from Brooke Army Medical center at San Antonio after two years on a service team, will leave Sunday. The option includes a 24-hour recall.

Long Shot Flaunt Wins Queens 'Cap At $55.80 Payoff

NEW YORK, June 20 (UP)—Flaunt, a 25 to 1 shot owned by a Long Island sail-maker, sailed down the long Aqueduct stretch today with skipper Sidney Cole in the saddle to capture the 48th running of the $29,350 Queens County Handicap.

Second longest priced horse in the field of 10, overlooked by a crowd of 27,528 attending in 92 degree weather, Flaunt returned barged to the front in the final sixteenth of a mile to win by a half length over Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Indian Land.

Mrs. Alfred Roberts' Eatontown led all the way to beat six rivals in the co-featured Kingston Purse, covering the seven furlongs in 1:11 flat—just three fifths of a second off the track record.

The Harborvale stables Dark Peter, even money favorite, closed fast to get second, half a length behind, while Alfred Vanderbilt's First Glance also finished with a rush to take third place, with F. Ambrose Clark's Tea - maker fourth.

Eatontown paid $15.10, $5.60 and $3.50.

Sports' Slugger Most Feared Man In Texas League

BY UNITED PRESS

Continuing to set a torrid pace in the Texas League parade, Joe Frazier, Oklahoma City outfielder, has raised his batting average to .381 through games of June 15. The Indian slugger has banged out 83 hits in 218 trips to the plate and also leads the circuit in doubles with 28.

The most feared player in the league is Harry Heslet, Shreveport slugger, who has clouted 21 home runs and boasts a runs batted in total of 56.

Danny Ozark, Fort Worth outfielder, is rated second in the batting lineup with a nifty .344 average. He has collected 66 hits while going to the plate 192 times. Close on the heels of Ozark is Earle Brucker of Beaumont, who has a .338 percentage.

Bob Balcena, San Antonio fleetfooter, has crossed the plate more than any other player in the loop. He has scored 56 times. A tie has developed in the stolen bases department. Galeard Wade of Fort Worth and Charile Harom of Tulsa are knotted with 9 each.

Although he does not have the highest percentage, Wayne McLeland of Dallas is rated tops in the pitching bureau. The Eagles' ace hurler has twirled 103 innings and has won 10 while losing only 1.

Rinold Duren, San Antonio fireball artist, is pacing the league with 71 strike outs, but Floyd Wooldridge, Houston ace, is close behind with 70.

By FRANK PITMAN

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 20 (UP)—Rolling, deceptive greens of the Broadmoor course and competitors from 43 other colleges challenge North Texas State's bid for a fifth straight championship in the 56th NCAA Golf Tournament opening here tomorrow.

Winners of every major conference golf title and the top independent colleges across the nation are entered in the event sponsored by Colorado College and the Broadmoor Hotel.

The Denton, Tex., "Hogans" are heavy favorites to repeat for the team title. Stanford, Pennsylvania State and Oklahoma A. & M. are tabbed strong contenders. Penn State is the only undefeated entry. The Oklahoma Aggies whipped North Texas State for the Southwest Recreation Tournament title earlier this year in Fort Worth. Stanford has been NCAA champion four out of the past 15 years. The Pacific coast Indians have an 11-1 record in dual matches this season.

Play opens Sunday afternoon with an 18-hole east - west team match of players chosen by the NCAA executive committee. Qualifying play for more than 210 individuals is booked Monday and Tuesday. The low 64 qualifiers begin 18-hole match play Wednesday with the individual championship decided over the 36-hole route Saturday. Those who fail to qualify will compete in 36 holes of consolation play at the Patty Jewett course.

The 1952 runner-up for the individual title, Eddie Merrins of Louisiana State, has been made the favorite for this year's championship. Others rated highly are Don Albert, Big Ten champion and mainspring of Purdue's team, and Rod Eaken of Penn State. Albert was third in the NCAA meet last year and reached the quarterfinals of the National Amatuer Tournament in 1952.

The team championship will be decided in 36 holes of medal play by foursomes of each school. Among the other leading team title contenders are Ohio State, University of North Carolina, Notre Dame, University of Texas, University of Georgia, Denver University, Iowa and Iowa State University.

Martin Slips, But Holds Lead; Coss Up 78 Points

By J. P. FRIEND

The Bather star was held to eight safeties in 29 times at bat, for a 15-point decline to .392, but three sailed for the maximum distance to give him 21 homers in 50 games, just 19 away from the record set by Ralph Winegarner for El Dorado back in 1930. He has 76 games left to accomplish the feat.

In 199 times at bat Martin has collected 78 hits, scored 60 runs, accumulated 163 total bases, all high, in addition to his four masters, and runs batted in, 51.

Banks McDowell, Jackson outfielder, is sporting a .400 mace mark but the Senator veteran has been to bat only 95 times in 28 games, hardly worthy of leadership. He got into only two contests last week, getting one hit in four chances that dropped him seven points.

Hugh Glaze, Meridian second baseman, extended his upward surge 10 points with a weekly 30-12 to earn the runner - up spot among the regulars who have appeared in as many as two thirds of their team games. His .343 figure represents 201-69.

Louie Schaufele, Jackson outfielder, back on the job regularly after a brief limited service, ranks third with .341, a fall of 10 He collected four doubles and regained the lead in that specialized department with 18. Just a point behind is Jack Landis, Pine Bluff, who dramatically exploded a grand slam home run in the last of the ninth against El Dorado, June 15. It was his ninth homer. Ray Rogers, Monroe, is pressing at .336, followed by Pel Austin, El Dorado, .335; Ray Posipanka, Greenville, who picked up 36 points with a tremendous 26-15 to .332; Manager Charley Harrington, Monroe, who exploded 32-13 for an 18-point gain to .325; Anse Moore, Jackson, .324, a boost of seven; and Vernon (Moose) Shetler, Hot Springs pilot, .321.

Other regulars within the .300 circle include: Frank Lucchesi, Pine Bluff, .319, up 13; Gene Pompelia, Meridian, .318, a rise of 17; Dolf Regelsky, Meridian, .315; Roy Coss, Monroe, .315, from last weeks mediocre .237; Tybraziel, Greenville, .313; Reed Stephens, Monroe, .312; Duke Doolittle, Jackson manager, .309, an 11-point rise; Bill Lewis, Meridian, .306, from .269; also a grand slam hitter (June 13); Don Allen, Natchez, .304; Mike Garone, Greenville, .304 from .270; Dick Monkman, Jackson, .304; Ken Robinett, Pine Bluff, .303; Nels Daehn, Monroe, .303, whose six triples are high; Ed Cholakian, Pine Bluff, .300, up six; and Ziggy Sklodowski, Greenville, .300.

Pompelia has taken over the base stealing lead with 15, two more than Lucchesi.

John Paul Jones, Jackson star, retained his percentage lead among the pitchers by winning his eighth game via the shutout route over Natchez, June 13. He has lost only one; boasts a .889 percentage. Bobby Harrison, Meridian ace has racked up 11 wins against two defeats for .846. (He won No. 12 Tuesday night which did not arrive in time to make the official records). He has started and finished 14 games; has worked the most innings, 114 1-3; fanned 97, as against only 23 bases on balls. Two have recorded nine wins, Tom Pollet, Greenville, 9-2; and Hugh Blanton, Monroe, 9-5. Frank Callahan, Pine Bluff, has 7-4; Marv Hatcher, Monroe, 7-5. Bob Pickens, Pine Bluff, has won five of his first six decisions; Ray Alford four of five for Meridian. Beverly (Chuck) Gross has won his three starts, one a shuthout, since joining Meridian.

Others with exceptional records include: Herninio Cortes, Greenville, 3-1; Clyde Baldwin, El Dorado, 5-2; Jimmy Dupuy, Meridian, 6-3; Roger Hanners, Natchez, and Gene Summerlin, Monroe, 4-2.

Jackson is sporting a lusty team batting mark of .286, 11 points higher than Greenville, which displayed tremendous power during the week to climb up among the leaders. Meridian is in a fielding class by herself at .968. El Dorado has an impressive .952.

Louise Suggs Has Easy Day Beating Berg In Western

ATLANTA, June 20—UP—Louise Suggs shot men's par golf Saturday to defeat Patty Berg, 6 and 5, and win her fourth Women's Western Open golf championship.

Holding a one-up lead as the afternoon round began, the little Atlanta pro began to place near-perfect shots that the chunky Miss Berg could not match. Miss Berg had trouble with her approach shots and her putts and missed by inches several putts that would have won or halved holes.

Playing over her familiar home capital city club course, Miss Suggs racked up a five-up lead at the end of 27 holes of the 36-hole final.

She took a six-up lead on the 28th with a birdie four and halved the 29th with a par three. She lost the 20th when Miss Berg chipped to within one foot of the hole for a birdie four.

Miss Suggs sank an eight-foot putt on the 31st hole for a birdie three that closed out the match.

Jones Calls Stroke As Navy Shell Wins Regatta

Monroe Coxswain Gigs Midshipmen To 20th Victory

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 20. (AP)—Navy's might Olympic gold medalists unleashed a burst of power in the final yards today to retain their Intercollegiate Rowing Regatta championship and to stretch to 20 their two-year streak of unbroken victories.

The eight young Midshipmen who have sprayed water in the faces of the world's greatest crews showed their class again as they shot under the wire a length and a quarter ahead of surprising Cornell.

Powerful University of Washington, shooting for a clean sweep of the day's storm-interrupted program after winning the freshman and junior varsity events, faded badly in the last quarter of a mile after making a strong fight of it for two and three-quarters miles.

Navy's winning time for the straightaway three-mile course was 15 minutes, 29.6 seconds—21.5 slower than their victorious race a year ago when the shell was helped by a strong following wind.

Washington was clocked in 15:36.2, followed by Wisconsin in 15:41.8.

The day started in sweltering 100 - degree temperatures which caused one freshman crewman to collapse in the midst of the race. Then came a storm just before the junior varsity race which brought rain and gusts of 45 miles an hour, and sent a crowd of 18,000 scurrying for cover.

The final event was staged under ideal conditions—with the sky cloudy and the water fairly tame.

With 127-pound Bob Jones of Monroe, La., calling the beat and Edward Stevens of Detroit rowing stroke, the Navy midshipmen broke into the lead at the start and then followed a whale of a race.

Rowing a steady 31 beat, Navy took the lead at the milemark with a quarter boat length over Washington with California, Cornell and Wisconsin following in a close-buched order.

At a mile and a half—halfway point in the gruelling test—Washington forged to the front for a brief moment, taking a half length lead over Navy, with Cornell continuing a strong challenge.

As the knife-like shells shot down the stretch in front of the open grandstand, Washington, upping its beat to 36½, made its challenge and it looked for a while that this would be good enough to complete a triple triumph for the boys from the northwest.

Navy did and with a powerful push behind a fast 38 beat, met the dare head-on, shooting ahead and opening up water between the pursuers.

Negro All-Star Tilt At Chicago August 16

CHICAGO, June 29. (AP)—The 21st annual East-West, All-Star game of the Negro American League will be played Sunday, Aug. 16, at Comiskey Park.

Dr. J. B. Martin, League president said the managers of the all-star teams will be named next month.

Such current Major League stars as Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Larry Doby and Satchel Paige played in the Negro classic in which the West Leads 12 victories to light.

Casting King Visits Here

JUST A FEW of the many trophies won by Bryant Black in national tournament casting are displayed here by the fishing master who will be a featured entertainer on a program sponsored by the Ouachita Wildlife unit tomorrow night at Neville High School auditorium.

Fishermen of this area will be treated to a rare experience here tomorrow night when they will be offered the opportunity, without charge, of seeing in person Bryant Black, king of tournament bait casters, in a demonstration and show at Neville High School auditorium.

Black, who has swept to national all-around honors in fishermen's and distance events for casting and fly fishing, is being brought to Monroe by the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation for this show.

"We expect it to prove one of the year's best attractions for sports fishermen of our area," declared Floyd Martin, unit president. "Black is undoubtedly one of the finest bait and fly casters of our time and his tricks with rod and reel as well as abundance of fishing lore should be just what we have been wanting to see. There is no admission charge and we hope to turn out a big crowd for Black's visit."

In addition to Black's personal show of various casting methods, both practical and trick, the visiting fishing master will also present a 30-minute full color motion picture entitled "Chugger Fishing."

The film will picture a rare and memorable scene where two bass are clearly seen hitting the same plug—and being landed.

Conrad, Vickers Reach Trans-Miss Title Play

January staged a terrific comeback on the incoming nine after being 4-down to Conrad's sub-par golf at the turn.

With the count three against him, January banged in birdies on the 16th and 17th holes to make it one down and one to go. Both Texans, who were roommates and members of the North Texas State NCAA championship team last year, fired pars under pressure on the 18th to leave Conrad with the match.

Vickers and Littler fought their match hole to hole. They were all square at the first nine. Vickers went one down after the 15th hole, but won the next to tie it up again. Then Littler faltered on the 17th. He went into a trap on his third shot and required four more strokes. Vickers had a five to go 1-up.

They parred the last hole, giving the decision to Vickers.

January played brilliantly in the morning quarter-finals to eliminate defending champion Charles Coe in an extra hole match. January took the overtime hole with a birdie while Coe lost a stroke in a trap.

Conrad and Vickers will play two 18-hole rounds Saturday to determine the title winner.

In quarterfinal play, Conrad won 2 and 1 over John Johnson of Oklahoma City; Littler trimmed Glen Fowler, Oklahoma City, 6 and 5; and Vickers downed Bill Webb of Kansas City, 4 and 3.

Coe's Elimination Businesslike

January, playing out of Dallas, stayed under par in his businesslike elimination of the highly-favored Coe. The latter was seeking his fourth Trans-Miss title.

At the turn, January was 2-up. But Coe recovered and at the end of 16 holes the match was even. The 17th and 18th were halved.

It was on the 19th hole that the pressure caught up with the former National Amateur champion. Coe's tee shot found the woods and his second hit a trap. He was 12 feet away with his third. January was solid off the tee and six feet from the pin with his second shot on the 396-yard hole. Coe's long putt failed and he picked up, conceding January a birdie and the match.

January and Conrad played on the North Texas team that won the NCAA team title the last two years. January is not eligible to compete in the NCAA tournament at Colorado Springs next month, but Conrad will play there.

Cuccharini To Leave Fort Worth's Team

FORT WORTH, June 20 —UP—Ray Cuccharini, one of five outfielders of the Texas League Fort Worth club, has been optioned to Pueblo of the Western League, it was announced Saturday.

Cuccharini, who joined the Brooklyn farm club from Brooke Army Medical center at San Antonio after two years on a service team, will leave Sunday. The option includes a 24-hour recall.

Long Shot Flaunt Wins Queens 'Cap At $55.80 Payoff

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Flaunt, a 25 to 1 shot owned by a Long Island sail-maker, sailed down the long Aqueduct stretch today with skipper Sidney Cole in the saddle to capture the 48th running of the $29,350 Queens County Handicap.

Second longest priced horse in the field of 10, overlooked by a crowd of 27,528 attending in 92 degree weather, Flaunt returned barged to the front in the final sixteenth of a mile to win by a half length over Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Indian Land.

Mrs. Alfred Roberts' Eatontown led all the way to beat six rivals in the co-featured Kingston Purse, covering the seven furlongs in 1:11 flat—just three fifths of a second off the track record.

The Harborvale stables Dark Peter, even money favorite, closed fast to get second, half a length behind, while Alfred Vanderbilt's First Glance also finished with a rush to take third place, with F. Ambrose Clark's Tea - maker fourth.

Eatontown paid $15.10, $5.60 and $3.50.

Black Sox To Meet Tallulah Club Here

CLEVELAND, June 20 (AP)—Luke Easter, the Cleveland Indians' big first baseman, will return to the Tribe's active list tomorrow at Washington, the team announced today. He broke his foot on April 18 in a game against the Chicago White Sox.

Sports' Slugger Most Feared Man In Texas League

BY UNITED PRESS

Continuing to set a torrid pace in the Texas League parade, Joe Frazier, Oklahoma City outfielder, has raised his batting average to .381 through games of June 15. The Indian slugger has banged out 83 hits in 218 trips to the plate and also leads the circuit in doubles with 28.

The most feared player in the league is Harry Heslet, Shreveport slugger, who has clouted 21 home runs and boasts a runs batted in total of 56.

Danny Ozark, Fort Worth outfielder, is rated second in the batting lineup with a nifty .344 average. He has collected 66 hits while going to the plate 192 times. Close on the heels of Ozark is Earle Brucker of Beaumont, who has a .338 percentage.

Bob Balcena, San Antonio fleetfooter, has crossed the plate more than any other player in the loop. He has scored 56 times. A tie has developed in the stolen bases department. Galeard Wade of Fort Worth and Charile Harom of Tulsa are knotted with 9 each.

Although he does not have the highest percentage, Wayne McLeland of Dallas is rated tops in the pitching bureau. The Eagles' ace hurler has twirled 103 innings and has won 10 while losing only 1.

Rinold Duren, San Antonio fireball artist, is pacing the league with 71 strike outs, but Floyd Wooldridge, Houston ace, is close behind with 70.

Al McNealance of Tulsa, workhorse of the Oiler staff, had a 2 win 0 loss record.

By FRANK PITMAN

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 20 (AP)—Rolling, deceptive greens of the Broadmoor course and competitors from 43 other colleges challenge North Texas State's bid for a fifth straight championship in the 56th NCAA Golf Tournament opening here tomorrow.

Winners of every major conference golf title and the top independent colleges across the nation are entered in the event sponsored by Colorado College and the Broadmoor Hotel.

The Denton, Tex., "Hogans" are heavy favorites to repeat for the team title. Stanford, Pennsylvania State and Oklahoma A. & M. are tabbed strong contenders. Penn State is the only undefeated entry. The Oklahoma Aggies whipped North Texas State for the Southwest Recreation Tournament title earlier this year in Fort Worth. Stanford has been NCAA champion four out of the past 15 years. The Pacific coast Indians have an 11-1 record in dual matches this season.

Play opens Sunday afternoon with an 18-hole east - west team match of players chosen by the NCAA executive committee. Qualifying play for more than 210 individuals is booked Monday and Tuesday. The low 64 qualifiers begin 18-hole match play Wednesday with the individual championship decided over the 36-hole route Saturday. Those who fail to qualify will compete in 36 holes of consolation play at the Patty Jewett course.

The 1952 runner-up for the individual title, Eddie Merrins of Louisiana State, has been made the favorite for this year's championship. Others rated highly are Don Albert, Big Ten champion and mainspring of Purdue's team, and Rod Eaken of Penn State. Albert was third in the NCAA meet last year and reached the quarterfinals of the National Amatuer Tournament in 1952.

The team championship will be decided in 36 holes of medal play by foursomes of each school. Among the other leading team title contenders are Ohio State, University of North Carolina, Notre Dame, University of Texas, University of Georgia, Denver University, Iowa and Iowa State University.

Martin Slips, But Holds Lead; Coss Up 78 Points

By J. P. FRIEND

The Bather star was held to eight safeties in 29 times at bat, for a 15-point decline to .392, but three sailed for the maximum distance to give him 21 homers in 50 games, just 19 away from the record set by Ralph Winegarner for El Dorado back in 1930. He has 76 games left to accomplish the feat.

In 199 times at bat Martin has collected 78 hits, scored 60 runs, accumulated 163 total bases, all high, in addition to his four masters, and runs batted in, 51.

Banks McDowell, Jackson outfielder, is sporting a .400 mace mark but the Senator veteran has been to bat only 95 times in 28 games, hardly worthy of leadership. He got into only two contests last week, getting one hit in four chances that dropped him seven points.

Hugh Glaze, Meridian second baseman, extended his upward surge 10 points with a weekly 30-12 to earn the runner - up spot among the regulars who have appeared in as many as two thirds of their team games. His .343 figure represents 201-69.

Louie Schaufele, Jackson outfielder, back on the job regularly after a brief limited service, ranks third with .341, a fall of 10 He collected four doubles and regained the lead in that specialized department with 18. Just a point behind is Jack Landis, Pine Bluff, who dramatically exploded a grand slam home run in the last of the ninth against El Dorado, June 15. It was his ninth homer. Ray Rogers, Monroe, is pressing at .336, followed by Pel Austin, El Dorado, .335; Ray Posipanka, Greenville, who picked up 36 points with a tremendous 26-15 to .332; Manager Charley Harrington, Monroe, who exploded 32-13 for an 18-point gain to .325; Anse Moore, Jackson, .324, a boost of seven; and Vernon (Moose) Shetler, Hot Springs pilot, .321.

Other regulars within the .300 circle include: Frank Lucchesi, Pine Bluff, .319, up 13; Gene Pompelia, Meridian, .318, a rise of 17; Dolf Regelsky, Meridian, .315; Roy Coss, Monroe, .315, from last weeks mediocre .237; Tybraziel, Greenville, .313; Reed Stephens, Monroe, .312; Duke Doolittle, Jackson manager, .309, an 11-point rise; Bill Lewis, Meridian, .306, from .269; also a grand slam hitter (June 13); Don Allen, Natchez, .304; Mike Garone, Greenville, .304 from .270; Dick Monkman, Jackson, .304; Ken Robinett, Pine Bluff, .303; Nels Daehn, Monroe, .303, whose six triples are high; Ed Cholakian, Pine Bluff, .300, up six; and Ziggy Skolodowski, Greenville, .300.

Pompelia has taken over the base stealing lead with 15, two more than Lucchesi.

John Paul Jones, Jackson star, retained his percentage lead among the pitchers by winning his eighth game via the shutout route over Natchez, June 13. He has lost only one; boasts a .889 percentage. Bobby Harrison, Meridian ace has racked up 11 wins against two defeats for .846. (He won No. 12 Tuesday night which did not arrive in time to make the official records). He has started and finished 14 games; has worked the most innings, 114 1-3; fanned 97, as against only 23 bases on balls. Two have recorded nine wins, Tom Pollet, Greenville, 9-2; and Hugh Blanton, Monroe, 9-5. Frank Callahn, Pine Bluff, has 7-4; Marv Hatcher, Monroe, 7-5. Bob Pickens, Pine Bluff, has won five of his first six decisions; Ray Alford four of five for Meridian. Beverly (Chuck) Gross has won his three starts, one a shutout, since joining Meridian.

Others with exceptional records include: Herninio Cortes, Greenville, 3-1; Clyde Baldwin, El Dorado, 5-2; Jimmy Dupuy, Meridian, 6-3; Roger Hanners, Natchez, and Gene Summerlin, Monroe, 4-2.

Jackson is sporting a lusty team batting mark of .286, 11 points higher than Greenville, which displayed tremendous power during the week to climb up among the leaders. Meridian is in a fielding class by herself at .968. El Dorado has an impressive .952.

Louise Suggs Has Easy Day Beating Berg In Western

ATLANTA, June 20—UP—Louise Suggs shot men's par golf Saturday to defeat Patty Berg, 6 and 5, and win her fourth Women's Western Open golf championship.

Holding a one-up lead as the afternoon round began, the little Atlanta pro began to place near-perfect shots that the chunky Miss Berg could not match. Miss Berg had trouble with her approach shots and her putts and missed by inches several putts that would have won or halved holes.

Playing over her familiar home capital city club course. Miss Suggs racked up a five-up lead at the end of 27 holes of the 36-hole final.

She took a six-up lead on the 28th with a birdie four and halved the 29th with a par three. She lost the 20th when Miss Berg chipped to within one foot of the hole for a birdie four.

Miss Suggs sank an eight-foot putt on the 31st hole for a birdie three that closed out the match.

Dr. Wellington Koo To Be Honored Guest Friday

Dr. Wellington Koo, Nationalist Chinese ambassador to the United States, will be an honored guest here Friday to celebrate "Chiang Kai-Shek" day, sponsored by the Monroe Toastmasters Club.

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, Chinese delegate to the United Nations, will also be present for the occasion. Both he and Dr. Koo will give major speeches on situations in the far east.

Dr. Koo is an outstanding diplomat having represented China in leading posts throughout the world.

A short resume of his many posts and accomplishments show that he attended the Paris Peace conference as head of the Chinese delegation in 1919, delegate and representative for China on the council of the League of Nations at Geneva, minister to Great Britain in 1921, Chinese minister of foreign affairs, finance minister and prime minister, ambassador to France, special envoy for accession of King Albert of Belgium and Pope Pius XII from China, chief Chinese delegate to the Dumbarton Oaks Conversations, acting chairman of the Chinese delegation to San Francisco conference, and representative at the first session of the United Nations general assembly in London and New York and many other important positions.

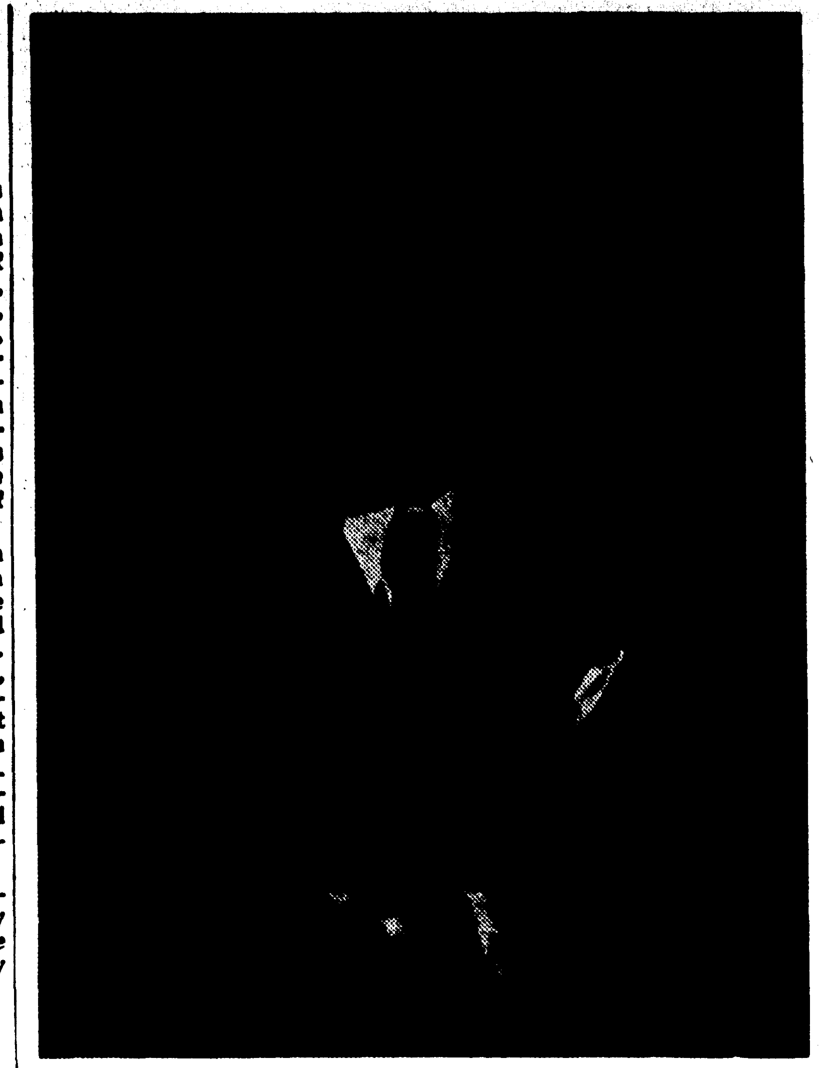
He was assigned in 1946 as Nationalist China's ambassador to the United States and is one of the most respected diplomats not only in Washington but throughout the world.

The Monroe Toastmasters Club has planned the celebration to pay honor to the great Democratic leader, Chiang Kai-Shek, who is one of the great Christian characters of the present time.

The local club in addressing a letter to the Generalissimo informed the Nationalist president as follows: "Feeling as we do, in close spirit and relationship, as comrades in arms in defense of democracy throughout the world, we have set aside a day, June 26, during which we will honor you, and pay tribute to your great accomplishments in the past, in behalf of world democracy, and wish you impending success in the venture you face when the hour strikes for you to regain and restore the mainland of China to the fold of Democratic nations."

A complete program has been outlined for Friday consisting of a military air review in honor of the Chinese visitors, Drs. Koo and Tsiang, and General Claire L. Chennault, a Chinese style show, produced and directed by Mrs. Anna L. Chennault and a banquet at 8 p.m. at the Frances hotel in honor of the Chinese officials. Dr. Koo will address the local citizenship following the air review and Dr. Tsiang will deliver the principal speech at the banquet.

Tickets are on sale at Walgreen's Drug Store and in the lobby of the Virginia Hotel for the style show which will be held Friday afternoon.



AMBASSADOR OF NATIONAL CHINA—Dr. Wellington Koo, above, renowned world statesman and Nationlist China's ambassador to the United States, will be an honored guest at the "Chiang Kai-Shek" day to be held in Monroe Friday.

Teen Age Drivers Will Meet Monday

Moscow Faces Insecurity At Top

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Moscow may have maneuvered itself into a political squeeze. The rebellion in East Germany and restless stirrings elsewhere in East Europe appear to be symptoms of the internal Soviet ailment —insecurity at the top.

The Soviet Union's economic strength—that is, its swift pace in the strategic heavy industries as opposed to civilian consumer industries—seems offset by increasing political weakness stemming from the unresolved struggle for Stalin's power. Indeed, the shift from total dictatorship to committee dictatorship may have created an impossible situation that can be resolved eventually only by force.

Latest editions of the Soviet press to reach this country show a marked stepup in the drive for internal unity and party obedience. There is a pronounced emphasis on the theme: "nobody will be permitted to violate or weaken the unity and friendship of peoples of the Soviet land."

The uneasy transition from one-man rule to government by committee seems to have caused divisions and nervousness among parties in the captive nations. This nervousness is reflected in the reports of unrest among populations who quickly sense the atmosphere of indecision in the ruling group. Many Communist leaders still do not know which horse to back in the Kremlin sweepstakes.

The great Soviet peace offensive launched after Stalin died was an elaboration and extension of a peace offensive already in operati.n for full yer. The new Kremlin rulers apparently depended on it to relieve tensions sufficiently to permit them to entrench themselves and to break up the solid front of the West. But now the peace offensive seems to be getting in the Kremlin's way.

The USSR plumped for a truce in Korea—supposedly because its leaders confidently assumed that a general economic crisis of world capitalism could not be far away. If Soviet leaders assumed that militarization was the main prop of capitalism, it would be logical to try to weaken the prop. But there was more to it than just that. The Kremlin itself wanted that peace to get out of a gamble that failed, a fight that had become costly and caused irritations between the USSR and its big Chinese ally.

The activities of South Korea's Syngman Rhee, throwing a monkey wrench into the Korea truce machinery, ordinarily should have pleased the Kremlin as an unexpected propaganda gift. But the Soviet press does not indicate the Kremlin is pleased. If the truce goes through anyway, it will be a clear indication of Moscow's fervent desire for an armistice. Yet, there cannot be too much peace for too long from Moscow's standpoint.

Too much peace is dangerous to the Soviet system. Stalin realized that. His peaceful words were unpeaceful enough to keep things boiling satisfactorily.

The peace offensive pursued by the new regime under Georgi Malenkov showed rosy signs of success at first in its impact on the West, whose people thirsted for some such sign of an end to the everlasting tension. But it had an effect within the Communist empire too. People there also began to believe in it and hope for the promised benefits. In the satellite countries, the economic stress caused by Russia's demands for swift industrialization was stirring deep resentment.

The Russians tried an experiment in East Germany to let off such steam. They fell into their own trap. Trying to make a gesture to persuade the Germans they had the right of protest, they permitted a coached, organized demonstration to get out of hand. It blew up into riotous rebellion and forced the Russians to wheel up the tanks.

The Russian Communists cannot afford many mistakes like that. The cry of "Ivan, go home," raised in Berlin, could spread to other areas under Soviet domination, and conceivably even lead dangerously close to the general war the Soviet Union wants to avoid at this moment.

Ivan might have good reasons for a slow withdrawal, because of political considerations on the home front. He would not retreat willingly, but he would if he felt himself forced. A chess fan, he knows a forced move when he sees one.

The Russians are not likely, however, to ease up their fifth column work abroad in any degree, nor are they likely to abandon the major consideration of the peace offensive—an attack on Western unity.

A major gesture toward Germany undoubtedly had been planned. The East German riots gummed up Soviet plans, making Russian talk of German unification look like so much rubbish.

Dr. Wellington Koo To Be Honored Guest Friday

Dr. Wellington Koo, Nationalist Chinese ambassador to the United States, will be an honored guest here Friday to celebrate "Chiang Kai-Shek" day, sponsored by the Monroe Toastmasters Club.

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, Chinese delegate to the United Nations, will also be present for the occasion. Both he and Dr. Koo will give major speeches on situations in the far east.

Dr. Koo is an outstanding diplomat having represented China in leading posts throughout the world.

A short resume of his many posts and accomplishments show that he attended the Paris Peace conference as head of the Chinese delegation in 1919, delegate and representative for China on the council of the League of Nations at Geneva, minister to Great Britain in 1921, Chinese minister of foreign affairs, finance minister and prime minister, ambassador to France, special envoy for accession of King Albert of Belgium and Pope Pius XII from China, chief Chinese delegate to the Dumbarton Oaks Conversations, acting chairman of the Chinese delegation to San Francisco conference, and representative at the first session of the United Nations general assembly in London and New York and many other important positions.

He was assigned in 1946 as Nationalist China's ambassador to the United States and is one of the most respected diplomats not only in Washington but throughout the world.

Daffodil Garden Club Of Wisner

The Daffodil Garden Club of Wisner, started the new year in May by helping the Wisner Garden Club stage the annual flower show held in the Wisner High School gym. Several ribbons were won by members of the Daffodil Club on flower arrangements.

The newly elected president, Mrs. Eldon Brown, presided at the regular meeting in June, which was held in the home of Mrs. Yelvie Bondurant with Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, Jr. serving as co-hostess.

A lecture and demonstration of preparing foods for freezing given by Mrs. James Monroe of Gilbert, was enjoyed by everyone present. Programs of educational value have been scheduled for the entire year. All members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Bill Carroll gave some interesting horticulture hints to be used in the month of June. By planting glads and dahlias this month, we can be assured of fall blooms, she said. The use of Chlordane for ridding gardens of ants and aphids was suggested. Cutting back spring blooming perennials now will promote new growth and a second season of bloom can be expected.

The Daffodil Garden Club was federated in September, 1952. It selected the Daffodil for the club flower, the Dogwood for the tree, a motto, "To Cultivate a garden is to walk with God" and a slogan "Scatter sunshine with flowers. Some progress has already been made toward the club objectives, which are:

1. Landscaping public places.
2. Assisting in all community activites.
3. To provide garden lovers with opportunities for exchange of experiences and ideas invaluable to progress.
4. To make our gardens more attractive and beautiful.

We have made money for the club and enjoyed an entertaintainment at Xmas time. Our achievements have been many, which have been possible by the interest and cooperation of our members.

All members are urged to attend the July meeting and present a flower arrangement. Mrs. R. A. Brown is scheduled to hold a flower arranging clinic in order that everyone might enjoy individual help while flowers are plentiful.

Jo Ann James Will Represent Columbia

Jo Ann James will represent the Columbia Convention for Future Homemakers in Columbus, Ohio July 2-6. The theme of the meeting will be "Homes for America's Future and will be discussed by 3,000 Future Homemakers from all over the United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Mexico and Cuba.

Church Ceremony Unites Miss Rector, Max Funderburk

A lovely bride was Miss Patricia Ann Rector who was married Saturday, June 20 to Max M. Funderburk of Sterlington. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Funderburk. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marion of West Monroe.

The wedding took place at 7 o'clock in the evening in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Jaroy Weber officiated, assisted by the Rev. T. J. Welch of Sterlington.

Wearing a gown of white chantilly lace over shimmering satin, the bride was a dainty figure as she approached the alter with her father. She was given in marriage by her mother. The neckline of her dress formed a sheer yoke, with the full skirt ending in a chapel length train. Her finger - tip veil fell from a crushed net bandeau which framed her face and was sprinkled with seed pearls and lilies of the valley. She carried a beautiful cascade bouquet of stephanotis and agapanthus with satin streamers, centered with a white orchid.

Her bridegroom awaited her at the altar with his father, who served him as best man. His other attendants were Mr. Harry Noble of Hamburg, Ark., Mr. Kendall Bailey of Baton Rouge, Mr. Henry Saur of Shreveport and Mr. Joe Funderburk, brother of the groom, Mr. Woodrow May of Forest and Mr. W. A. Bradley.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Ann Wilson, Miss Jerry Kolls of Dallas, Tex., Miss June Roberts of Oxford, Miss., and Miss Sharon Anderson of Houston, Tex., Maid-of-honor was the brides' cousin, Miss Charlotte Haile.

JUNE BRIDE—Mrs. Max Funderburk, the former Miss Patricia Ann Rector was married last evening in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marion and Mr. Funderburk's parents are Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Funderburk of Sterlington. After a short wedding trip to the Ozarks the couple will be at home in Dallas Texas.

The wedding music was furnished by Miss Doris Brown of Corinth, Miss., organist, who accompanied Miss Polly Ragland as she sang 'Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Lallage Feazel read "How Do I Love Thee". Mr. Freddie Peters and Mr. Ronnie Haile, cousins of the bride, were candle lighters.

Mrs. Marion chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of copen blue silk organza over blue taffeta with a floor length chiffon stole trimmed with seed pearls. She wore a becoming headdress of crown asters and agapanthus. The bridegroom's mother mother was wearing a dress of rose beige lace with a headdress of matching blossoms.

Reception

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the church parlor.

The bride's table was covered with a floor length organdy cloth garlanded with ivy and clusters of white chyrsanthemums. A three tiered wedding cake centered the table. Serving the punch was Mrs. Hazel Haile and Mrs. J. R. Ellis and Mrs. Charlie Drew and Mrs. Bradey served the cake. Mrs. John Parker and Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre invited guests to sign the bride's book. Miss Flanders Presides At D. A. R. Meeting

Mrs. J. N. Harvey welcomed members of the Fort Miro chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Lotus Club. Saturday afternoon for their last meeting of the current season. The group assembled in the club library with Miss Frances Flanders, regent, presiding. Following the pledge to the flag and invocation, Mrs. Harry Lemert presented a resolution in memory of Mrs. Gladys Sperry, which was unanimously adopted.

Miss Flanders announced the following as chairman of respective committees: Mrs. Richard Kellogg, American Indians; Mrs. Duncan Cook, approved schools; Mrs. S. J. Blower, conservation; Mrs. S. Shelby Meek, correct use of the flag; Mrs. Herbert Steed, D. A. R. Good Citizenship; Mrs. John Coon, D. A. R. magazine subscriptions; Mrs. Jase Johnson, D. A. R. magazine advertisements; Mrs. H. M. Butler, D. A. R. Manual of Citizenship and Americanism; Mrs. W. E. Leigh, D. A. R. museum; Miss Harriett Boyle, D. A. R. student loan fund; Mrs. F. L. Martin, finance; Mrs. W. C. Oliver, genealogical research; Mrs. John Theus, Jr., historic markers; Mrs. J. C. Liner, Membership; Mrs. A. A. Miller, national defense; Mrs. Roland Brown, press relations; Mrs. C. E. Faulk, radio; Mrs. Robert W. Hair, transportation; Mrs. J. B. Kugler, program.

Miss Flanders called attention to resolutions adopted by the Sixty-Second Continental Congress, N. S. D. A. R., the first of which was endorsement of the Bricker resolution, which provides a treaty or executive agreement shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through the enactment of appropriate legislation by the Congress.

The Society opposed a treaty submitted by the United Nations which would obligate every signer to place the label "False and Distorted" on any news dispatched to which one or more nations take exception, and resolved that the United States Senate be urged to reject any national bill or international convention or treaty that would in any way tend to discredit the integrity of our foreign correspondents or facilitate any nation in discrediting them, and that the United states Senate be further urged to continue vigilance against any effort that could be misused to suppress the worldwide news-gathering services of newspapers, radio, and other information media of the United States.

They also urged that the "reciprocal Trade Act" be permitted to expire in June of this year; that the United Nations and all its affiliated agencies be taken out of the jurisdiction of the Department of State and be made responsible to the Congress of the United States; that the Daughters of the American Revolution welcome home our returning prisoners of war with deep gratitude for their sacrifices; commend Senator McCarran and Congressman Walter for the immigration and naturalization bill; recommended outlawing of the Communist party; re-affirmed its opposition to federal aid to education, to socialized medicine and to compulsory health insurance.

The National Society also urged the United States Senate to reject the "Minimum Standard of Social Security, which if ratified by the United States Senate would establish socialized medicine in the United States.

The meeting was adjourned and the group was invited to the dining room where refreshments were served to: Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. C. E. Buckley, Mrs. Arthur Tidwell, Sr., Mrs. Harry Lemert, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., Mrs. George Hemphill, Miss Frances Flanders, Mrs. Roland Brown, Mrs. H. G. Thompson, Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. J. Noland Harvey, Jr., Mrs. O. M. Grisham, Mrs. S. W. McLean, Mrs. Paul Ozmert, Mrs. Adelia Baylor, Mrs. Irma Husted, Mrs. James W. Stanley, Sr., Mrs. J. B. Carlton, Mrs. C. R. Russell, Mrs. O. R. Lewis, Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Mrs. H. M. Butler, Mrs. A. A. Miller, Mrs. J. Floyd Martin, Mrs. W. E. Leigh, Mrs. W. M. McGee, Mrs. J. C. Liner, Mrs. Joe Renwick, Mrs. Jase Johnson, Mrs. Martha Troy, Mrs. T. Ivy McDonald, Mrs. R. L. Junod, Mrs. M. S. McGuire, Mrs. Fagan Cox, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. S. C. Strausser, Mrs. Thomas W. Leigh, and Mrs. Fuller, mother of Mrs. W. E. Leigh.

Daffodil Garden Club Of Wisner

The Daffodil Garden Club of Wisner, started the new year in May by helping the Wisner Garden Club stage the annual flower show held in the Wisner High School gym. Several ribbons were won by members of the Daffodil Club on flower arrangements.

The newly elected president, Mrs. Eldon Brown, presided at the regular meeting in June, which was held in the home of Mrs. Yelvie Bondurant with Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, Jr. serving as co-hostess.

A lecture and demonstration of preparing foods for freezing given by Mrs. James Monroe of Gilbert, was enjoyed by everyone present. Programs of educational value have been scheduled for the entire year. All members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Bill Carroll gave some interesting horticulture hints to be used in the month of June. By planting glads and dahlias this month, we can be assured of fall blooms, she said. The use of Chlordane for ridding gardens of ants and aphids was suggested. Cutting back spring blooming perennials now will promote new growth and a second season of bloom can be expected.

The Daffodil Garden Club was federated in September, 1952. It selected the Daffodil for the club flower, the Dogwood for the tree, a motto, "To Cultivate a garden is to walk with God" and a slogan "Scatter sunshine with flowers. Some progress has already been made toward the club objectives, which are:

1. Landscaping public places.
2. Assisting in all community activites.
3. To provide garden lovers with opportunities for exchange of experiences and ideas invaluable to progress.
4. To make our gardens more attractive and beautiful.

We have made money for the club and enjoyed an entertaintainment at Xmas time. Our achievements have been many, which have been possible by the interest and cooperation of our members.

All members are urged to attend the July meeting and present a flower arrangement. Mrs. R. A. Brown is scheduled to hold a flower arranging clinic in order that everyone might enjoy individual help while flowers are plentiful.

Jo Ann James Will Represent Columbia

Jo Ann James will represent the Columbia Convention for Future Homemakers in Columbus, Ohio July 2-6. The theme of the meeting will be "Homes for America's Future and will be discussed by 3,000 Future Homemakers from all over the United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Mexico and Cuba.

Louisiana delegation, consisting of 73 girls and 23 advisors, will leave Baton Rouge by chartered bus June 30th. Their trip will be broken by stops in Birmingham, Alabama, and Lexington, Kentucky. On their return trip they will visit overnight in Chattanooga, Tenn. and Meridian Miss. They will reach Baton Rouge July 9, among the group going from Louisiana will be voting delegates and candidate for National Office. Other responsibilities will be a presider for one meeting a leader for a discussion group, and several parts in the pageant, "Future Home Makers at Home in America."

During Jo Anne's four years as a Future Homemaker she has assumed many responsibilities on local, parish, district, and state levels. During 1952 - 53 she served as president of the local chapter, committee member and installing officer in Caldwell Unit, member of the northern district and acting treasurer at the state convention. Jo Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde James and was valedictorian of her graduating class in May.

Hanson-Medlin

FERRIDAY — The marriage of Miss Ann Adele Medlin, of Ferriday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Medlin of Monroe, to Mr. William Edward Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hanson of Tulsa, Okla., was performed on June 5 in the Sevier Memorial Methodist Church in Ferriday. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, A. M. Medlin, Jr. Miss Jean Estelle Medlin, sister of the bride served as maid of honor. The Rev. Don W. Alverson performed the sacred rites.

Miss Norma Jean Gilley played a program of traditional nuptial music. Mrs. John D. King sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because." The bride is a graduate of the Ferriday High School. Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and other points the young couple are making their home in Ferriday.

Church Ceremony Unites Miss Rector, Max Funderburk

JUNE BRIDE—Mrs. Max Funderburk, the former Miss Patricia Ann Rector was married last evening in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marion and Mr. Funderburk's parents are Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Funderburk of Sterlington. After a short wedding trip to the Ozarks the couple will be at home in Dallas Texas.

A lovely bride was Miss Patricia Ann Rector who was married Saturday, June 20 to Max M. Funderburk of Sterlington. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Funderburk. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marion of West Monroe.

The wedding took place at 7 o'clock in the evening in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Jaroy Weber officiated, assisted by the Rev. T. J. Welch of Sterlington.

Wearing a gown of white chantilly lace over shimmering satin, the bride was a dainty figure as she approached the alter with her father. She was given in marriage by her mother. The neckline of her dress formed a sheer yoke, with the full skirt ending in a chapel length train. Her finger - tip veil fell from a crushed net bandeau which framed her face and was sprinkled with seed pearls and lilies of the valley. She carried a beautiful cascade bouquet of stephanotis and agapanthus with satin streamers, centered with a white orchid.

Her bridegroom awaited her at the altar with his father, who served him as best man. His other attendants were Mr. Harry Noble of Hamburg, Ark., Mr. Kendall Bailey of Baton Rouge, Mr. Henry Saur of Shreveport and Mr. Joe Funderburk, brother of the groom, Mr. Woodrow May of Forest and Mr. W. A. Bradley.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Ann Wilson, Miss Jerry Kolls of Dallas, Tex., Miss June Roberts of Oxford, Miss., and Miss Sharon Anderson of Houston, Tex., Maid-of-honor was the brides' cousin, Miss Charlotte Haile.

The wedding music was furnished by Miss Doris Brown of Corinth, Miss., organist, who accompanied Miss Polly Ragland as she sang 'Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Lallage Feazel read "How Do I Love Thee". Mr. Freddie Peters and Mr. Ronnie Haile, cousins of the bride, were candle lighters.

Reception

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the church parlor.

The bride's table was covered with a floor length organdy cloth garlanded with ivy and clusters of white chyrsanthemums. A three tiered wedding cake centered the table. Serving the punch was Mrs. Hazel Haile and Mrs. J. R. Ellis and Mrs. Charlie Drew and Mrs. Bradey served the cake. Mrs. John Parker and Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre invited guests to sign the bride's book. Also assisting in serving were: Mrs. Leslie Peters, Mrs. Fred Peters, Mrs. Gene Hardin, Mrs. James Hall, Mrs. Charles DeLane, Miss Edwina Allbritton, Miss Ann Thompson, Miss Gloria Jean Peters, Miss Ann Trezevant, Carol Ann Peters and Marta Peters.

Later in the evening, the bride and bridegroom left on a wedding trip to the Ozarks. For travel the bride wore a copen blue silk shantung suit, with baby blue accessories and a white orchid corsage. The couple will reside in Dallas, Tex., where Mr. Funderburk will continue his studies at Baylor Dental School.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Ben Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Knox Nunn, Jones, La.; Mrs. Margie Hanks, Bastrop, La.; Mrs. Carl Peacock, El Dorado, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ellis, Monongahela, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Motes, and Miss Nancy Lee Motes, Shreveport, La.; Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Cream Rinse Conditions Hair

Have you ever known your hair needed a conditioning treatment just when you weren't feeling up to the boresome, time-consuming task? One firm thinks it has an answer to this dilemma.

It is making available a hair lotion for use following shampoos which, it claims, combines the action of a conditioning treatment, a cream rinse and a setting lotion.

Therefore, you won't need to take the time, it says, for lengthy preshampoo treatments. Nor will you need to use a setting lotion for your pin curls. With this one preparation, which you comb through the hair while it is still wet from shampooing, you'll get rid of snarls and tangles, and have more body, elasticity, "life" and sheen to your hair, say the makers.

After your hair has been towel dried to a slightly damp condition, you can set it at once. No further setting creams or lotions are needed.

This product is not meant to be used between shampoos. Use it only while the hair is still wet from its washing. But the makers claim that a set, in a typical case, will last until the next shampoo.

Wyble-Allred

FER'IDAY—Mrs. R. H. Allred announces the marriage of her daughter, Betty to Ollie L. Wyble, son of Mrs. O. L. Wyble of Washington, La., and the late Mr. Wyble.

The bride is the daughter of the late R. H. Allred of Natchez. The marriage was performed on June 5 in the East McComb, Miss. Baptist church. The Rev. T. D. Summerall performed the double ring rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyble are now making their home near Ferriday on Lake St. John. The bridegroom was graduated from Louisiana State University. He is connected with the California company in the capacity of petroleum engineer.

Fred Rushing, Jr. Weds Ruth Gee Chapman

A lovely wedding of interest to relatives and friends throughout Louisiana was solemnized recently, at four-thirty in the afternoon in the quaint Little Creek Methodist Church near Archibald, La.

Mr. Fred Juds·· Rushing, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Judson Rushing, Sr., of Mangham, and Miss Ruth Gee Chapman, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gee Chapman of Archibald, plighted their troth beneath an ivy entwined arch, with Reverend Lael Jones of Mangham officiating in the impressive double-ring ceremony.

Tall wrought-iron candelabra with white cathedral tapers stood before an altar banked with fern, flanked on either side with baskets overflowing with white gladiolas and shasta daisies in cascade arrangements. White satin bows marked the old cypress pews.

Mr. J. J. Hollis, Mr. B. M. Hixon, Mr. R. G. Lobrano, and Mr. D. B. McKay of Mangham served as ushers. Mr. Rushing chose Mr. W. R. Boies of Mangham to serve him as best man.

Mrs. J. A. Logan of Archibald played the nuptial music and accompanied the soloist.

Preceding the ceremony, as the organist played softly, Mr. Hixon and Mr. Hollis lighted the tapers. Miss Mona Del Holloway of Crowley sang "Through the Years," and "God Made You Mine."

Reverend C. W. Jones, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Mangham gave the impressive pledge from "the Book of Ruth in the Bible. The organist played "Indian Love Call" throughout the entire ceremony.

Mrs. Cecil Lowe, eldest sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bride's maids included Misses Pauline Chapman and Miss Virginia Chapman, sisters of the bride, and Miss Mitzie Holloway, a cousin from Crowley. Little Miss Dottie Lou Holloway, a petite cousin from Crowley served as junior bridesmaid.

All the bride's atter'ants wore ballerina length dresses of pink taffeta and nylon net. The bodice was closely fitted and the flared skirts had peplums of net. Elbow length capelets of net with tiny collars added a demure note. Elbow length mitts finished with tiny ruffles and white pumps completed the ensembles. All carried novel arrangements of graduated balls covered with yellow daisies and attached to yellow satin ropes that fell to the hemlines. They wore ruffled bandeaus in their hair.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father wore white nylon net over taffeta. The bodice was fitted to the waistline and the flared skirt of nylon net was edged with myriad ruffles that stood out hoop-fashion over a petticoat of ruffled taffeta. An elbow length capelet of net edged with milk-white sequins was finished with a modest Peter Pan collar. This was met at the elbows with dainty net mitts with tiny ruffles at the hands. Her short veil fell from a Juliet-type cap covered with white sequins. She carried a small white Bible topped with a giant gardenia from which whit. satin ribbons cascaded to the hemline.

Preceding the benediction, as the young couple knelt at the altar, the bride's mother sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The colorful bridal party made a pretty picture under the lovely old trees near a circular flower bed brilliant with blossoms.

Mrs. Chapman greeted the guests. She chose for her daughter's wedding an attractive dress in pink lace and linen. Her corsage was white gladiolas. Mrs. Rushing, the groom's mother wore beige linen with touches of lace. Her corsage was also white gladiolas.

The bride's table was laid with an embroidered linen cloth and a lovely three-tiered cake was the central decoration. This confection was a gift to the happy couple from Mrs. Louis Bledsoe of Alto. An arch of white, replica of the one under which the vows were plighted graced one end of the table, fern and white flowers placed at vantage points completed the novel arrangement.

Twin punch bowls were presided over alternately by Mrs. Jamie Boies of Rayville, Mrs. P. W. Copeland of Start and Mrs. J. F. Steckleberg of Lake Charles. All are aunst of the groom.

Mrs. H. C. Gillen of Shreveport, a cousin of the bride, was in charge of the courtesies and she was assisted by Mrs. C. W. Jones and Mrs. Polly Jones of Mangham. Looking very festive in their crisp frocks several of the bride's friends mingled with the guests and assisted with the serving. These included: Misses Peggy Sue Boughton, Mickey Brown, Jean Harper, and Marie Williamson of Mangham; and Miss Glenda Faye Booth of Archibald.

Mrs. R. C. Looney of New Orleans, another sister of the bride presided at the guest book which recorded relatives and guests from Quincy, Crowley, Lake Charles, Shreveport, Minden, Monroe, West Monroe, Rayville, Start, Winnsboro, Baskin, Wisner, Mangham, Alto and Archibald.

The bride is the daughter of one of Richland parish's oldest families and was a member of the '53 graduating class of Mangham High School.

The groom is a graduate of Mangham High School and received his B. S. degree from Louisiana State University. He is a veteran of World War Two, having served his country twenty-seven months, eighteen of which were spent in active duty in the European Theatre. He is employed by the Veteran's Administration as an agricultural instructor, and is a successful farmer in Richland parish.

The young couple will be at home to their many friends in Mangham, La.

25 And 10 Year HD Clubs Meet

The Twenty-Five and Ten-Year Home Demonstration Clubs met in the Agriculture Building in West Monroe, Saturday, June 13, at 9:30 a.m., with Mrs. J. W. Lowe, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. C. R. Alexander, followed by the singing of "America" by the group. Miss Pat Alexander played a piano solo, "The Butterfly", by Merkel.

Mrs. Jewell McQuiller gave a vivid description of a recent tour of the Log Town Club, of which she was a member. The group visited Mrs. Carl Earl, and enjoyed seeing her rose garden, which was the most colorful garden of its kind, they had ever visited in Monroe. They the group journeyed to "Haphazzard Gardens", where the most gorgeous lillies were growing, as well as many, many other shrubs and flowers. Mrs. McQuiller stated, "Mrs. Eavens, who owns this garden is not only on of the most hospitable hostesses but one of the most interesting to talk to." A covered dish lunch followed, which every one thoroughly enjoyed. Many interesting plans were made for the future meetings of these clubs.

Cream Rinse Conditions Hair

Have you ever known your hair needed a conditioning treatment just when you weren't feeling up to the boresome, time-consuming task? One firm thinks it has an answer to this dilemma.

It is making available a hair lotion for use following shampoos which, it claims, combines the action of a conditioning treatment, a cream rinse and a setting lotion.

Therefore, you won't need to take the time, it says, for lengthy preshampoo treatments. Nor will you need to use a setting lotion for your pin curls. With this one preparation, which you comb through the hair while it is still wet from shampooing, you'll get rid of snarls and tangles, and have more body, elasticity, "life" and sheen to your hair, say the makers.

After your hair has been towel dried to a slightly damp condition, you can set it at once. No further setting creams or lotions are needed.

This product is not meant to be used between shampoos. Use it only while the hair is still wet from its washing. But the makers claim that a set, in a typical case, will last until the next shampoo.

Wyble-Allred

FERRIDAY—Mrs. R. H. Allred announces the marriage of her daughter, Betty to Ollie L. Wyble, son of Mrs. O. L. Wyble of Washington, La., and the late Mr. Wyble.

The bride is the daughter of the late R. H. Allred of Natchez. The marriage was performed on June 5 in the East McComb, Miss. Baptist church. The Rev. T. D. Summerall performed the double ring rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyble are now making their home near Ferriday on Lake St. John. The bridegroom was graduated from Louisiana State University. He is connected with the California company in the capacity of petroleum engineer.

AT STYLE SHOW—Enjoying the Style Show at the Country Club last Sunday are Jo Ella McCleary, Betty Scott, Margaret Louise Taylor, Gayle Bingham, and Joy Sutton. Some of the models are shown above.

Fred Rushing, Jr. Weds Ruth Gee Chapman

A lovely wedding of interest to relatives and friends throughout Louisiana was solemnized recently, at four-thirty in the afternoon in the quaint Little Creek Methodist Church near Archibald, La.

Mr. Fred Judson Rushing, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Judson Rushing, Sr., of Mangham, and Miss Ruth Gee Chapman, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gee Chapman of Archibald, plighted their troth beneath an ivy entwined arch, with Reverend Lael Jones of Mangham officiating in the impressive double-ring ceremony.

Elizabeth Ann Davidson Becomes Bride

Miss Elisabeth Ann Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hershal J. Davidson, of Lake Providence, became the bride of John Hopkins, son of Mrs. H. A. West, Saturday, June 13, at 1:30 p.m., in a quiet ceremony at the Greenville, Miss., Baptist pastorium, with the Rev. Perry Plaxten officiating.

The bride wore a midsummer sleeveless model of whisper blue nubbed orlon. The V neckline was framed with a deep square collar, and the bodice fastened with self covered buttons. Bias self stripes accented the fullness of the skirt. The accessories in white were linen pumps, capulet fronted with blue and yellow flowers, and shoulder corsage of orchids with purple throat.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Linda Davidson, who wore a sleeveless model of black and white voile with Peter Pan collar and black bone buttons fronting the bodice. Her accessories were in white and a shoulder corsage of pink asters completed the attire.

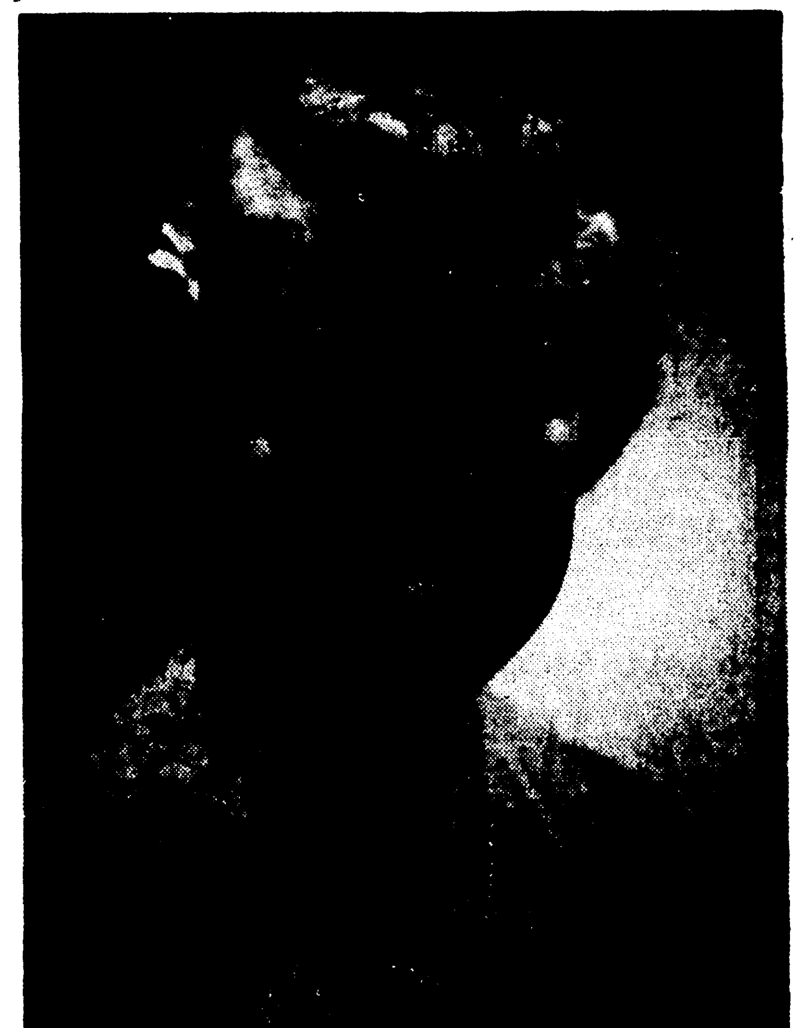
The bride was graduated from Lake Providence High School, was Miss East Carroll of 1952, and is employed at the local telephone office.

The bride groom was graduated from Lake Providence High, attended Northeast Junior College, Booneville, Miss., and is employed with the East Carroll Parish Soil Conservation Co.

They will make their home with the bride's parents for the present.

BECOMES BRIDE—Miss Elizabeth Ann Davidson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hershal Davidson of Lake Providence became the bride of John Hopkins, son of Mrs. H. A. West on Saturday afternoon in Greenville Miss.



TO ENTER SMITH COLLEGE—Miss Dana Darwin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Darwin of Denver, Colo., recently graduated from East High school in Denver and will enter Smith College in Northampton, Mass., this fall. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Whitman of West Monroe.

Methodist Church In Calhoun Scene Of June Wedding

CALHOUN — The wedding of Miss Opal Yeates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bird of Marion and Sam Aubrey Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Prentice G. Boyd of Calhoun was performed at the Calhoun Methodist Church on Sunday, June 14 at five o'clock.

The Rev. A. M. Wynne performed the ceremony against a background of greenery and tall slender baskets of white gladioli and ferns.

Mr. W. B. Humble rendered a concert of prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Louise Rhea Humble who sang, "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Harold Boyd and Jake Humble, Jr., served as ushers.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Miles Bird, the bride was lovely in a frosty ice blue wedding gown of chantilly lace fashioned with a round collar and long sleeves that ended in points at the wrist. She carried a cascade of lilies of the valley with satin streamers attached to a white Bible.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Jake Humble, Jr., as matron of honor. Her dress was beige lace and linen. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mr. Bill Humble served the groom as best man.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Boyd, was attired in a dusty rose nylon mesh model with white accessories and a white gladioli corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held for the wedding party and guests at the home of Mrs. Alma S. Hale.

Assisting with the serving were Miss Elizabeth Heck, Miss Ann Finley, Miss Louise Humble, Miss Nelda Nolan and Miss Chelse Wright.

White gladioli and shasta daisies were used throughout the reception rooms.

The couple will be at home in Calhoun following a brief wedding trip through the Ozarks.

Mrs. Prentiss Boyd was hostess at a rehearsal supper on Saturday night before the wedding.

Mrs. S. Orchard Hostess To L. B. Faulk 13

The L. B. Faulk Unit No. 13 met in the home of Mrs. Sam Orchard last Thursday. Upon arrival the hostess served delicious lemonade to the members. Miss May Faulk acting champlain read the club litany. The salute to the flag and the preamble were given in unison. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report given. The different chairman's gave their reports.

The election of officers followed. Mrs. Louis Gimler, re-elected president. Miss May Faulks, reelected 1st vice president, Mrs. H. G. Girl Scout News

Our face is red, as we admit to a mistake in last Sunday's column about the sewing classes. They all start Tuesday —that's day after tomorrow — beginners at 9:30, more advanced at 1:30, at the Red Cross building, 200 South Grand.

While we are on the subject of sewing, look in your July American Girl when it comes for a picture of last year's sewing class. It will be in the All Over the Map pages. Martha Riser, Katie Young, Martha Higgins, and Nancy Martin, representing all the classes, are the girls who posed for the picture.

To West Monroe girls and their mamas, there is an excellent opportunity coming up on the 30th (Maybe that's why we got the date wrong last Sunday) when cooking classes begin at Baber's. Louisiana Power and Light home economists will be in charge, and you know what that means. Register at the office, as the class is almost full.

Maybe it's the hot weather, but it seems that more girls are taking swimming lessons this year than ever before. According to the parents on the sidelines, everybody's making progress.

Didn't someone decide once that lemon pie was one of the favorite desserts of men? Maybe that's why the cooking class chose to make lemon instead of chocolate or pecan last week. No wonder the girls seem to be enjoying the class to the fullest!

Ole Man River played hob with camping plans when little Davis Creek backed up across the little road into camp — right at the gate. It did no damage, but kept cars from going into camp and caused postponement of a number of scheduled camps. In fact, a glance at the office calendar shows that practically every date was filled.

The girl planning board and members of the '53 club are especially disappointed. Most of them, however, are enrolled in sewing, cooking, tennis, first aid, or swimming and don't want to choose between missing a class and going to camp. Don't blame 'em. Anyway, they'll get to go sooner or later.

Congratulations and best wishes to the Boy Scouts on their acquiring a new executive. Nena Roy says she is hoping to see a good representation of Girl Scout adults at the reception and installation for Mr. Pankey at Ki Ro Li Tuesday from 5:00 until 7:00. The Boy Scouters have sent us a special invitation. Let's go.

Scientific tests have shown that painted brick structures are cooler and less humid inside than unpainted brick walls. Clear waterproof coatings are sometimes used to impede water seepage and still preserve the appearance of the brick. Both clear and pigmented brick paints are available at well stocked paint stores. They are easy to apply.

Methodist Church In Calhoun Scene Of June Wedding

CALHOUN — The wedding of Miss Opal Yeates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bird of Marion and Sam Aubrey Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Prentice G. Boyd of Calhoun was performed at the Calhoun Methodist Church on Sunday, June 14 at five o'clock.

The Rev. A. M. Wynne performed the ceremony against a background of greenery and tall slender baskets of white gladioli and ferns.

Mr. W. B. Humble rendered a concert of prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Louise Rhea Humble who sang, "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Harold Boyd and Jake Humble, Jr., served as ushers.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Miles Bird, the bride was lovely in a frosty ice blue wedding gown of chantilly lace fashioned with a round collar and long sleeves that ended in points at the wrist. She carried a cascade of lilies of the valley with satin streamers attached to a white Bible.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Jake Humble, Jr., as matron of honor. Her dress was beige lace and linen. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mr. Bill Humble served the groom as best man.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Boyd, was attired in a dusty rose nylon mesh model with white accessories and a white gladioli corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held for the wedding party and guests at the home of Mrs. Alma S. Hale.

Assisting with the serving were Miss Elizabeth Heck, Miss Ann Finley, Miss Louise Humble, Miss Nelda Nolan and Miss Chelse Wright.

White gladioli and shasta daisies were used throughout the reception rooms.

The couple will be at home in Calhoun following a brief wedding trip through the Ozarks.

Mrs. Prentiss Boyd was hostess at a rehearsal supper on Saturday night before the wedding.

Mrs. S. Orchard Hostess To L. B. Faulk 13

Delegates and alternates to the State Convension in New Orleans in July were elected. Delegates, Mrs. Louis Gimler, Mrs. Harold Gill, Mrs. Sam Orchard, Mrs. T. C. Mahr, and Mrs. J. L. Hutchinson. Alternates, Miss May Faulk, Mrs. Dewey Mobley, Mrs. C. M. Abboud, Mrs. Vivan Benison and Mrs. C. T. Woodcock. There being no further business the meeting was adjourned. A delicious salad course was served by the hostess and the door prize was won by Mrs. Dewey Mobley.

Wood-Ragsdale

FERRIDAY — The wedding of Miss Marian Ragsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Monroe Ragsdale, of Newellton and Henry Franklin Wood, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Franklin Wade, Sr., of Bentonville, Ark., was solemnized Saturday, June 13 at the Newellton Union church with the pastor of the church, Rev. C. E. Pickens, officiating. Following the wedding there was a reception held in the church recreation room.

Automatic washers and dryers make it relatively easy to freshen up these items for a new season: feather pillows, bedspreads, slipcovers, draperies, shag rugs and stuffed toys.

Girl Scout News

Our face is red, as we admit to a mistake in last Sunday's column about the sewing classes. They all start Tuesday —that's day after tomorrow — beginners at 9:30, more advanced at 1:30, at the Red Cross building, 200 South Grand.

While we are on the subject of sewing, look in your July American Girl when it comes for a picture of last year's sewing class. It will be in the All Over the Map pages. Martha Riser, Katie Young, Martha Higgins, and Nancy Martin, representing all the classes, are the girls who posed for the picture.

To West Monroe girls and their mamas, there is an excellent opportunity coming up on the 30th (Maybe that's why we got the date wrong last Sunday) when cooking classes begin at Baber's. Louisiana Power and Light home economists will be in charge, and you know what that means. Register at the office, as the class is almost full.

Maybe it's the hot weather, but it seems that more girls are taking swimming lessons this year than ever before. According to the parents on the sidelines, everybody's making progress.

Didn't someone decide once that lemon pie was one of the favorite desserts of men? Maybe that's why the cooking class chose to make lemon instead of chocolate or pecan last week. No wonder the girls seem to be enjoying the class to the fullest!

Ole Man River played hob with camping plans when little Davis Creek backed up across the little road into camp — right at the gate. It did no damage, but kept cars from going into camp and caused postponement of a number of scheduled camps. In fact, a glance at the office calendar shows that practically every date was filled.

The girl planning board and members of the '53 club are especially disappointed. Most of them, however, are enrolled in sewing, cooking, tennis, first aid, or swimming and don't want to choose between missing a class and going to camp. Don't blame 'em. Anyway, they'll get to go sooner or later.

Congratulations and best wishes to the Boy Scouts on their acquiring a new executive. Nena Roy says she is hoping to see a good representation of Girl Scout adults at the reception and installation for Mr. Pankey at Ki Ro Li Tuesday from 5:00 until 7:00. The Boy Scouters have sent us a special invitation. Let's go.

Scientific tests have shown that painted brick structures are cooler and less humid inside than unpainted brick walls. Clear waterproof coatings are sometimes used to impede water seepage and still preserve the appearance of the brick. Both clear and pigmented brick paints are available at well stocked paint stores. They are easy to apply.

Miss Margaret Pickens Is Bride of Donald Gannaway

In a service marked by beautiful simplicity and dignity, and solemnized in the First Baptist Church, of this city, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, June sixth, Miss Margaret Pickens became the bride of Donald Lewis Gannaway. Dr. James T. Horton, pastor, heard the exchange of the wedding vows in the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Uriah W. Pickens, Sr., Monroe, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Gannaway, of Sterlington.

White gladioli overflowed from pedestal baskets which stood in front of the vine-entwined candelabra supporting myriads of slender white tapers, and effected an attractive background for the wedding. Frothy bows of white satin ribbon marked the pews for members of the two families.

Messrs. Dan Dennett and Bill Simpson served as ushers.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Florence Albritton, wearing mauve sheer with corsage of white flowers. During the concert, Mrs. James Hall, wearing blush organza, with similar corsage to that worn by the organist, lighted the tapers.

Mrs. Hall also served as soloist, using "Because" and "I Love You Truly," favorites of the young couple.

Mrs. John Arthur, Jr., sister of the bride, and only attendant, proceded down the aisle as the strains of the processional pervaded the sanctuary. She wore a ballerina-length gown of light blue net over taffeta, with strapless bodice and full tiered skirt. The stole draped softly around her shoulders, was of matching net, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of Esterite daisies, tied with loops of narrow white satin ribbon.

The father of the bridegroom served his son as best man.

The radiant young bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was fashioned of net and lace over white taffeta, the full tiered skirt falling to ballerina-length. The molded bodice fastened down the back with self-covered buttons, and featured a detachable yoke of the lace finished with a Peter Pan collar. Her mitts and cap to which was attached the shoulder-length veil of net, were of the same lace. She carried a white Bible surmounted with a pure white orchid, from which white satin streamers radiated.

The bride's mother chose navy with white accents and a corsage of white carnations, while the mother of the bridegroom wore light blue with white accessories and a similar corsage. Mrs. A. W. Riggs, the grandmother of the groom, wore white-sprigged grey voile with white splashes and a white corsage.

Following their wedding trip to points on the gulf coast, the young couple went to Key West, Fla., where they are at home at Paul's Apartments. Mr. Gannaway is serving with the U. S. Navy as Yeoman 3-C, aboard the USS Howard Gilmore, A. F. 16.

Mrs. Gannaway was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast State, and was a member of the school faculty at St. Joseph, La., the past year. Mr. Gannaway was also graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended Louisiana Tech at Ruston, before entering the service.

JUNE WEDDING—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lewis Gannaway were married at the First Baptist Church on June 6. Mrs. Gannaway is the former Miss Margaret Pickens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Uriah W. Pickens, Sr., of this city. Mr. Gannaway is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Gannaway of Sterlington.

Beautiful June Wedding United Couple In Houston

Miss Mary Joe Cunningham became the bride of Mr. O. A. Kidd of Choudrant in a beautiful wedding solemnized at 8 o'clock, June 12, at the First Presbyterian church in Houston. Dr. E. D. Head of Fort Worth, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Moore of Houston and the groom is the son of Mrs. Milton Everett Kidd and the late Mr. Kidd of Choudrant.

Mr. Charles Pabor was the organist and rendered a concert of prenuptial music. He accompanied the soloist Mr. Troy V. Campbell.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. A. G. Moore. The colonial tradition was the inspiration for Miss Cunningham's white nylon and lace bridal gown. Made over hoops and crinolines, it has a sweeping skirt fashioned with a pleated nylon tulle flounce which extended the length of the cathedral train. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion fell from a starched medallion lace cap embroidered with bridal jewels. The bride carried the traditional victorian bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid, arranged in a holder of imported illusion and showered profusely with valley lilies. She also wore a single string of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Miss Dottie Ann Gilleland of Corpus Christi, Texas was maid of honor. Mrs. J. G. Kenne of San Antonio, Texas served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Ann Sims of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Joan Erwin and Miss Jean Priddy of Houston, Tex. Miss Ann Kimbriel of Waco, Tex., was a junior bridesmaid.

The attendants were dressed alike in floor length nylon tulle and lace gowns in a pale maize tone. A crushed bodice was tightly fitted and covered with a stole, the bouffant skirts were worn over crinoline. Half hats of maize velvet bows completed the picture. The bridesmaids carried basket arrangements shaded from orchid to royal purple. Their flowers were Princess Aloah orchids enhanced with sprays of hubrid statice.

The altar was profusely illuminated with a myriad of tapers in seven branched candelabra and studded with arrangements of white gladioli and peonies in wrought iron urns. Southerm smilax entwined the altar rail and formed a soft background against which the wedding party were grouped. The white carpeted bridal aisle was marked with white satin ribbons caught at every other pew with a nosegay of white flowers. The church foyer held majestic arrangements of magnolias.

Matt Edgar of Beeville served as ring bearer. Mr. Bobby Jack Bagwell of Choudrant was best man. Groomsmen were Carl Taylor of Pensacola, Fla., Bill Doyen, Frank Miers, John Sprinkle, Beeler Myers, David Redford, all of Houston.

The bride's mother was wearing a waltz length gown in ballet blue lace. Her accessories were delicate pink. The groom's mother, Mrs. Kidd, was attired in a floor length gown of dusty rose. Her accessories were the same shade.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church patio.

The bride's table was placed against a background of smilax on a wrought iron screen against which the satin covered table held the wedding cake. Gardenias and white tulle formed a trailing design through the silver candelabra. The courtyard and patio were lighted with hurricane lamps amid the flowers and bedecked shrubbery. The Juliet balcony above the green velvet lawn provided the setting from which the bride threw her bouquet.

The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to San Antonio. For traveling the bride chose a pink suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was a purple throated white orchid. The couple will make their home in Ruston.

The bride attended Baylor University. The groom attended Louisiana Tech and the University of Houston.

JUNE BRIDE—Mrs. O. A. Kidd was before her marriage in Houston, Mary Joe Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Moore of that city. The groom is the son of Mrs. Milton Everett Kidd and the late Mr. Kidd of Choudrant.

Straw Cloth Is Simple To Clean

The straw cloth you've been seeing this season is actually a plain-weave cotton fabric, processed to give a durable straw-like effect. It comes in natural straw color and in colors, white, prints and embroideries.

Beautiful June Wedding United Couple In Houston

Miss Mary Joe Cunningham became the bride of Mr. O. A. Kidd of Choudrant in a beautiful wedding solemnized at 8 o'clock, June 12, at the First Presbyterian church in Houston, Dr. E. D. Head of Fort Worth, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Moore of Houston and the groom is the son of Mrs. Milton Everett Kidd and the late Mr. Kidd of Choudrant.

Mr. Charles Pabor was the organist and rendered a concert of prenuptial music. He accompanied the soloist Mr. Troy V. Campbell.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. A. G. Moore. The colonial tradition was the inspiration for Miss Cunningham's white nylon and lace bridal gown, Made over hoops and crinolines, it has a sweeping skirt fashioned with a pleated nylon tulle flounce which extended the length of the cathedral train. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion fell from a starched medallion lace cap embroidered with bridal jewels. The bride carried the traditional victorian bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid, arranged in a holder of imported illusion and showered profusely with valley lilies. She also wore a single string of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Miss Dottie Ann Gilleland of Corpus Christi, Texas was maid of honor. Mrs. J. G. Kenne of San Antonio, Texas served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Ann Sims of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Joan Erwin and Miss Jean Priddy of Houston, Tex. Miss Ann Kimbriel of Waco, Tex., was a junior bridesmaid.

The attendants were dressed alike in floor length nylon tulle and lace gowns in a pale maize tone. A crushed bodice was tightly fitted and covered with a stole, the bouffant skirts were worn over crinoline. Half hats of maize velvet bows completed the picture. The bridesmaids carried basket arrangements shaded from orchid to royal purple. Their flowers were Princess Aloah orchids enhanced with sprays of hubrid statice.

The altar was profusely illuminated with a myriad of tapers in seven branched candelabra and studded with arrangements of white gladioli and peonies in wrought iron urns. Southerm smilax entwined the altar rail and formed a soft background against which the wedding party were grouped. The white carpeted bridal aisle was marked with white satin ribbons caught at every other pew with a nosegay of white flowers. The church foyer held majestic arrangements of magnolias.

Matt Edgar of Beeville served as ring bearer. Mr. Bobby Jack Bagwell of Choudrant was best man. Groomsmen were Carl Taylor of Pensacola, Fla., Bill Doyen, Frank Miers, John Sprinkle, Beeler Myers, David Redford, all of Houston.

The bride's mother was wearing a waltz length gown in ballet blue lace. Her accessories were delicate pink. The groom's mother, Mrs. Kidd, was attired in a floor length gown of dusty rose. Her accessories were the same shade.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church patio.

The bride's table was placed against a background of smilax on a wrought iron screen against which the satin covered table held the wedding cake. Gardenias and white tulle formed a trailing design through the silver candelabra. The courtyard and patio were lighted with hurricane lamps amid the flowers and bedecked shrubbery. The Juliet balcony above the green velvet lawn provided the setting from which the bride threw her bouquet.

The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to San Antonio. For traveling the bride chose a pink suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was a purple throated white orchid. The couple will make their home in Ruston.

The bride attended Baylor University. The groom attended Louisiana Tech and the University of Houston.

JUNE BRIDE—Mrs. O. A. Kidd was before her marriage in Houston, Mary Joe Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Moore of that city. The groom is the son of Mrs. Milton Everett Kidd and the late Mr. Kidd of Choudrant.

Straw Cloth Is Simple To Clean

The straw cloth you've been seeing this season is actually a plain-weave cotton fabric, processed to give a durable straw-like effect. It comes in natural straw color and in colors, white, prints and embroideries.

Couple Says Vows In Roanoke Virginia

In a setting of etheral beauty of green and white at the Greene Memorial Methodist Church of Roanoke, Va., Miss Mildred Louise Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson N. Jones, of Roanoke became the bride of Carl Davis Bonner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bonner of Lake Providence, La., on Saturday, June 13, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The Rev. Thomas J. Hawkins officiated at the sacred and impressive service.

Baskets of white flowers, palms and cathedral candles were effectively used about the altar and chancel.

Mrs. Baxter O. Deal, Lake Providence, sister of the groom, presided at the organ for the nuptial music.

The bride's honor attendant was her sister, Miss Margaret Via Jones, who wore a gown of pale blue nylon net over satin, with matching fitted bodice. She carried a cascade bouquet of Talismen roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a formal trousseau model of white slipper satin fashioned with a Queen Anne collar of chantilly lace, fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves with lace inserts and a full gathered skirt, which draped into a cathedral train. The finger tip veil of illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of matching Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white bridal roses and stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

The bridegroom's best man was his father, and the ushers were Richard Switz, of Alexandria, Va., and Baxter O. Deal, Jr., of Lake Providence.

The bride's traveling costume for the wedding trip was a pink summer suit, with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

They will make their home in Memphis, Tenn., at 1791 Madison.

The bride was graduated from Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia. She was a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, of Alpha Phi Sigma, Alpha Psi Omega, Mary Washington Players, Cap and Gown Senior Honor Society, and for the past year was faculty member of Woodrow Wilson Senior High School in Roanoke.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lake Providence High School, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, a member of Kaippa Alpha social fraternity, the "T" club, and is employed as sales engineer, Egle-Trobaugh Electric Co., Memphis, Tenn.

LEAVING CHURCH—Following an exchange of nuptial vows in the Methodist Church at Archibald, Lt. and Mrs. Ted Brunson are leaving the church. The bride is the former Miss Bettie Ann Acklen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Acklen, Sr., of Archibald. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brunson of Rayville.

Miss Bettie Acklen Weds Lt. Ted Brunson

A wedding of simplicity and interest to a wide circle of friends was that of Miss Bettie Ann Acklen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Acklen, Sr. of Archibald, La., when she became the bride of Lt. Ted Brunson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brunson of Rayville, La., on Friday, June 5, at 8 o'clock in the evening. The double ring ceremony was solemnized at the Little Creek Methodist Church of Archibald with Reverend Lael Jones, pastor, officiating.

The chancel of the century old church, before which the couple took their sacred vows, was beautifully decorated against a background of southern smilax. The hand-carved pulpit was overlaid with an arrangement of magnolias and flanked on either side with branched candelabra holding long white tapers and basket arrangements of white gladioli, daisies, magnolias, and tulle. The chancel rail, before which the couple knelt for the benediction, was entwined with smilax. The pews were marked with bouquets of gardenias and white satin ribbon.

Mr. Chapman McKay and Mr. Floyd Bruce Boughton served as ushers. "Wonderful One", was played softly as they lighted the candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Edmund Brown rendered a program of prenuptial music consisting of favorites of the bride. She was also the pianist for the bride's sister several years ago when she became the bride of the groom's brother. Mrs. Brown accompanied Mr. Sidney McKay who sang, "Through The Years" and quoted Elizabeth B. Browning's sonnet, "How Do I Love Thee" to the melody of "To A Wild Rose." The traditional wedding marches were used as the processional and recessional. "Clair de Lune" was played softly throughout the ceremony. At the close of the ceremony Mrs. Paul Chapman sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Mary Lynn Brunson, sister of the bride, was attired in a ballerina length gown of ice blue organdy over taffeta. Miss Gloria Dean Grant in nile green organdy over taffeta and Miss Patricia Chapman in pink were the bridesmaids. Their dresses were fashioned similar to the bride's with a scalloped neckline, sleeveless bodice, and full gathered skirts. They wore single strands of pearls. Each carried a heart shaped bouquet of white split carnations, stock, tulle, and satin ribbon. They wore coronet headdresses to match their bouquets.

The flower girls, Miss Judy Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Chapman, and Miss Dolores Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chapman, wore frocks of pink shadow organdy fashioned similar to the other attendants with scalloped hooped skirts. They wore single strands of pale pink pearls and carried small baskets of rose petals which they scattered before the bride. They also wore similar headdresses. The ringbearer, Michael Acklen, brother of the bride, wore a white linen suit and carried a white taffeta pillow.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her ballerina length gown of sheer white organdy over taffeta. The bodice was fashioned with an organdy scalloped yolk outlined in seed pearls and buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The long sleeves came to calla points over her hands and were fastened with tiny covered buttons. The skirt was gathered full and scalloped at the bottom. Her elbow length veil fell from a bonnet covered in organdy over taffeta with lilies of the valley on either side. The bride wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and a penny in her shoe. She carried a heart shaped bouquet of white split carnations, stock, lilies of the valley, tulle, and satin ribbon. It was centered with a white, purple throated orchid from which fell streamers of split carnations and ribbon. Her dress was the creation of her aunt, Mrs. Dan Chapman. The bride's and attendants' flowers were all fashioned by the groom's mother.

Mrs. Acklen chose for her daughter's wedding a brown and white sheer silk with matching brown and white accessories. Mrs. Brunson, mother of the groom, was attired in a pink lace model with white accessories. Both wore corsages of brown baby orchids.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The guests were greeted at the door by the mothers, the bride and groom, and members of the wedding party.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white hand drawn tablecloth with a center arrangement of white gladioli and daisies. On either side were triple crystal candelabra with burning white tapers. On one end was the punch bowl presided over alternately by Mrs. Clyde McKay and Mrs. Tom McKay, aunts of the bride. On the other end was the beautiful three-tiered round wedding cake made by Mr. Louis Bledsoe of Alto. The confection was decorated with lilies of the valley and topped with a bride and groom standing in front of a lace heart. It was encircled with white roses and tulle. Mrs. T. L. Gates, aunt of the bride, presided at the cake service after the bride and groom had cut the first slice. Helping extend courtesies were Mrs. H. C. Gillen, aunt of the bride, and Miss Nell McDonald. The brides table and reception rooms were decorated by her aunt, Mrs. H. C. Gillen.

Mrs. Brunson graduated from Mangham High School where she was an outstanding music student of Mrs. B. N. Hixon. She is now a sophomore at N. L. S. C. majoring in elementary education.

Lt. Brunson graduated from Rayville High School and attended N. L. S. C. and L. S. U. before entering the U. S. Air Force. On June 1 he was presented with the silver wings of a jet fighter pilot at Williams Air Force Base in Chandler, Arizona.

Lt. and Mrs. Brunson are now stationed in Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith of Chatham announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jo Ann, to Clifford Ray Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Bryan of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of early August.

Dishcloths made from a mixture of cotton and dynel are said to dry faster, have greater strength, and become less dingy-looking.

BECOMES ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Van Sr. announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Miss Barbara Ann Van to Lloyd R. Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Ray Sr. of Seminole Oklahoma. The wedding will take place on July 4.

Halley-Mayer Wedding Is Solemnized In Ferriday

An impressive candlelight ceremony marked the wedding of Miss Jeane Marie Mayer, daughter of Mrs. Jeanne Bergman Mayer of Ferriday, to Mr. Charles Marion Halley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marion Halley of Monroe, Monday evening at eight o'clock on the roof of the Eola Hotel.

Miss Ann Bergman Mayer, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a net gown of aqua, with an aqua lace jacket. Her bouquet was of dark pink roses, and she wore a matching pink head-piece.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Chester Jack Shiele, and Miss Martha Ann Varnell. Their gowns were identical with that of the maid of honor, and their bouquets were of light pink roses, with matching headpieces.

Serving as flower girl was Anna Maxine Sewell. She was dainty in pink tulle and lace, and carried an aqua basket filled with rose petals.

Mr. Martin Dray of Monroe was best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Charles Brown of Natchez and Mr. Joe Ford of Garland, Tex. The ushers were Mr. Joe Price Lancaster and Mr. Charles Albert Massey, both of Ferriday. The men wore summer tuxedos—white jackets and midnight blue trousers.

The aisle was decorated with candles in tall white holders, each one having a bouquet of white glads tied with lace. The wedding party stood on a white platform decorated with baskets of white glads. Imported emerlad foliage made up the background.

Mrs. Elmo Edwards was organist for the occasion, and two vocal selections were given by Mrs. George Abrams. Mrs. Abrams sang "Because" and Greigs "I Love Thee."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Henry Goudhaux of Ferriday. She was lovely in a coronation model of white Chantilly lace with standup collar outlined in iridescent sequins. The sleeves were finger-tip length, and her full skirt ended in a short train. The skirt was outlined with sequins.

Assisting in receiving were the parents of the bride and groom and members of the wedding party. The mother of the bride wore a gown of blue imported linen embroidered with white flowers and rhinestones. Her corsage was an orchid. The mother of the groom wore an imported beige linen dress and she also wore an orchid.

The bride's table was artistically arranged with tulle over a satin tablecloth. It was centered with a three tiered wedding cake with traditional decorations. Small decorated cakes, hors d'-oeuvres, mints and punch were served throughout the evening.

Among those assisting in serving were Mrs. Harold Samuels of Brookhaven, Miss., Miss Emily Chauvin of Ferriday and Miss Patsy Sullivan of Clayton. Miss Maxine Gould of Birmingham, Ala., presided at the bride's book.

Among the out-of-town visitors were Mrs. Maurice A. Begman, Greenville, Miss., grandmother of the bride; Miss Blaunh Bergman, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Mayer and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hart, all of New Orleans; Miss Maxine Gould, Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Coney and daughter of Prairieville.

The bride is the former Miss Bettie Ann Acklen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Acklen, Sr., of Archibald. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brunson of Rayville.

Miss Bettie Acklen Weds Lt. Ted Brunson

A wedding of simplicity and interest to a wide circle of friends was that of Miss Bettie Ann Acklen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Acklen, Sr. of Archibald, La., when she became the bride of Lt. Ted Brunson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brunson of Rayville, La., on Friday, June 5, at 8 o'clock in the evening. The double ring ceremony was solemnized at the Little Creek Methodist Church of Archibald with Reverend Lael Jones, pastor, officiating.

The chancel of the century old church, before which the couple took their sacred vows, was beautifully decorated against a background of southern smilax. The hand-carved pulpit was overlaid with an arrangement of magnolias and flanked on either side with branched candelabra holding long white tapers and basket arrangements of white gladioli, daisies, magnolias, and tulle. The chancel rail, before which the couple knelt for the benediction, was entwined with smilax. The pews were marked with bouquets of gardenias and white satin ribbon.

Mr. Chapman McKay and Mr. Floyd Bruce Boughton served as ushers. "Wonderful One", was played softly as they lighted the candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Edmund Brown rendered a program of prenuptial music consisting of favorites of the bride. She was also the pianist for the bride's sister several years ago when she became the bride of the groom's brother. Mrs. Brown accompanied Mr. Sidney McKay who sang, "Through The Years" and quoted Elizabeth B. Browning's sonnet, "How Do I Love Thee" to the melody of "To A Wild Rose." The traditional wedding marches were used as the processional and recessional. "Clair de Lune" was played softly throughout the ceremony. At the close of the ceremony Mrs. Paul Chapman sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Mary Lynn Brunson, sister of the bride, was attired in a ballerina length gown of ice blue organdy over taffeta. Miss Gloria Dean Grant in nile green organdy over taffeta and Miss Patricia Chapman in pink were the bridesmaids. Their dresses were fashioned similar to the bride's with a scalloped neckline, sleeveless bodice, and full gathered skirts. They wore single strands of pearls. Each carried a heart shaped bouquet of white split carnations, stock, tulle, and satin ribbon. They wore coronet headdresses to match their bouquets.

The flower girls, Miss Judy Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Chapman, and Miss Dolores Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chapman, wore frocks of pink shadow organdy fashioned similar to the other attendants with scalloped hooped skirts. They wore single strands of pale pink pearls and carried small baskets of rose petals which they scattered before the bride. They also wore similar headdresses. The ringbearer, Michael Acklen, brother of the bride, wore a white linen suit and carried a white taffeta pillow.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her ballerina length gown of sheer white organdy over taffeta. The bodice was fashioned with an organdy scalloped yolk outlined in seed pearls and buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The long sleeves came to calla points over her hands and were fastened with tiny covered buttons. The skirt was gathered full and scalloped at the bottom. Her elbow length veil fell from a bonnet covered in organdy over taffeta with lilies of the valley on either side. The bride wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and a penny in her shoe. She carried a heart shaped bouquet of white split carnations, stock, lilies of the valley, tulle, and satin ribbon. It was centered with a white, purple throated orchid from which fell streamers of split carnations and ribbon. Her dress was the creation of her aunt, Mrs. Dan Chapman. The bride's and attendants' flowers were all fashioned by the groom's mother.

Mrs. Acklen chose for her daughter's wedding a brown and white sheer silk with matching brown and white accessories. Mrs. Brunson, mother of the groom, was attired in a pink lace model with white accessories. Both wore corsages of brown baby orchids.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The guests were greeted at the door by the mothers, the bride and groom, and members of the wedding party.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white hand drawn tablecloth with a center arrangement of white gladioli and daisies. On either side were triple crystal candelabra with burning white tapers. On one end was the punch bowl presided over alternately by Mrs. Clyde McKay and Mrs. Tom McKay, aunts of the bride. On the other end was the beautiful three-tiered round wedding cake made by Mr. Louis Bledsoe of Alto. The confection was decorated with lilies of the valley and topped with a bride and groom standing in front of a lace heart. It was encircled with white roses and tulle. Mrs. T. L. Gates, aunt of the bride, presided at the cake service after the bride and groom had cut the first slice. Helping extend courtesies were Mrs. H. C. Gillen, aunt of the bride, and Miss Nell McDonald. The brides table and reception rooms were decorated by her aunt, Mrs. H. C. Gillen.

Mrs. Brunson graduated from Mangham High School where she was an outstanding music student of Mrs. B. N. Hixon. She is now a sophomore at N. L. S. C. majoring in elementary education.

Lt. Brunson graduated from Rayville High School and attended N. L. S. C. and L. S. U. before entering the U. S. Air Force. On June 1 he was presented with the silver wings of a jet fighter pilot at Williams Air Force Base in Chandler, Arizona.

Bryan-Smith

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith of Chatham announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jo Ann, to Clifford Ray Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Bryan of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of early August.

Dishcloths made from a mixture of cotton and dynel are said to dry faster, have greater strength, and become less dingy-looking.

BECOMES ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Van Sr. announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Miss Barbara Ann Van to Lloyd R. Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Ray Sr. of Seminole Oklahoma. The wedding will take place on July 4.

Halley-Mayer Wedding Is Solemnized In Ferriday

An impressive candlelight ceremony marked the wedding of Miss Jeane Marie Mayer, daughter of Mrs. Jeanne Bergman Mayer of Ferriday, to Mr. Charles Marion Halley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marion Halley of Monroe, Monday evening at eight o'clock on the roof of the Eola Hotel.

Miss Ann Bergman Mayer, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a net gown of aqua, with an aqua lace jacket. Her bouquet was of dark pink roses, and she wore a matching pink head-piece.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Chester Jack Shiele, and Miss Martha Ann Varnell. Their gowns were identical with that of the maid of honor, and their bouquets were of light pink roses, with matching headpieces.

Serving as flower girl was Anna Maxine Sewell. She was dainty in pink tulle and lace, and carried an aqua basket filled with rose petals.

Mr. Martin Dray of Monroe was best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Charles Brown of Natchez and Mr. Joe Ford of Garland, Tex. The ushers were Mr. Joe Price Lancaster and Mr. Charles Albert Massey, both of Ferriday. The men wore summer tuxedos—white jackets and midnight blue trousers.

The aisle was decorated with candles in tall white holders, each one having a bouquet of white glads tied with lace. The wedding party stood on a white platform decorated with baskets of white glads. Imported emerlad foliage made up the background.

Mrs. Elmo Edwards was organist for the occasion, and two vocal selections were given by Mrs. George Abrams. Mrs. Abrams sang "Because" and Greigs "I Love Thee."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Henry Goudhaux of Ferriday. She was lovely in a coronation model of white Chantilly lace with standup collar outlined in iridescent sequins. The sleeves were finger-tip length, and her full skirt ended in a short train. The skirt was outlined with sequins.

Assisting in receiving were the parents of the bride and groom and members of the wedding party. The mother of the bride wore a gown of blue imported linen embroidered with white flowers and rhinestones. Her corsage was an orchid. The mother of the groom wore an imported beige linen dress and she also wore an orchid.

The bride's table was artistically arranged with tulle over a satin tablecloth. It was centered with a three tiered wedding cake with traditional decorations. Small decorated cakes, hors d'-oeuvres, mints and punch were served throughout the evening.

Among those assisting in serving were Mrs. Harold Samuels of Brookhaven, Miss., Miss Emily Chauvin of Ferriday and Miss Patsy Sullivan of Clayton. Miss Maxine Gould of Birmingham, Ala., presided at the bride's book.

Among the out-of-town visitors were Mrs. Maurice A. Begman, Greenville, Miss., grandmother of the bride; Miss Blaunh Bergman, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Mayer and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hart, all of New Orleans; Miss Maxine Gould, Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Coney and daughter of Prairieville.

Salad Greens All Summer Possible In Home Garden

An all - summer program of reen salad leaves should be lanned to follow the spring lettuce rop which usually fails with hot eather. It is longer than it used o be, thanks to th. new salad owl, and old oak leaf varieties, hich withstand heat longer than thers.

Bibb lettuce, which is currently favorite, is especially sensitive o hot weather. Its loose heads un to seed early in the summer. Many deem it the highest in quali-y of all. It can be grown in early ummer, and early fall, maturing n 60 days from sowing in the pri.g.

After the early lettuce harvest as ended, chicory, also known as ndive, is available. This should e sown early as it takes 90 days to mature. Two or three sowings should be timed to give succession crops until winter. Frost improves the flavor of the leaves, and they retain good quality until a hard freeze.

Endive is available in a broad-leaved type, also known as esca-rolle, and the curly leaved type which is favored by many for the first crop. Both are grown by the same methods used for lettuce.

Water cress is easily grown wherever it is possible to furnish a constant supply of water to the plants. This can be done by sow-ing the seed in flats which are kept filled with water. Corn salad is a leaf crop which is hardy and can be harvested late in the fall. Upland garden cress gives a pun-gent flavor to the salad.

In the fall Chinese cabbage leaves are delicious. Chinese cab-bage may be grown in the spring, with rich soil and an early start. But in midsummer, it always runs to seed. A late crop has no such tendency, and heads are easily pro-duced in the fall, from plants start-ed in late June.

Summer flowers take a terrific toll of the flood in flower beds. To keep the garden growing as it should, it is nec-essary to fertilize it at least once a month by scatter-ing a complete fertilizer under the plants. If you get any of it on the foliage, get out the hose and wash it off im-mediately to pre-vent it from burning the leaves. The amount to use depends, of course, on how rich or poor your flower beds are and on how often you feed your plants. If the soil is poor and the plants do not look healthy and dark green, you might spread as much as two pounds per one hundred square feet over the soil. If your plants look normal, then use a pound or a pound and a half. Of course, some fertilizer is richer than other kinds, especially in ni-trogen. If the first number in the series on the sack is higher than eight, do not use more than one pound per hundred square feet. You can mark off squares with a tape and be sure of what you are doing. One hundred square feet will be ten feet on a side. Once you know the number of square feet in each flower bed, you will know just how much fertilizer to use.

The small amount of fertilizer recommended above may be dif-ficult to scatter over your garden. You can mix it with dry soil or sand before putting it on to make it easier to spread. We believe that small amounts applied every two weeks or even once a month are more effective than larger amounts dumped on the garden all at once and at longer intervals. Your whole garden should be mulched all summer with a cover-ing of pine needles, peat moss or some kind of humus. Scatter the fertilizer over the mulch and water it in, and you will see the results in three or four days. Of course, if your garden is starving, you will need to put on up to four pounds of fertilizer per hundred square feet the first time you feed it.

There are a lot of gardens that are literally starving to death be-cause their owners never seem to think they need feeding. On the other hand, one occasionally runs across a fertilizer fiend who believe that, if a little is good, a lot would be twice as good, so he over feeds his garden. Too much nitrogen makes things grow too tall and then fall over. All this that we have been saying applies to the flower garden of perennials and an-nuals. It is best not to feed shrubs and trees from now till fall. If you fertilize broadleaf evergreens, you will have a lot of late growth to prune in September and Octo-ber.

Foliage feeding of plants has come in for a lot of attention late-ly, and there are some advertise-ments in gardening magazines and in the newspapers that describe the wonders of this kind of plant feeding. Foliage feeding is rather successful with some plants, but you had better try it out on a small scale at first. Some plants respond better than others do, and we should not get the idea that the old-fashioned way is on the way out.

During long periods of drouth, broadleaf evergreens that were planted last year may suddenly drop their old leaves. This is us-ually a sign that at some time during the drouth, you did not water them. They are making an adjustment to this experience. If you did not let them suffer too long for water, they will come out and grow new leaves immediately.

By fall, you probably will not be able to see that they ever lost any foliage if you keep them fed and watered properly from now till October. If you think they were properly fed when you planted them, just give them a good wat-ering if it fails to rain enough to do the job properly. After the new leaves are nearly grown, they should begin to take on a natural deep green color. In case they are still too yellow a green to look healthy, feed the plants with a complete fertilizer and water it in. In a week or so, the foliage color should begin to attain a deep green.

Large evergreens like the pri-vets which suffer the loss of their foliage from excess drouth can be scalded by the sun when they are growing out in the open with no shade to protect their trunks. Shade the main trunks by either wrapping them temporarily wtih burlap or by erecting a lath or burlap covering over the whole shrub. Even if large shrubs pull through after losing their foliage, they are apt to be scorched so bad-ly that they will eventually die to the ground.

The Home Shift With

Mildred Swift

Dad may be the forgotten man at a wedding, or an unnoticed accessory when the stock arrives, but one day of the year he gets the limelight. It's right that on at least on ac-casion he can be the center of at-tention. This is the day for pleasing Dad and letting him know we think he's a wonderful fellow.

I've found a book in our Ouachi-ta Parish Library that is practi-cal for those gardeners interested in landscape design. There are many illustrations to help you in making your plan or improving your planting. The book is "How to Plant your Home Ground" by Henry B. Aul. Mr. Aul is assistant horticulture editor of the New York Herald Tribune. Many of the plants he uses are not native to the south, but his design could be used in any section.

Dr. Reich from Louisiana State University has written a book on landscape design, but it will be a while before it is printed and on sale. I'm looking forward to this book. We need designs for gardens using southern plants.

LET'S TALK GARDENS

The pink rain lilies in my yard have been beautiful. They are tru-ly named because they bloom aft-er each rain or soaking with a hose. In the spring and again at this time of year they need a little bone meal worked in the soil. A light mulch to hold the moisture keeps the bulbs blooming longer.

It is more practical to sow seed of summer annuals in the beds where they are to bloom. Trans-planting is not too successful when old Sol sets the thermometer at 100 or more.

You can water the roots of plants at any time during the day, if you have a good mulch in the beds. A light sprinkling of the foliage is beneficial but be sure to do this late in the afternoon or your plants will scald.

If you have a very bad scale in-festation on camellias or gardenias use an oil spray at sundown and hose the foliage the next afternoon. It's best not to use oil spray dur-ing the summer, but sometime scale is so prevalent it becomes necessary. Be sure to read the in-structions on the label for mixing summer weight spray.

Any plant that wilts down during the afternoon is a danger signal that it needs protection from di-rect sunshine or from reflected heat. White walls, sidewalks and driveways radiate intense heat and light — often more than a plant can stand.

ALL-AMERICA AWARD

There are flowers as well as girls who win all - America awards. Two new roses won this coveted honor; Lilibet, a dawn pink floribunda, and Mojave, a warm apricot-orange hybrid tea. Lilibet was named after Queen Elizabeth, that being her childhood nickname.

A REFRESHING RECREATION

Several afternoons in the last month a colorful spectacle came floating down the bayou past our house. On close examination it proved to be a large motor driven flat about 14 by 18 feet. Four adults and six or eight children were eating supper from a table loaded with picnic foods. They were all having such fun. In their bright colored shorts and sun-suits they were a perfect picture of com-fort and relaxation. Something tells me that parents who play with their children in this manner will have few, if any, teen-age pro-blems later on.

AN EXCELLENT RECIPE

Indirectly I came in possession of a crab gumbo recipe belonging to Mrs. George Snellings, Jr. Her friends say it is the real New Or-leans gumbo. Mrs. Snellings says I can pass this on to you, so here it is:

GRAB GUMBO

Brown 2 tablespoons flour in 3 tablespoons lard (can use bacon fat). In this brown slowly a chopped onion, chopped green bell pepper, a stalk of chopped celery, 2 cloves of garlic, 1 pound of cut okra, 3 fresh tomatoes (or 1 small can), 1 piece of bay leaf, two springs of parsley. Next add 6 crabs cleaned and halved (after boiling with plenty of seasoning) or ½ pound can of crab meat, two hands full of shrimp and a ham bone. Fry this for 15 minutes more with the lid on. Add 2 quarts of hot water or meat stock. Cook slowly 2 hours. Add 1 teablespoon of file after the gumbo has cooked and the burner turned out.

Mrs. Snelling makes this gumbo in quantity and puts it in her home freezer.

JUNE PLENTIFULS

Foods on the best buy list for the last weeks in June are: ice cream, potatoes, frying chickens and local vegetables.

Mildred Swift.

Fertilizer Will Promote Growth

Now is the time the home gar-dener can look forward to making up the time he lost earlier in the season because of the rain.

Apply a 4-12-4 fertilizer (one strong in phosphorus) by spread-ing after you've finished digging. Work it well into the top two or three inches of dirt with a stout rake.

Since the tiny roots of newly germinated seeds must have pro-tection against drying out, it is very important that the surface soil be made rather fine.

Lean heavily on the rake and break up all the lumps, removing only the larger stones and excess-ive weed growth.

Adding rotted manure, peat moss or other organic matter to the soil is further insurance of a good harvest.

Sow short rows of carrots, rad-ishes, lettuce and beet seeds at weekly intervals so as to avoid having too many vegetables at one time.

Careful spading and use of fertilizer will help insure good growth for your garden.

Buy short, stocky tomato plants rather than the long, spindly ones. Set the stakes firmly in the ground before you put the plants into their holes.

Place the stakes on the side of the plants away from the wind so that when the wind blows the plants will lean against them. Use stakes at least seven feet long and bury them at least two feet.

Tie the plants with soft, strong twine and tie tightly to the stake and loosely to the plant. If you have the room you can let toma-toes run on the ground and keep straw under them.

You'd bewise to invest in an all-purpose spray or dust, one con-taining DDT or rotenone for in-sects and a fixed copper fungicide to control diseases, especially blight, on tomatoes.

The heavy rains have so water-logged the soil that the leaves on trees and shrubs in low spots are wilting. Arrange some method of drainage or the plants will suf-fer.

I would suggest digging a foot-deep hole (or larger) along one side of the plant and bailing out the water. Keep doing this as the hole fills until the wet weather is over. Then refill the hole.

Rose lovers should examine their plants to see if aphids are infesting the new growth and flow-er beds. These tiny sucking insects can be eliminated by spraying with a teaspoonful of Black-Leaf 40 in a quart of slightly soapy warm wa-ter. Repeat this every day or two while the psets last.

DIG UP the vegetable garden.

MAKE FIRST SOWING of rad-dish, lettuce, bean, beet and car-rot seeds.

SET OUT tomato and cabbage plants.

CULTIVATE shrub borders and flower beds.

PLANT WINDOW and porch boxes.

ANNUALS, such as zinnia, mari-gold, petunia and ageratum, should be set out now.

TUBEROUS BEGONIA plants, canna and dahlia tubers and gladi-olus corms (bulbs) may be plant-ed now.

(If you have a number of gladi-olus, make plantings at 10-day in-tervals, to stretch the season.

MOW THE LAWN before it gets too tall. Set mower to cut two inches high.

REPAIR bad spots in the lawn by first roughing up the area, working in a bit of peat moss and fertilizer and then seeding.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q — Many branches of our Pines have been defoliated by an inch-long worm. What are they and what can we do about them?

A — The pest is the larvae of the European pine sawfly. Control is difficult at this late date, al-though spraying at once with four tablespoons of a 50 per cent DDT or lead arsenate, and one teaspoon Black Leaf 40 per gallon of wa-ter will help. Next year spray in late April when the tiny worms are hatching.

It is best not to feed shrubs and trees from now till fall. If you fertilize broadleaf evergreens, you will have a lot of late growth to prune in September and October.

Foliage feeding of plants has come in for a lot of attention lately, and there are some advertisements in gardening magazines and in the newspapers that describe the wonders of this kind of plant feeding. Foliage feeding is rather successful with some plants, but you had better try it out on a small scale at first. Some plants respond better than others do, and we should not get the idea that the old-fashioned way is on the way out.

During long periods of drouth, broadleaf evergreens that were planted last year may suddenly drop their old leaves. This is usually a sign that at some time during the drouth, you did not water them. They are making an adjustment to this experience. If you did not let them suffer too long for water, they will come out and grow new leaves immediately.

By fall, you probably will not be able to see that they ever lost any foliage if you keep them fed and watered properly from now till October. If you think they were properly fed when you planted them, just give them a good watering if it fails to rain enough to do the job properly. After the new leaves are nearly grown, they should begin to take on a natural deep green color. In case they are still too yellow a green to look healthy, feed the plants with a complete fertilizer and water it in. In a week or so, the foliage color should begin to attain a deep green.

Large evergreens like the privets which suffer the loss of their foliage from excess drouth can be scalded by the sun when they are growing out in the open with no shade to protect their trunks. Shade the main trunks by either wrapping them temporarily wtih burlap or by erecting a lath or burlap covering over the whole shrub. Even if large shrubs pull through after losing their foliage, they are apt to be scorched so badly that they will eventually die to the ground.

The Home Shift With Mildred Swift

Dad may be the forgotten man at a wedding, or an unnoticed accessory when the stock arrives, but one day of the year he gets the limelight. It's right that on at least on accasion he can be the center of attention. This is the day for pleasing Dad and letting him know we think he's a wonderful fellow.

I've found a book in our Ouachita Parish Library that is practical for those gardeners interested in landscape design. There are many illustrations to help you in making your plan or improving your planting. The book is "How to Plant your Home Ground" by Henry B. Aul. Mr. Aul is assistant horticulture editor of the New York Herald Tribune. Many of the plants he uses are not native to the south, but his design could be used in any section.

Dr. Reich from Louisiana State University has written a book on landscape design, but it will be a while before it is printed and on sale. I'm looking forward to this book. We need designs for gardens using southern plants.

LET'S TALK GARDENS

The pink rain lilies in my yard have been beautiful. They are truly named because they bloom after each rain or soaking with a hose. In the spring and again at this time of year they need a little bone meal worked in the soil. A light mulch to hold the moisture keeps the bulbs blooming longer.

It is more practical to sow seed of summer annuals in the beds where they are to bloom. Transplanting is not too successful when old Sol sets the thermometer at 100 or more.

You can water the roots of plants at any time during the day, if you have a good mulch in the beds. A light sprinkling of the foliage is beneficial but be sure to do this late in the afternoon or your plants will scald.

If you have a very bad scale infestation on camellias or gardenias use an oil spray at sundown and hose the foliage the next afternoon. It's best not to use oil spray during the summer, but sometime scale is so prevalent it becomes necessary. Be sure to read the instructions on the label for mixing summer weight spray.

Any plant that wilts down during the afternoon is a danger signal that it needs protection from direct sunshine or from reflected heat. White walls, sidewalks and driveways radiate intense heat and light — often more than a plant can stand.

ALL-AMERICA AWARD

There are flowers as well as girls who win all - America awards. Two new roses won this coveted honor; Lilibet, a dawn pink floribunda, and Mojave, a warm apricot-orange hybrid tea. Lilibet was named after Queen Elizabeth, that being her childhood nickname.

A REFRESHING RECREATION

Several afternoons in the last month a colorful spectacle came floating down the bayou past our house. On close examination it proved to be a large motor driven flat about 14 by 18 feet. Four adults and six or eight children were eating supper from a table loaded with picnic foods. They were all having such fun. In their bright colored shorts and sun-suits they were a perfect picture of comfort and relaxation. Something tells me that parents who play with their children in this manner will have few, if any, teen-age problems later on.

AN EXCELLENT RECIPE

Indirectly I came in possession of a crab gumbo recipe belonging to Mrs. George Snellings, Jr. Her friends say it is the real New Orleans gumbo. Mrs. Snellings says I can pass this on to you, so here it is:

GRAB GUMBO

Brown 2 tablespoons flour in 3 tablespoons lard (can use bacon fat). In this brown slowly a chopped onion, chopped green bell pepper, a stalk of chopped celery, 2 cloves of garlic, 1 pound of cut okra, 3 fresh tomatoes (or 1 small can), 1 piece of bay leaf, two springs of parsley. Next add 6 crabs cleaned and halved (after boiling with plenty of seasoning) or ½ pound can of crab meat, two hands full of shrimp and a ham bone. Fry this for 15 minutes more with the lid on. Add 2 quarts of hot water or meat stock. Cook slowly 2 hours. Add 1 teablespoon of file after the gumbo has cooked and the burner turned out.

JUNE PLENTIFULS

Foods on the best buy list for the last weeks in June are: ice cream, potatoes, frying chickens and local vegetables.

Mildred Swift.

Fertilizer Will Promote Growth

Now is the time the home gardener can look forward to making up the time he lost earlier in the season because of the rain.

Apply a 4-12-4 fertilizer (one strong in phosphorus) by spreading after you've finished digging. Work it well into the top two or three inches of dirt with a stout rake.

Since the tiny roots of newly germinated seeds must have protection against drying out, it is very important that the surface soil be made rather fine.

Adding rotted manure, peat moss or other organic matter to the soil is further insurance of a good harvest.

Sow short rows of carrots, radishes, lettuce and beet seeds at weekly intervals so as to avoid having too many vegetables at one time.

Buy short, stocky tomato plants rather than the long, spindly ones. Set the stakes firmly in the ground before you put the plants into their holes.

Careful spading and use of fertilizer will help insure good growth for your garden.

Place the stakes on the side of the plants away from the wind so that when the wind blows the plants will lean against them. Use stakes at least seven feet long and bury them at least two feet.

Tie the plants with soft, strong twine and tie tightly to the stake and loosely to the plant. If you have the room you can let tomatoes run on the ground and keep straw under them.

You'd bewise to invest in an all-purpose spray or dust, one containing DDT or rotenone for insects and a fixed copper fungicide to control diseases, especially blight, on tomatoes.

The heavy rains have so waterlogged the soil that the leaves on trees and shrubs in low spots are wilting. Arrange some method of drainage or the plants will suffer.

I would suggest digging a foot-deep hole (or larger) along one side of the plant and bailing out the water. Keep doing this as the hole fills until the wet weather is over. Then refill the hole.

Rose lovers should examine their plants to see if aphids are infesting the new growth and flower beds. These tiny sucking insects can be eliminated by spraying with a teaspoonful of Black-Leaf 40 in a quart of slightly soapy warm water. Repeat this every day or two while the psets last.

DIG UP the vegetable garden.

MAKE FIRST SOWING of raddish, lettuce, bean, beet and carrot seeds.

SET OUT tomato and cabbage plants.

CULTIVATE shrub borders and flower beds.

PLANT WINDOW and porch boxes.

ANNUALS, such as zinnia, marigold, petunia and ageratum, should be set out now.

TUBEROUS BEGONIA plants, canna and dahlia tubers and gladiolus corms (bulbs) may be planted now.

(If you have a number of gladiolus, make plantings at 10-day intervals, to stretch the season.

MOW THE LAWN before it gets too tall. Set mower to cut two inches high.

REPAIR bad spots in the lawn by first roughing up the area, working in a bit of peat moss and fertilizer and then seeding.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q — Many branches of our Pines have been defoliated by an inch-long worm. What are they and what can we do about them?

A — The pest is the larvae of the European pine sawfly. Control is difficult at this late date, although spraying at once with four tablespoons of a 50 per cent DDT or lead arsenate, and one teaspoon Black Leaf 40 per gallon of water will help. Next year spray in late April when the tiny worms are hatching.

Churches

Services To Continue Throughout Summer

Superintendent To Preach Sunday At Memorial Church

The recently appointed district superintendent of the Monroe district of the Methodist Church, Rev. James T. Harris, formerly of Istrouma Methodist Church, will preach at the morning services at Memorial Methodist Church. The pastor, Rev. Ralph Cain, will preach at the 8:30 a.m. service and at the evening hour, 7:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Harris completed seven years of highly effective ministry at the Baton Rouge church before coming to Monroe early this month. He has served pastorates in this area before, one of them being Rayville. Brother Harris is widely travelled, having been chosen to accompany the celebrated Dean R. E. Smith of Centenary College, Shreveport, to the Near East, including Palestine and other countries of Bible interest.

Sunday school and services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monroe, will continue in full swing during the summer months, it was announced today.

"All the churches and societies of our denomination continue their services and other regular activities year round," said carline S. Mulhearn, Christian Science Assistant Committee on Publication for Monroe. "Our Sunday School maintains classes for pupils up to the age of 20, and everyone is welcome to attend our Sunday serivices and Wednesday evening meetings."

The local church holds its Sunday services at 11:00 a.m. at the church edifice,224 Auburn Avenue. The Wednesday evening meeting is held at 8:00 p.m. The Sunday School convenes at 9:30. a.m.

India's textile industry will be 100 years old in 1954. Starting with a single power-driven textile mill, established in Bombay in February, 1854, it has developed into a $200,000,000 industry.

3.9 babies were born every hour in Nebraska in 1952.

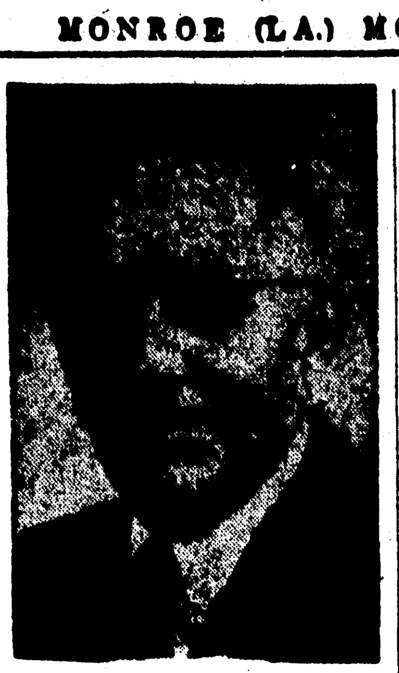
Hodge Assembly Of God Reports Big Attendance

Rev. F. C. Chamberlin, pastor of the Hodge Assembly of God Church reports a record attendance for the Vacation Bible School this week. The church is located on highway 167 in North Hodge and a parade was held the first day with 106 pupils present to carry the banners of the parade and the attendance increased daily until 149 were enrolled at the end of this week.

The theme for the Bible School is "Our Place in God's World." Mrs. F. C. Chamberlain is superintendent of the school.

Those who are teaching in the school are: Rev. David Flanagan, Intermediates class; Forest Hall, secretary of Intermediate class; F. C. Chamberlain, Jr., Junior boys class; E. W. Roden, secretary of Junior class, Mrs. E. W. Roden, Junior Girls class; Mrs. James Porter, secretary of Junior girls class; Miss Jimmie Faye Huckaby, primary class; Miss Audie Mae Cavett, secretary of class, Miss Barbara Gray and Joe Bobinson, primary class, Bonnie Vails, secretary of class; Miss Annie Ruth Kemp, beginners, Edith Lewter, secretary, C. E. Young Young and Clyde Gray were instructors in handiwork for the intermediates. Donnie Ray Hall was policeman and Mrs. Forest Hall and Mrs. Ezra Smith were general secretary and treasurer of the Bible School. Other helpers in the school were Bobby Chamberlain, Beverly Vail, Mary Ethel Clary, Mrs. C. E. Young, Fay Tubberville and Mrs. Clyde Gray.

Parents and friends are invited to attend commencement Friday night.



NATIONALLY KNOWN LEADER — Dr. John H. Paul, one of best known most consecrated Methodist evangelists, will address Southside Methodist Church Sunday at 9:30 a.m., announces the pastor, Rev. Lea Joyner. He has held preaching missions for years, making Louisville, Ky., his home. He chances to be visiting in Monroe at this time. The public is cordially invited.

Dates Announced For B'nai B'rith Institutes

President Label A. Katz, New Orleans, of B'nai B'rith, District Grand Lodge No. 7, America's oldest and largest Jewish Service Organization, announces that the Third Annual B'nai B'rith Institutes of Judaism sponsored by District Grand Lodge Number 7, and the state associations will be held as follows: Mississippi: Allison Wells near Jackson, August 24-27; Texas: Wagon Sheel Ranch, Bandera, Tex., August 28-30; Oklahome: Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, Okla., August 1-September 2.

The faculty will be: Dr. Leo Jung of New York, author and editor, director of Jewish Community Center, New York; Dr. Louis Silberman, Nashville, Tenn. who occupies the Hillel Chair of Jewish Literature and Thought, School of Religion, Vanderbilt; Rabbi Morris Adler, author, of Detroit, Mich. who serves congregation Sharrey Zedek. The state association committees conducting the institutes are: Mississippi: State President, Burt Jaeger; chairman, Arnold Turner; co-chairman, David Pachter; arrangements, Mrs. Albert Feldman; reservations, Dr. William Weiner; book shop, Mrs. Arnold Turner; Texas: State president, Herbert Levy; chairman, Dr. Morris Polsky; co-chairman, Jay Silverberg; arrangements, Hyman Marcus; reservations, Morris Barasch; book shop, Mrs. Yetta Marks; Oklahoma: State president, Henry Levy; chairman, Leon Davis; co-chairman, Sidney Yaffee; arrangements, Morris Gershon; reservations, Morris Gershon; book shop, Ludwig Eisenberg. Robert N. Banks, Pine Bluff, Ark., is D. G. L. No. 7, chairman of the B'nai B'rith Institutes of Judaism.

Registration fees are $20.00 for tuition. Room and board usually cost $25.00. Applications for registrations may be forwarded to the district grand lodge office, B'nai B'rith, 542 St. Charles Ave., New Orleans, La.

The first B'nai B'rith Institute of Judaism was held in 1948 at Wildacres, N. C. Renowned scholars and B'nai B'rith members met to explore together their Jewish heritage. District Seven held its first institute in 1951. So successful were these institutes that the state associations of Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Texas are continuing their 3rd annual institutes in 1953. The institute programs have received national acclaim, recognition, and endorsement from the supreme lodge of B'nai B'rith and from such eminent Jewish leaders as Dr. Abraham Sachar, president of Brandeis University, Dr. Mordecai Kaplan, and Richard E. Gutstadt, executive vice-chairman of the anti-defamation league. Informality of discussion, pleasant vacation surroundings, and an insight into Judaism, and the joy of good company are making the institutes the places to go for a spiritual and a physical rejuvenation at nominal cost.

The theme for the institutes will be: "Judaism in a changing world," and the curriculum plans are: 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Registration. Room assignments, books; 7:0 p.m., Conservative services (Orthodox and Reform Services on other evenings); Lecture 1—8:30 p.m., Dr. Leo Jung, "Panorama of Judaism"; reception, faculty and students; lecture 2, Rabbi Morris Adler, "Judaism and Democracy"; Lecture 3, Dr. Louis Silberman, "The Meeting of Judaism and the Modern World"; Lecture 4, Dr. Jung, "Capital and Labor in Jewish Law"; Lecture 5, Rabbi Adler, "Judaism and Social Reform;" Lecture 6, Dr. Silberman, "Judaism and the Contemporary Thought;" Lecture 7, Dr. Jung, "Married Love and Jewish Law;" Lecture 8, Rabbi Adler, "Future Patterns of American Jewish Life" Lecture 9, Dr. Silberman, "Judaism and the Jewish Writer;" summary, the faculty; presentation of certificates.

The three institute sites provide the use of recreational facilities such as swimming pool, archery, horseback riding and badminton. Sports clothes are preferable. A book shop will be operated for the sale of Jewish literature including the writings of the lecturers. All lectures are followed by group discussion.

NIKOLAI ALEXANDRENKO— This Russian, brought up in ungodly Communism, was a Russian paratroop officer in World War Two, captured by the Nazis, freed by the American Army from prison camp and saved through a Baptist mission for displaced persons in Germany. He was brought to this country by Louisiana Baptist Student Union. He is doing a fine work telling of the wrongs of Communism and the Salvation through Christ.

Silhouettes Are Varied

NEW YORK (NEA) — The plastic lucite bag has traveled a far piece on the fashion road since its humble beginnings five years ago.

It used to be that a girl had her choice only of light or dark tortoise shell. And that was it. Now these bags come in a number of shapes, in a rainbow of color and with trim that varies from gold plate to antiquated silver filigree effects as well as rhinestones, pearls and handpainted flowers.

Some even have gold or silver lace or lame set between two layers of the lucite to make a highly decorative evening bag. Others have compacts or watches (or both) set into the lid.

Tortoise shell is still shown in these bags. But the newest bags are in colors: smoke gray, mink pastel blue, pale orchid, mother-of-pearl and ebony. There's even a pastel plaid for women who like a pastel plaid.

Silhouettes offer fully as much choice as the colors. There are flat, elongated, tall or deep boxes. Shapes are rectangular, square round or oval. And some boxes have ribbed single, double or triple tiers with as many separate compartments.

Develop Grace In 'Cat-Walk'

If your figure has become stooped and rigid from months of slouching, you'll want to limber it up for your bathing-suit appearances.

Good posture, balance, poise and litheness are your rewards for the right kind of exercise. You can't expect to reduce much through them nor do you want to build great muscles which don't look feminine.

2. Bend knee of left leg and point toes downward. Bring it slowly into the heel-to-toe position. Keep walking this cat-on-a-fence way for 20 slow steps.

Ferriday Pastor Will Take Over Army Chaplaincy

FERRIDAY, La. — The Rev. Dick Griffin, pastor of the First Baptist Church will leave Ferriday July 1 to take over a chaplaincy in the U. S. Army.

Rev. Griffin has been ordered to report to Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., for assignment. He came to Ferriday from Italy, Tex., four years ago. He attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth where he receiled his degree in 1949.

During Rev. Griffith's stay in Ferriday, about 100 people were baptized into the church and the net membership increased about 200. Approximately $100,000 was received by the church and the evaluation of the church property increased by $100,000. This increased by $100,000. This increase was caused by the erection of a two - story educational building and an eight - room parsonage.

The present membership is 550 with Sunday School enrollment over 400.

Rev. Griffin previously served two years overseas in the Pacific as chaplain in the American infantry division. He has taken a very active interest in church as well as civic affiars here and is amember of the Ferriday Rotary club and active in other city organizations.

Sunday June 21st will be the seventh anniversary of the Temple Baptist church. On June 19th, 1946 a small group of people gathered together and under the leadership of Bro. Averette organized the Temple Baptist Church. This small group worked hard and purchased the property at South First and Plum St. and began the construction of a building. Through seven years this small group has worked hard and now have a fine church.

Sunday is also Father's Day and has been designated by the members of the church as Anniversary Day. A birthday cake will be cut at the close of the evening service and punch served to all who are present.

The pastor will speak at both services Sunday. A cordial invitation is extended to all our friends to worship with us on this Lord's Day.

Protect Against Complexion Woes

Complexion annoyances that may trouble you after 40 include broken capillaries, coarse pores, a yellowish skin tone, and brownish patches.

What to do about those tiny red veins, the bane of the thin-skinned. Avoid their occurrence as much as possible by protecting your skin from extremes of heat and cold. In summer, that means a nondrying sunburn preventive, used as often as necessary.

In cold weather, it means protection from wind or steam heat with a bland lotion of cream. Use only tepid or cold water on your face. Avoid facial massage and stimulating masks. Check up on your intake of citrus fruits and juices to see that you're getting enough Vitamin C.

Coarse pores are usually due to a long - standing overoily or clogged condition. Too much fat or salt in the diet may be a cause. Failure to get the skin thoroughly clean may be another. Cold water and skin fresheners are good for these areas.

A yellowish skin tone may denote poor health habits, such as lack of sufficient sleep, fresh air and exercise. You may need a medical checkup. If your skin is not also thin and sensitive, try using peppy astringents and facial masks for temporary results.

Powder for the sallow should have no yellow or beige cast. Use a cream or dry rouge not only for your cheeks but on forehead, temples and chin. But make sure to apply it in a strong light and, if you wear glasses ordinarily, wear them while applying rouge.

Garden Center Plans Initiated For District

Mrs. Rupert Scott of Wisner, initiated plans Wednesday for the second garden center of its kind west of the Mississippi river.

Meeting with her at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club was the district federation's Garden Center Committee comprised of Mrs. C. E. McKenzie; Mrs. W. A. Kunze of Bastrop and Mrs. Zollie Meadows, director, of Bastrop.

Also present was Mrs. Hazel Kautonberg of the National Garden Center specialist, who told of the aid her company and its local store manager, Mrs. C. D. McAdams, would offer.

The committee accepted plans to begin working on a temporary center to be opened September in the Sears Farm store in the shopping center of Monroe.

Mrs. Scott pointed out that this garden center will provide a link between organized garden clubs, potential gardeners and the general public for incrasing knowledge of horticulture, conservation and civic beautification.

The services will include a card index of speakers on gardening subjects, magazines, books and colored slides, encouragement and guidance in the formation of new clubs. It will provide a list of accredited judges for flower shows and exhibits and weekly flower exhibits by participating clubs.

Soldier In Korea Asks For Letters

A letter written to the Monroe Morning World was received from Pfc. Billy G. Giddens saying that by printing the letters of the hometown boys in service the newspapers do more for the boys than can be expressed. He said that one of his buddies sent his name to the Morning World and News Star and he has received many letters from Monroe.

Giddens has asked that his address be put in the paper and that all his friends write to him. He stated that no one knows what is going on over in Korea and that when you've been there a long time you need some words from home.

He stated that he would like to receive letters from some girls from ages 17 to about 25. Giddens is 23 years old and has been in Korea for two months.

Giddens' address is:
Pfc. Billy G. Giddens,

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Budren-Bearing And Burden-Sharing

Wherever groups of Christian converts gathered together in various cities, they became the "Churches" of the New Testament —at Ephesus, Corinth, Phillippi and other places. They were won to the new faith chiefly through the missionary work of St. Paul, and seem to have been bound together in a very close fellowship, either living together or in close and mutually-helpful relationships.

Under such conditions the sort of problems quickly arose that have done much to wreck most community experiments which often begin with much faith and idealism.

One of these was "Brook Farm," famous now because of the distinguished New Englanders who participated in its hopes and failure.

But the reason it did fail was due to failure of individual members to share sincerely in the vision and ideals of the founders. They did not measure up to the faith, courage and sacrifice that might have achieved success.

It was in this respect that failure, insofar as there was failure, soon occurred among these early Christian groups. Much of the comment and counsel, as well as the call for strong disciplinary measures, appears frequently in St. Paul's Epistles to the Churches.

The gospel of love and brotherhood, together with the conditions under which the Christians lived in pagan and hostile environments, called for mutual aid to a high degree. Paul put the obligation very plainly: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ" (Galations 6:2).

But Paul, himself a self-supporting worker, saw that some were taking advantage of this fine doctrine to take advantage of their well-disposed brethren by shirking their own responsibilities. So, he declared almost in the same breath, "For every man shall bear his own burden." "Let every man," he said, "prove for his own work."

That this situation was not confined to the Galations is evident in various other passages. In II Thessalonians 3:10 Paul, noting that there were among them disorderly persons and busybodies, declared quite roundly that if there were any who didn't work, neither should they eat.

The world in general, possibly making too much of some of the things that Paul wrote that Peter said were hard to understand (II Peter 3:16), has made too little of these plain principles of personal and mutual responsibility that are as valid an vital for social welfare and modern democracies as they were for the small groups of Christians to whom Paul wrote. Paul was a great believer in Christian social action, and he set down its most distinctive principles with a clear and unerring hand.

Bible Words to Live by

GALATIANS 2:20—"I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I live yet not I, but Christ liveth in me and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me."

* * *

This verse embodies the secret of living not only for Paul but for me. We never begin to live until we enter into the fellowship of the Cross with Christ. Self dies in us then the living Christ dwells in us. We live the abiding life. We abide in the living Christ and He abides in us. The living Christ needs flesh today. When we let Him have our flesh He lives in us. We live by His faith. We pass His love and give ourselves as He did. Most persons would rather see a Christian deed than to hear the Christian doctrine expounded. There is no faith until it is lived in the flesh. The world is waiting for our Christian faith to be lived.

College, Stillwater, Okla., August 28-September 2.

The faculty will be: Dr. Leo Jung of New York, author and editor, director of Jewish Community Center, New York; Dr. Louis Silberman, Nashville, Tenn. who occupies the Hillel Chair of Jewish Literature and Thought, School of Religion, Vanderbilt; Rabbi Morris Adler, author, of Detroit, Mich. who serves congregation Sharrey Zedek. The state association committees conducting the institutes are: Mississippi: State President, Burt Jaeger: chairman, Arnold Turner; co-chairman, David Pach[illegible]; arrangements, Mrs. Albert Feldman; reservations, Dr. William Weiner; book shop, Mrs. Arnold Turner; Texas: State president, Herbert Levy; chairman, Dr. Morris Polsky; co-chairman, Jay Silverberg; arrangements, Hyman Marcus; reservations, Morris Barasch; book shop, Mrs. Yetta Marks; Oklahoma: State president, Henry Levy; chairman, Leon Davis; co-chairman, Sidney Yaffee; arrangements, Morris Gershon; reservations, Morris Gershon; book shop, Ludwig Eisenberg. Robert N. Banks, Pine Bluff, Ark., is D. G. L. No. 7, chairman of the B'nai B'rith Institutes of Judaism.

Registration fees are $20.00 for tuition. Room and board usually cost $25.00. Applications for registrations may be forwarded to the district office, B'nai B'rith, 542 St. Charles Ave., New Orleans, La.

The first B'nai B'rith Institute of Judaism was held in 1948 at Wildacres, N. C. Renowned scholars and B'nai B'rith members met to explore together their Jewish heritage. District Seven held its first institute in 1951. So successful were these institutes that the Association of Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Texas are continuing their 3rd annual institutes in 1953. The institute programs have received national acclaim, recognition, and endorsement from the supreme lodge of B'nai B'rith and from such eminent Jewish leaders as Dr. Abraham Sachar, president of Brandeis University, Dr. Mordecai Kaplan, and Richard E. Gutstadt, executive vice-chairman of the anti-defamation league. Informality of discussion, pleasant vacation surroundings, and an insight into Judaism, and the joy of good company are making the institutes the places to go for a spiritual and a physical rejuvenation at nominal cost.

The theme for the institutes will be: "Judaism in a changing world," and the curriculum plans are: 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Registration, Room assignments, books; 7:0 p.m., Conservative services (Orthodox and Reform Services on other evenings); Lecture 1—8:30 p.m., Dr. Leo Jung, "Panorama of Judaism"; reception, faculty and students; lecture 2, Rabbi Morris Adler, "Judaism and Democracy"; Lecture 3, Dr. Louis Silberman, "The Meeting of Judaism and the Modern World"; Lecture 4, Dr. Jung, "Capital and Labor in Jewish Law"; Lecture 5, Rabbi Adler, "Judaism and Social Reform;" Lecture 6, Dr. Silberman, "Judaism and the Contemporary Thought;" Lecture 7, Dr. Jung, "Married Love and Jewish Law;" Lecture 8, Rabbi Adler, "Future Patterns of American Jewish Life" Lecture 9, Dr. Silberman, "Judaism and the Jewish Writer;" summary, the faculty; presentation of certificates.

The three institute sites provide the use of recreational facilities such as swimming pool, archery, horseback riding and badminton. Sports clothes are preferable. A book shop will be operated for the sale of Jewish literature including the writings of the lecturers. All lectures are followed by group discussion.

NIKOLAI ALEXANDRENKO—This Russian, brought up in ungodly Communism, was a Russian paratroop officer in World War Two, captured by the Nazis, freed by the American Army from prison camp and saved through a Baptist mission for displaced persons in Germany. He was brought to this country by Louisiana Baptist Student Union. He is doing a fine work telling of the wrongs of Communism and the Salvation through Christ.

Silhouettes Are Varied

NEW YORK (NEA) — The plastic lucite bag has traveled a far piece on the fashion road since its humble beginnings five years ago.

It used to be that a girl had her choice only of light or dark tortoise shell. And that was it. Now these bags come in a number of shapes, in a rainbow of color and with trim that varies from gold plate to antiquated silver filigree effects as well as rhinestones, pearls and handpainted flowers.

Some even have gold or silver lace or lame set between two layers of the lucite to make a highly decorative evening bag. Others have compacts or watches (or both) set into the lid.

Tortoise shell is still shown in these bags. But the newest bags are in colors: smoke gray, mink, pastel blue, pale orchid, mother-of-pearl and ebony. There's even a pastel plaid for women who like a pastel plaid.

Silhouettes offer fully as much choice as the colors. There are flat, elongated, tall or deep boxes. Shapes are rectangular, square, round or oval. And some boxes have ribbed single, double or triple tiers with as many separate compartments.

Develop Grace In 'Cat-Walk'

If your figure has become stooped and rigid from months of slouching, you'll want to limber it up for your bathing-suit appearances.

Good posture, balance, poise and litheness are your rewards for the right kind of exercise. You can't expect to reduce much through them nor do you want to build great muscles which don't look feminine.

1. Get into a straight but relaxed posture, with arms at sides, palms forward. Place right foot with heel touching toes of the left foot, so that one foot is directly in front of the other. Keep tummy pulled in and put weight on forward foot.

2. Bend knee of left leg and point toes downward. Bring it slowly into the heel-to-toe position. Keep walking this cat-on-a-fence way for 20 slow steps.

Protect Against Complexion Woes

Complexion annoyances that may trouble you after 40 include broken capillaries, coarse pores, a yellowish skin tone, and brownish patches

What to do about those tiny red veins, the bane of the thin-skinned. Avoid their occurrence as much as possible by protecting your skin from extremes of heat and cold. In summer, that means a nondrying sunburn preventive, used as often as necessary.

In cold weather, it means protection from wind or steam heat with a bland lotion of cream. Use only tepid or cold water on your face. Avoid facial massage and stimulating masks. Check up on your intake of citrus fruits and juices to see that you're getting enough Vitamin C.

Coarse pores are usually due to a long - standing overoily or clogged condition. Too much fat or salt in the diet may be a cause. Failure to get the skin thoroughly clean may be another. Cold water and skin fresheners are good for these areas.

A yellowish skin tone may denote poor health habits, such as lack of sufficient sleep, fresh air and exercise. You may need a medical checkup. If your skin is not also thin and sensitive, try using peppy astringents and facial masks for temporary results.

Powder for the sallow should have no yellow or beige cast. Use a cream or dry rouge not only for your cheeks but on forehead, temples and chin. But make sure to apply it in a strong light and, if you wear glasses ordinarily, wear them while applying rouge.

Use a natural red, not an off-color, and blend it artfully into the rest of your make-up. Rouge must escape detection as rouge.

Garden Center Plans Initiated For District

Mrs. Rupert Scott of Wisner, initiated plans Wednesday for the second garden center of its kind west of the Mississippi river.

Meeting with her at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club was the district federation's Garden Center Committee comprised of Mrs. C. E. McKenzie; Mrs. W. A. Kunze of Bastrop and Mrs. Zollie Meadows, director, of Bastrop.

Also present was Mrs. Hazel Kautonberg of the National Garden Center specialist, who told of the aid her company and its local store manager, Mrs. C. D. McAdams, would offer.

The committee accepted plans to begin working on a temporary center to be opened September in the Sears Farm store in the shopping center of Monroe.

Mrs. Scott pointed out that this garden center will provide a link between organized garden clubs, potential gardeners and the general public for incrasing knowledge of horticulture, conservation and civic beautification.

The services will include a card index of speakers on gardening subjects, magazines, books and colored slides, encouragement and guidance in the formation of new clubs. It will provide a list of accredited judges for flower shows and exhibits and weekly flower exhibits by participating clubs.

Soldier In Korea Asks For Letters

A letter written to the Monroe Morning World was received from Pfc. Billy G. Giddens saying that by printing the letters of the hometown boys in service the newspapers do more for the boys than can be expressed. He said that one of his buddies sent his name to the Morning World and News Star and he has received many letters from Monroe.

Giddens has asked that his address be put in the paper and that all his friends write to him. He stated that no one knows what is going on over in Korea and that when you've been there a long time you need some words from home.

He stated that he would like to receive letters from some girls from ages 17 to about 25. Giddens is 23 years old and has been in Korea for two months.

Giddens' address is:
Pfc. Billy G. Giddens,
R A 1832833
Co. L 9th Inf. Regt. APO-248
2nd Inf. Div. 6-0 P. M.
San Francisco, Cal.

The first Hungarian postage stamp was issued May 1, 1871.

Ferriday Pastor Will Take Over Army Chaplaincy

FERRIDAY, La. — The Rev. Dick Griffin, pastor of the First Baptist Church will leave Ferriday July 1 to take over a chaplaincy in the U. S. Army.

Rev. Griffin has been ordered to report to Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., for assignment. He came to Ferriday from Italy, Tex., four years ago. He attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth where he receiied his degree in 1949.

During Rev. Griffith's stay in Ferriday, about 100 people were baptized into the church and the net membership increased about 200. Approximately $100,000 was received by the church and the evaluation of the church property increased by $100,000. This increased by $100.000. This increase was caused by the erection of a two - story educational building and an eight - room parsonage.

The present membership is 550 with Sunday School enrollment over 400.

Rev. Griffin previously served two years overseas in the Pacific as chaplain in the American Infantry division. He has taken a very active interest in church as well as civic affiars here and is amember of the Ferriday Rotary club and active in other city organizations.

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Budren-Bearing And Burden-Sharing

Wherever groups of Christian converts gathered together in various cities, they became the "Churches" of the New Testament —at Ephesus, Corinth, Phillippi and other places. They were won to the new faith chiefly through the missionary work of St. Paul, and seem to have been bound together in a very close fellowship, either living together or in close and mutually-helpful relationships.

Under such conditions the sort of problems quickly arose that have done much to wreck most community experiments which often begin with much faith and idealism.

One of these was "Brook Farm," famous now because of the distinguished New Englanders who participated in its hopes and failure.

But the reason it did fail was due to failure of individual members to share sincerely in the vision and ideals of the founders. They did not measure up to the faith, courage and sacrifice that might have achieved success.

It was in this respect that failure, insofar as there was failure, soon occurred among these early Christian groups. Much of the comment and counsel, as well as the call for strong disciplinary measures, appears frequently in St. Paul's Epistles to the Churches.

The gospel of love and brotherhood, together with the conditions under which the Christians lived in pagan and hostile environments, called for mutual aid to a high degree. Paul put the obligation very plainly: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ" (Galations 6:2).

But Paul, himself a self-supporting worker, saw that some were taking advantage of this fine doctrine to take advantage of their well-disposed brethren by shirking their own responsibilities. So, he declared almost in the same breath, "For every man shall bear his own burden." "Let every man," he said, "prove for his own work."

That this situation was not confined to the Galations is evident in various other passages. In II Thessalonians 3:10 Paul, noting that there were among them disorderly persons and busybodies, declared quite roundly that if there were any who didn't work, neither should they eat.

The world in general, possibly making too much of some of the things that Paul wrote that Peter said were hard to understand (II Peter 3:16), has made too little of these plain principles of personal and mutual responsibility that are as valid an vital for social welfare and modern democracies as they were for the small groups of Christians to whom Paul wrote. Paul was a great believer in Christian social action, and he set down its most distinctive principles with a clear and unerring hand.

Bible Words to Live by

GALATIANS 2:20—"I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I live yet not I, but Christ liveth in me and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me."

This verse embodies the secret of living not only for Paul but for me. We never begin to live until we enter into the fellowship of the Cross with Christ. Self dies in us then the living Christ dwells in us. We live the abiding life. We abide in the living Christ and He abides in us. The living Christ needs flesh today. When we let Him have our flesh He can live. We live by His faith. We pass His love and give ourselves as He did. Most persons would rather see a Christian deed than to hear the Christian doctrine expounded. There is no faith until it is lived in the flesh. The world is waiting for our Christian faith to be lived.

This Is Your Day, "DAD"

This is your day, Dad. Will you take time out to listen to some of the things I want very much to say? You are always deep in doing something; somehow there's never a right time for handing you bouquets. I am afraid we'd both act foolish if I tried to tell you, face to face, out loud, fancy words of gratitude and praise. Even on paper I can't use sticky adjectives for you, Dad . . . that's not your dish. Orchids, adjectives . . . Mother loves them, God bless her! . . . but for you, Dad, I'll put it to you straight: YOU ARE AN OK GUY, THROUGH AND THROUGH.

I am beginning to see what it takes to hold up your end of the plank, Dad . . . to keep plugging along, day, after day, facing the same old grind, taking the licks from a crabbed public, juggling living expenses, figuring what's best to do now and planning for a family's future. STAMINA, DAD, FORTITUDE; THOSE ARE THE WORDS FOR YOU.

I am beginning to notice that it is a long time between shoes with you, Dad, that you postpone buying a new hat, that you manage to make one suit serve for several, that you don't buy yourself books any more. You don't look as slick as you used to. The rent is never overdue. There are no collectors banging our door. There's always good food on the table. Mother belongs to clubs and wears pretty clothes. Sister and Brother and I have everything we need . . . without a hitch; we haven't known any money shortage. You fight that battle for us, Dad, without one word of complaint. That's LIVING LOVE, UNSELFISHNESS.

CLEAN, DAD, THAT'S ANOTHER WORD FOR YOU . . . AND FINE. Thank you, Dad, my heritage is rich.

Baptist Church Scene Of Wedding Vows

TALLULAH — In a beautiful wedding at the First Baptist Church at four - thirty o'clock Sunday afternoon Miss Billie Ann Couch, daughter of Mrs. Harold Reed Couch and the late Mr. Couch, became the bride of Gregory Stone Eaton, grandson of Mrs. Ruth Eaton of New York City. The Rev. Shirley Briggs, pastor of the church, officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

White gladioli in tall standards, palms, and gleaming cathedral candles in floor candelabra formed the decorations in the sanctuary. The nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. J. C. Sherwin, who played a number of appropriate organ numbers as the guests were being seated. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The bridesmaids, Miss Leo Adams, Mrs. Loren Horton of Magnolia, Ark., Mrs. Tom Allen of Sapulpa, Okla., and Miss Peggy Hatch of Kansas City, Mo., wore identical dresses of yellow tulle over taffeta. The fitted bodice was designed with a surplice and worn with a stole and matching mitts. The ankle length skirt was fashioned with a deep flounce and their headdresses of tulle and slippers matched their dresses. They carried French bouquets of yellow and green Marguerite daisies. Mrs. Harold K. Couch, sister - in - law of the bride served as matron of honor. She was attired in a soft green model exactly like the brides maids and she too carried yellow and green daisies.

Given in marriage by her brother, Harold K. Couch of Charlotte, N. C., the bride was radiantly lovely in her wedding gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over white satin featuring a high neckline, long sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists and long full skirt that cascaded into a regal train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of pearls and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and orchids.

The bridegroom had as his best man, Lt. Dan McCants of Camp Breckenridge, Ky., and the grooms men were Tom Allen of Sapulpa, Okla., Loren Horton of Magnolia, Ark., Edward Adams and Pearce Bailey.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Couch chose a ballerina length of blue silk organza with which she wore a corsage of white carnations and stock. Mrs. Eaton, the bridegroom's grandmother was dressed in light blue silk with bead trim and her corsage was of vanda orchids.

Immediately after the ceremony friends were entertained at an elaboarately beautiful reception at "Red Oaks," home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Ware on Bayou Drive. Quantities of native magnolia blooms were effectively used at vantage points and also decorated the stairway.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Harry Shields, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Lamar T. Loe. In the receiving line with the hostess and members of the wedding party were the bride's mother, Mrs. Couch, her grandmother, Mrs. S. R. Wall of Monroe and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Eaton of New York. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Will Adams and Mrs. Norwood Duke.

The refreshment table, with its imported lace cloth, held the tiered wedding cake embossed with yellow flowers placed at one end and at the opposite end a lovely silver punch bowl. An artistic bouquet of white flowers as a centerpiece with trays of dainty sandwiches and confections completed the appointments. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Watson McDonald, Mrs. J. R. Wallace, Mrs. C. Z. Couch and Misses Dorothy and Grace Falkenshimer of Vicksburg, cousins of the bride. On the buffet white tapers in branched silver candelabra and festoons of white tulle extending to an arrangement of magnolias added to the decorative scheme.

In the games room, Miss Jimmie Smith, Mrs. Earl Johnson and Mrs. Bryan Hutto greeted the guests and served refreshing iced punch at a table draped with white organdy over satin and centered with gardenias. Guests were then directed to the attractive patio where Mrs. Horace Lee, Miss Babs Pollard and Miss Dorothy Jane Stocks also served refreshing punch.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Eaton are graduates of Northwestern University School of Speech and are employed by National Broadcasting Company.

Summer Design For Living

Your summer design for living should be the simple approach. Tried and tested tricks for cutting down housekeeping should appeal to any housewife. Here are some pointers well worth considering:

1. Protect your living room curtains by backing them with clear plastic shower curtains. The shower curtains may be attached easily with shower hooks to screen draperies from dust and sudden rainstorms.

2. Tack plastic film over upholstered seats of your dining room chairs. You can keep the plastic covers fresh with soap and water during the hot months and upholstery should be clean and bright when you remove the covers in the fall.

3. Make cool-looking white turkish toweling slipcovers to protect your fine upholstery. They're not only handsome but can go right into the washing machine and need no ironing.

4. If you want cool, temporary slipcovers on a broiling day, just tuck fresh white sheets over chairs and sofa.

5. If you want to store draperies from effects of the elements and a dusty house, consider using sheets at the windows during the summer months. These are ideal for certain type windows, can be adjusted temporarily to windows and used as sheets again when removed.

GETS MASTERS DEGREE

Miss Freddie Leatrice Johnson, 710 Louise Anne Avenue, Monroe, La. received the master of arts degree from Teachers College, Columbia University, at the annual commencement exercises at the university this month. Her field of study was home economics.

High-quality buttonholes are cut with the threads of the cloth. Handmade buttonholes are worked on both sides. Stitches should be deep enough for the character of the cloth. When plotting the floor plan of your kitchen take the door-swing of the refrigerator into consideration. Refrigerators are made today with the door swinging either to the right or to the left. This makes them more easily fitted into various space angles in the kitchen.

Relieve Black With Contrast

Recently we saw two older women together who perfectly illustrated the problem of color selection in clothing for their age group.

One woman had the "crow look." She was dressed from head to foot in unrelieved black. There was not a touch of color anywhere. Her hair was gray. Her face was devoid of the color relief that make-up would have brought. Can you imagine the funeral appearance she made? To make matters worse, the blacks offered no contrasts in texture of fabric.

Her companion had gone to the opposite extreme and was dressed in a melee of colors — a red hat, a Kelly green coat, a red-and-green print dress, a navy bag and navy shoes. She, too, was gray-haired and without make-up.

Black is always smart, the first woman must have said to herself. What she didn't know is that it needs contrast to help it cross the border line from dreary to chic. A bold streak of color, such as yellow or red for her hat or scarf, would have done it.

Or she could have made a contrast with black velvet, patent leather, straw or highly polished calf. She needed soft make-up to light up her appearance.

The second woman, of course, wore too many colors. And she chose two vivid colors to wear together. One color might have been her most becoming neutral shade with one of the vivid colors for contrast. Black would be a better choice for shoes and bag. She also needed the lift of a soft make-up.

Priming is to paint what the foundation is to a house. The most important of all coats of paint is the primer. It forms a quick protective film on wood to prevent the penetratoin of moisture from fog or rain.

SINCE IT would be hard to thank each person individually, we would like to use this medium to express appreciation to those who were so kind and thoughtful during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Bulah Griffing. Especially do we wish to thank Dr. Simonton, Brother Alan Davis and Brother Webber for their service.
WE SHALL always remember you and be thankful for your kindness and service. May God bless each one of you
The Griffing Family.

WE WISH to thank the many friends for their kind words, the beautiful flowers, and the nice things they did for us in the recent illness and death of our husband and father, Tony Zurga. We especially wish to thank the nurses, the doctors, and the St. Francis Sanitarium for their wonderful service and prompt attention at all times.

Baptist Church Scene Of Wedding Vows

TALLULAH — In a beautiful wedding at the First Baptist Church at four - thirty o'clock Sunday afternoon Miss Billie Ann Couch, daughter of Mrs. Harold Reed Couch and the late Mr. Couch, became the bride of Gregory Stone Eaton, grandson of Mrs. Ruth Eaton of New York City. The Rev. Shirley Briggs, pastor of the church, officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

White gladioli in tall standards, palms, and gleaming cathedral candles in floor candelabra formed the decorations in the sanctuary. The nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. J. C. Sherwin, who played a number of appropriate organ numbers as the guests were being seated. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The bridesmaids, Miss Leo Adams, Mrs. Loren Horton of Magnolia, Ark., Mrs. Tom Allen of Sapulpa, Okla., and Miss Peggy Hatch of Kansas City, Mo., wore identical dresses of yellow tulle over taffeta. The fitted bodice was designed with a surplice and worn with a stole and matching mitts. The ankle length skirt was fashioned with a deep flounce and their headdresses of tulle and slippers matched their dresses. They carried French bouquets of yellow and green Marguerite daisies. Mrs. Harold K. Couch, sister - in - law of the bride served as matron of honor. She was attired in a soft green model exactly like the brides maids and she too carried yellow and green daisies.

Given in marriage by her brother, Harold K. Couch of Charlotte, N. C., the bride was radiantly lovely in her wedding gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over white satin featuring a high neckline, long sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists and long full skirt that cascaded into a regal train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of pearls and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and orchids.

The bridegroom had as his best man, Lt. Dan McCants of Camp Breckenridge, Ky., and the grooms men were Tom Allen of Sapulpa, Okla., Loren Horton of Magnolia, Ark., Edward Adams and Pearce Bailey.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Couch chose a ballerina length of blue silk organza with which she wore a corsage of white carnations and stock. Mrs. Eaton, the bridegroom's grandmother was dressed in light blue silk with bead trim and her corsage was of vanda orchids.

Immediately after the ceremony friends were entertained at an elaboarately beautiful reception at "Red Oaks," home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Ware on Bayou Drive. Quantities of native magnolia blooms were effectively used at vantage points and also decorated the stairway.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Harry Shields, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Lamar T. Loe. In the receiving line with the hostess and members of the wedding party were the bride's mother, Mrs. Couch, her grandmother, Mrs. S. R. Wall of Monroe and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Eaton of New York. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Will Adams and Mrs. Norwood Duke.

The refreshment table, with its imported lace cloth, held the tiered wedding cake embossed with yellow flowers placed at one end and at the opposite end a lovely silver punch bowl. An artistic bouquet of white flowers as a centerpiece with trays of dainty sandwiches and confections completed the appointments. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Watson McDonald, Mrs. J. R. Wallace, Mrs. C. Z. Couch and Misses Dorothy and Grace Falkenshimer of Vicksburg, cousins of the bride. On the buffet white tapers in branched silver candelabra and festoons of white tulle extending to an arrangement of magnolias added to the decorative scheme.

In the games room, Miss Jimmie Smith, Mrs. Earl Johnson and Mrs. Bryan Hutto greeted the guests and served refreshing iced punch at a table draped with white organdy over satin and centered with gardenias. Guests were then directed to the attractive patio where Mrs. Horace Lee, Miss Babs Pollard and Miss Dorothy Jane Stocks also served refreshing punch.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Eaton are graduates of Northwestern University School of Speech and are employed by National Broadcasting Company.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Relieve Black With Contrast

Recently we saw two older women together who perfectly illustrated the problem of color selection in clothing for their age group.

One woman had the "crow look." She was dressed from head to foot in unrelieved black. There was not a touch of color anywhere. Her hair was gray. Her face was devoid of the color relief that make-up would have brought. Can you imagine the funeral appearance she made? To make matters worse, the blacks offered no contrasts in texture of fabric.

Her companion had gone to the opposite extreme and was dressed in a melee of colors — a red hat, a Kelly green coat, a red-and-green print dress, a navy bag and navy shoes. She, too, was gray-haired and without make-up.

Black is always smart, the first woman must have said to herself. What she didn't know is that it needs contrast to help it cross the border line from dreary to chic. A bold streak of color, such as yellow or red for her hat or scarf, would have done it.

Or she could have made a contrast with black velvet, patent leather, straw or highly polished calf. She needed soft make-up to light up her appearance.

The second woman, of course, wore too many colors. And she chose two vivid colors to wear together. One color might have been her most becoming neut... shade with one of the vivid colors for contrast. Black would be a better choice for shoes and bag. She also needed the lift of a soft make-up.

Soldier Requests Clothes For Orphans

"Songuhan, Korea,
"June 10, 1953

"Dear Sir:

"I am enclosing a picture of little Mike. We found him one rainy night in a ditch without any clothes on and almost starved to death. We took him and cared for him, dressed him with clothes from people in the States.

"Can you please print this picture and ask the people to send any clothes that they have and don't want to me and I will give them to the needy children over here. father. They were both killed in the war. There are thousands like him over here.

Priming is to paint what the foundation is to a house. The most important of all coats of paint is the primer. It forms a quick protective film on wood to prevent the penetratoin of moisture from fog or rain.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS By Elsie Hix

Summer Design For Living

Your summer design for living should be the simple approach. Tried and tested tricks for cutting down housekeeping should appeal to any housewife. Here are some pointers well worth considering:

1. Protect your living room curtains by backing them with clear plastic shower curtains. The shower curtains may be attached easily with shower hooks to screen draperies from dust and sudden rainstorms.

2. Tack plastic film over upholstered seats of your dining room chairs. You can keep the plastic covers fresh with soap and water during the hot months and upholstery should be clean and bright when you remove the covers in the fall.

3. Make cool-looking white turkish toweling slipcovers to protect your fine upholstery. They're not only handsome but can go right into the washing machine and need no ironing.

4. If you want cool, temporary slipcovers on a broiling day, just tuck fresh white sheets over chairs and sofa.

5. If you want to store draperies from effects of the elements and a dusty house, consider using sheets at the windows during the summer months. These are ideal for certain type windows, can be adjusted temporarily to windows and used as sheets again when removed.

GETS MASTERS DEGREE

Miss Freddie Leatrice Johnson, 710 Louise Anne Avenue, Monroe, La. received the master of arts degree from Teachers College, Columbia University, at the annual commencement exercises at the university this month. Her field of study was home economics.

High-quality buttonholes are cut with the threads of the cloth. Handmade buttonholes are worked on both sides. Stitches should be deep enough for the character of the cloth. When plotting the floor plan of your kitchen take the door-swing of the refrigerator into consideration. Refrigerators are made today with the door swinging either to the right or to the left. This makes them more easily fitted into various space angles in the kitchen.

A MESSAGE TO YOU WHO PLAN TO BUY AN OUTBOARD MOTOR

YOUR FIRST CONSIDERATION SHOULD BE
The Dealers Ability To Service His Product. You simply cannot underestimate the importance of being able to get Efficient Repairs and Parts when needed.
For 21 Years we have provided JOHNSON SEA-HORSE owners with the Best Service Facilities in this part of the country.

NEXT, YOU SHOULD SELECT
A Well Known and Popular Brand—one that will have a High Resale and Trade-in Value. A USED JOHNSON IS TOPS IN RESALE.

JOHNSON LEADS THE INDUSTRY
In Sales by a large percentage and is the only manufacturer who has built a Million Motors. In fact, JOHNSON'S current production is GREATER THAN The Combined Total of a half dozen lesser known brands.
Currently the Demand for Johnson Motors is so great that the Factory has Increased Production 40% and is still unable to provide all the motors the public wants.

SUCH DEMAND AND POPULARITY
of a product is unquestionable proof that JOHNSON SEA-HORSES are the WORLD'S MOST DESIRABLE MOTORS.
While other brands are usually readily available, we oftentimes cannot immediately supply the Sea-Horse 10 and 25 H.P., the two Most Wanted Motors in the World Today
DELIVERY on these two models even with Johnson's 40% Step Up in Production Requires 1 to 2 Weeks.

AT THIS MOMENT WE HAVE
A small quantity of Sea-Horse 3 H. P. and 5 H. P. Motors in Stock.
PRICES BEGIN AT $148.50

A MESSAGE TO YOU WHO PLAN TO BUY AN OUTBOARD MOTOR

YOUR FIRST CONSIDERATION SHOULD BE

The Dealers Ability To Service His Product. You simply cannot underestimate the importance of being able to get Efficient Repairs and Parts When needed.

For 21 Years we have provided JOHNSON SEA-HORSE owners with the Best Service Facilities in this part of the country.

NEXT, YOU SHOULD SELECT

A Well Known and Popular Brand—one that will have a High Resale and Trade-in Value. A USED JOHNSON IS TOPS IN RESALE.

JOHNSON LEADS THE INDUSTRY

In Sales by a large percentage and is the only manufacturer who has built a Million Motors. In fact, JOHNSON'S current production is GREATER THAN The Combined Total of a half dozen lesser known brands.

Currently, the Demand for Johnson Motors is so great that the Factory has Increased Production 40% and is still unable to provide all the motors the public wants.

SUCH DEMAND AND POPULARITY

While other brands are usually readily available, we oftentimes cannot immediately supply the Sea-Horse 10 and 25 H.P., the two Most Wanted Motors in the World Today

DELIVERY on these two models even with Johnson's 40% Step Up in Production Requires 1 to 2 Weeks.

AT THIS MOMENT WE HAVE

PRICES BEGIN AT $148.50

Almost finished—Be the first to inspect this home. $1600 down and FHA terms—
YOUR whole family will enjoy the air conditioned den of this large home. There's plenty of storage for games and toys of all kinds. The den opens into the large fenced back yard that's big enough for all activities. The concrete patio faces east, open to south winds. Inspect the living room, kitchen—utility, dining room, large bath & 3 B-R's 2 with air conditioning. Call to inspect anytime.
YOU'LL BE Charmed with everything about this three large bedroom—two all tile baths home. But especially the meticulous kitchen with pine paneling, natural wood cabinets with colonial hinges and handles. American kitchen with disposal and dishwasher, and easy-to-keep asphalt tile floor. Here's quality building at its best. Located in Marie Place—walking distance of new Lexington School. It takes a little more for this one but you'll never regret the investment. Don't be left out—see this home today.
YOUR GREAT reward—a home with minimum upkeep. No heavy yard work on this small plot, but plenty of comfort inside this two bedroom home. Large living room has built-in book shelves and real fireplace (also piped for gas logs)—right size dining room and a utility-breakfast room with window walls (opens outside). Two car garage with concrete drive completes this picture except for shade trees. Now vacant—ready for occupancy. See it first—and it's yours. $2500 down—FHA terms.
COOL—comfortable and convenient to Forsythe Shopping—Park—Neville and Lexington School—transportation at door. Complete insulation keeps this home cool even on hottest days—has attic fan for added comfort. Extra large living-dining room—14x23 feet with convenient kitchen with built-in Bendix. Has hdw. floors, venetian blinds & floor furnace. Investigate at once. Will GI.
SHADED—Landscaped yard 150x150 Just across Loop Road from Bayou on corner Blanch & Loop Road is worth half the selling price of this home surrounded by trees and hedges. You'll find this slightly older home with two bedrooms, separate dining room with large screened on east side and attached garage. Cooled by attic fan—tub & shower in bath. Quick action will get this home.

NORTHSIDE
INVITE YOUR friends to your house warming and let them relax on the cool screned porch—located on east away from afternoon sun—cooled by the southern breeze. They'll like the block floored living room & dining area—The girls will rave about the faultlessly planned kitchen—The tile bath and the three bedrooms. Has central heat and a carport with storage. Almost finished—Be the first to inspect this home. $1850 down and FHA terms—
YOUR whole family will enjoy the air conditioned den of this large home. There's plenty of storage for games and toys of all kinds. The den opens into the large fenced back yard that's big enough for all activities. The concrete patio faces east, open to south winds. Inspect the living room, kitchen—utility, dining room, large bath & 3 B-R's 2 with air conditioning. Call to inspect anytime.
YOU'LL BE Charmed with everything about this three large bedroom—two all tile baths home. But especially the meticulous kitchen with pine paneling, natural wood cabinets with colonial hinges and handles. American kitchen with disposal and dishwasher, and easy-to-keep asphalt tile floor. Here's quality building at its best. Located in Marie Place—walking distance of new Lexington School. It takes a little more for this one but you'll never regret the investment. Don't be left out—see this home today.
YOUR GREAT reward—a home with minimum upkeep. No heavy yard work on this small plot, but plenty of comfort Inside this two bedroom home. Large living room has built-in book shelves and real fireplace (also piped for gas logs)—right size dining room and a utility-breakfast room with window walls (opens outside). Two car garage with concrete drive completes this picture except for shade trees. Now vacant—ready for occupancy. See it first—and it's yours. $2500 down—FHA terms.
COOL-comfortable and convenient to Forsythe Shopping—Park—Neville and Lexington School—transportation at door. Complete insulation keeps this home cool even on hottest days—has attic fan for added comfort. Extra large living-dining room—14x23 feet with convenient kitchen with built-in Bendix. Has hdw. floors, venetian blinds & floor furnace. Investigate at once. Will GI.
SHADED—Landscaped yard 150x150 Just across Loop Road from Bayou on corner Blanch & Loop Road is worth half the selling price of this home surrounded by trees and hedges. The Skillet Club

By UNCLE FRANK KOHLER

Here's The How Of Our First-Rate Outdoor Grill

While we ourselves get by with a little folding outdoor grill, many Skilleteers, particularly in the South where year-round operation is possible, go in for quite a capital investment in this sort of apparatus. Otis B. Tout, San Diego Union Chapter, has 40-odd years of experience in the noble art of outdoor cookery. He has rebuilt his grill three times in the past few years, and now has just what the doctor ordered for large parties and efficient operation.

His design includes a welded frame of angle iron which provides four verticle guides, with a grill operating within this as a sort of elevator. It is suspended from four cables which are joined on a chain running through a pulley. In this way he can set his grill at any desired distance from the fire. Included are built-in warming ovens—one on each side of the fire.

In the 'elevator' are notches which permit cooking the meat vertical on a spit, and turning it as it cooks.

Mr. Tout prefers dry oak for his live coals, and states that a pile of oak will burn down in an hour to a red hot bed, and will still be sizzling two hours after dinner is over.

His preference in the meat line is top sirloin of baby beef, cut 1-½ inches thick, and it should have been hung for at least nine days. He salts and peppers them before cooking, but first rubs them with lemon juice and refrigerates them for at least two hours.

He makes a sauce by sauteing the steak trimmings in butter briefly, then adding more butter, catsup, Worcestershire sauce, a clove of garlic or two, and some dry mustard. His quantities depend on the number to be served and his own taste. He stirs all together, heats it well, then ladles some of it over each steak when serving.

He allows seven minutes to a side for the steaks. He starts them as close to the fire as possible, after wiping each steak dry, gives them two minutes there, then turns them to sear the other side, and gives each side about five minutes more, dusting with salt and pepper at this time.

Use of tongs or a spatula is recommended in turning, as a fork will puncture the seared surfaces and permit the tasty juices to escape. Hickory chips may be tossed on the fire during the last few minutes of cooking if you want that old smoky flavor.

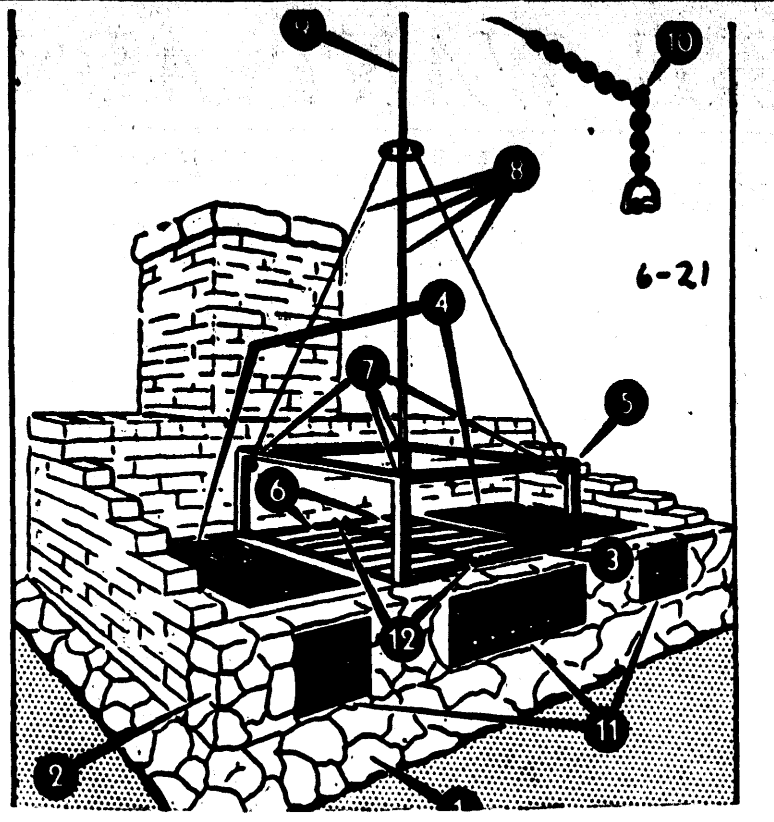
"Let each guest grab a hot plate, his steak, a baked potato, some salad, hot bread, and a slosh of that sauce, find seat and go to it!"

Two Skilleteers from the Buffalo Courier and Express Chapter have sent in quick thoughts that are interesting. Harry A Leverenz likes to skewer hot dogs lengthwise, making a hole of sufficient size to push a spring onion through each one from end to end. "Broil on your slow charcoal fire until done," he says, "place in a hot roll and add the usual."

Howard Strom goes in for Polish sausage. We find that the highly seasoned Italian or Mexican "Chorizo" sausages do as well, too. Split them lengthwise, grill over a medium fire until nicely browned.

Split and toast regular frankfurter rolls, and serve the hot sausage in them, with a dollop of creole or horseradish-flavored mustard, and a long thin slice of dill pickle, and say thank you to Buffalo.

Send your favorite recipe and a stamped, addressed envelope to the Morning World and become a life member of The Skillet Club, and we'll send you a membership card to prove it.



Here are the particulars of the barbecue grill designed and made by Otis B. Tout, 4820 34th St., San Diego, Calif.:

1. Base — 8 ft. Native rock and cement.
2. Grill enclosure: 6 ft. 6 in. (over all).
3. Grill width: 22 in. Depth: 27 in.
4. Side warming ovens: 19x27 in. Each two iron plates with holes so they can be lifted.
5. Grill guides. Light angle iron welded. Four corner posts sunk in cement underneath.
6. Grills (2) 11x27 (about) Can be bought in any camp supply store. They lie on angle bar shelves.
7. These corners fitted with small metal wheels to carry elevator cables.
8. Wire cables attached to grill bed, run up thru corner rollers and up to a point where attached to single cable which in turn is attached to pulley bolted to ceiling.
9. Cable down to link chain attached to handle.
10. These links are attached to bolt for adjustment.
11. Metal doors set in cement — three fireboxes. Middle door fitted with draft holes which can be closed or opened. Fire boxes lined with fire brick and fire clay. Middle box leads back to chimney which is fitted with damper.

The novel feature of this layout is the elevator. The grill can be lowered right onto the bed of coals or can be raised to any desired elevation. Food being broiled need not be burned. Fuel can be added easily. Coals can be poked to suit the temper of the chef.

The two warming ovens need not be attached to the chimney. A couple of shavels of live coals in either or both will keep the top warm. They may also be fitted with metal smoke stacks to smoke meats, fish, etc.

12. Nibs to hold spit for turning as meat roasted. Spit can be attached to slow motor if so desired.

Use of tongs or a spatula is recommended in turning, as a fork will puncture the seared surfaces and permit the tasty juices to escape. Hickory chips may be tossed on the fire during the last few minutes of cooking if you want that old smoky flavor.

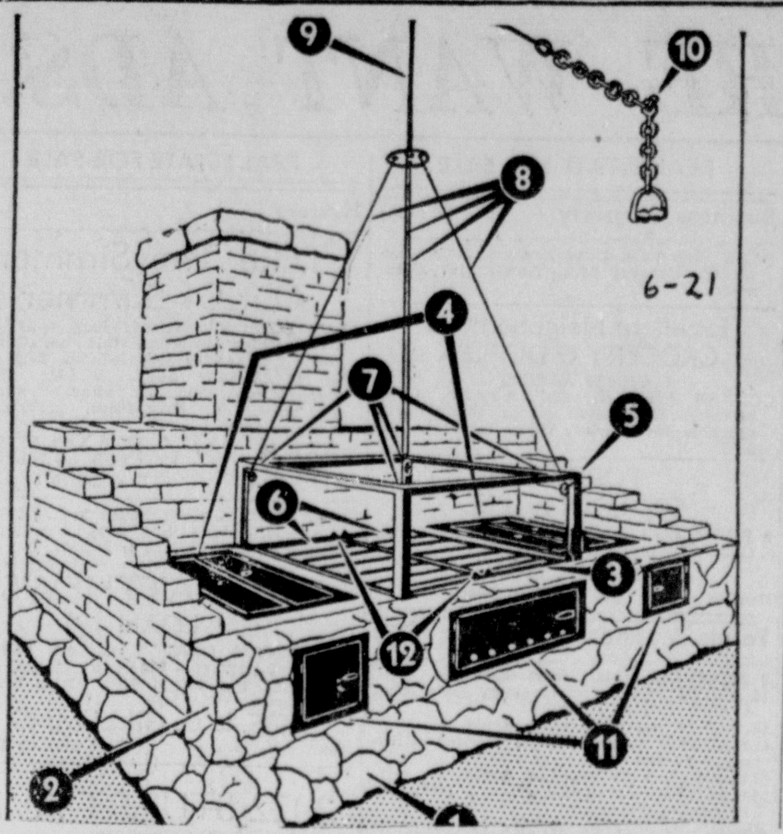
"Let each guest grab a hot plate, his steak, a baked potato, some salad, hot bread, and a slosh of that sauce, find seat and go to it!"

Two Skilleteers from the Buffalo Courier and Express Chapter have sent in quick thoughts that are interesting. Harry A Leverenz likes to skewer hot dogs lengthwise, making a hole of sufficient size to push a spring onion through each one from end to end. "Broil on your slow charcoal fire until done," he says, "place in a hot roll and add the usual."

Howard Strom goes in for Polish sausage. We find that the highly seasoned Italian or Mexican "Chorizo" sausages do as well, too. Split them lengthwise, grill over a medium fire until nicely browned.

Split and toast regular frankfurter rolls, and serve the hot sausage in them, with a dollop of creole or horseradish-flavored mustard, and a long thin slice of dill pickle, and say thank you to Buffalo.

Send your favorite recipe and a stamped, addressed envelope to the Morning World and become a life member of The Skillet Club, and we'll send you a membership card to prove it.



Here are the particulars of the barbecue grill designed and made by Otis B. Tout, 4829 34th St., San Diego, Calif.:

1. Base — 8 ft. Native rock and cement.
2. Grill enclosure: 6 ft. 6 in. (over all).
3. Grill width: 22 in. Depth: 27 in.
4. Side warming ovens: 19x27 in. Each two iron plates with hoies so they can be lifted.
5. Grill guides. Light angle iron welded. Four corner posts sunk in cement underneath.
6. Grills (2) 11x27 (about) Can be bought in any camp supply store. They lie on angle bar shelves.
7. These corners fitted with small metal wheels to carry elevator cables.
8. Wire cables attached to grill bed, run up thru corner rollers and up to a point where attached to single cable which in turn is attached to pulley bolted to ceiling.
9. Cable down to link chain attached to handle.
10. These links are attached to bolt for adjustment.
11. Metal doors set in cement — three fireboxes. Middle door fitted with draft holes which can be closed or opened. Fire boxes lined with fire brick and fire clay. Middle box leads back to chimney which is fitted with damper.

The novel feature of this layout is the elevator. The grill can be lowered right onto the bed of coals or can be raised to any desired elevation. Food being broiled need not be burned. Fuel can be added easily. Coals can be poked to suit the temper of the chef.

The two warming ovens need not be attached to the chimney. A couple of shavels of live coals in either or both will keep the top warm. They may also be fitted with metal smoke stacks to smoke meats, fish, etc.

12. Nibs to hold spit for turning as meat roasted. Spit can be attached to slow motor if so desired.

Your nose tells you what your eyes can't see

When a city woman visits in the country, one of the things she welcomes most is sleeping in country-clean sheets. Her nose senses the difference right away.

For when sheets are really clean, they smell clean. They don't have a chemical odor. And certainly not a stale, sour smell.

How about your sheets? Would you like them to have that swinging-in-the-breeze freshness every time you wash them? They will if you use SURF. For when you wash them with SURF, they smell like sunshine.

And they smell this way whether you wash them on rainy days or bright ones, whether you dry them indoors or out. And this goes for all your laundry. Everything will radiate this sunshine freshness.

Why not prove this to yourself next trip to your grocer's? Buy a box of SURF and compare it with any other detergent. Compare it for getting clothes white, for getting colors bright. Compare its rich, long-lasting suds. And when your wash is done, end the day in SURF-sweet sheets that invite pleasant dreams.
